Real Advertising Rates.
Gold and Rabbits' Feet.
Never Give Up Hope.
They All Would Convert Us.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MERCHANTS AND others that sometimes worry about advertising rates in this country might find comfort talking to Mr. L. A. Plummer, Lord Beaverbrook's very able young managing director of the London Express, now in New York.

At a luncheon given yesterday by Joseph V. Connolly, head of W. R. Hearst's syndicates, Mr. Plummer talked about advertising rates in Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, with circulation forced up to 2,083,000, of something over two dollars and thirty cents an agate line.

The venerable London Times, which gets advertising, deserved or not, with only 160,000 circulation, charges more than one dollar and fifty cents an agate line. That should make American advertisers appreciate their bargains.

THE CHEAPEST advertising in proportion to circulation and results, the best advertising in America, or in the world, for that matter, is the full page in colors in the American Weekly, distributed each week with five million copies of W. R. Hearst's Sunday newspapers. A page in colors in the American Weekly costs only $16,000.

To send a full page in colors, by mail, to five million different addresses, with the envelope open, would cost $50,000 for postage at one cent a copy, $50,000 for the paper and printing in colors, to say nothing of the cost of mailing. And circulars by mail are not read.

This is written for the benefit of American business men that want to stimulate sales.

Albert D. Lasker, head of the big advertising firm of Lord & Thomas; Arthur Kudner, of Erwin Wassy & Company, and others, most intelligent advertisers in America, can tell those interested about the American Weekly.

It goes into five million American homes every Sunday, and is bought in every one of them for ten cents. And this is said for the benefit of advertisers.

IF YOU saw white or colored gentlemen bidding against each other for the feet of graveyard rabbits, running the price up to many dollars a foot, you would smile.

You may smile as condescendingly when the British Empire and the United States of America bid against each other for gold, running the price up two dollars an ounce in one day.

Pleasant for those that sell the gold, but what about taxpayers that have to supply money for all this bidding.

ACCORDING TO latest advices, Uncle Sam is bidding $31.36 an ounce for gold, to be paid for by the R. F. C. in ninety-day debentures. The U. S. A. bids twenty-two cents an ounce above the price bid by London. This makes our dollar worth not quite sixty-six cents in gold.

It must amuse the British, for they have the gold, our own supply amounting to little. Britain can stand the bidding if we can, especially as important new gold discoveries have recently been made in South Africa as well as in Australia, and the possibilities in northwestern Canada are unlimited.

IF UNCLE SAM intends to keep on with his bidding, he might well go out and dig some gold.

A PRISONER in the death cell hopes until the last minute; even as he goes through the little door, with the back of his head shaved for the electrode, he still hopes. Frightened, weak, discouraged men, thinking of suicide, should also keep hope to the very last and therefore never commit suicide.

Unfortunate Harry Brown, of Freeport, Long Island, gave up hope just one hour too soon. He had turned on the gas in his little flat and killed himself as Mrs. Caroline Lockwood knocked at his door, eagerly, to give him good news that she had a job for him.

Never give up, whether you have lost fifty million dollars or an eighteen-dollar-a-week job. There are always better days ahead and unlimited possibilities in every hour.

BERLIN PLANS an active program "to Hitlerize the whole world," all on a peaceful basis. Foreign correspondents are taken through German chemical factories, to prove that no poisonous war gases are manufactured.

Stalin in Moscow expects to convert the world to Communism, or Leninism, or Marxism, or whatever it is.

Mustapha Kemal, in far away Turkey, you may be sure, plans to make the world adopt his modified theories of Mohammed, combined with government theories of Kemal.

And Mussolini, head of all dictators, original, thinks that what everybody needs is Fascism.

Here, we haven't started any "ism" yet. We are simple capitalistic bourgeios, pushing up the price of gold with silly international bidding, pushing down the value of the dollar, pushing up the cost of living by increased prices, and with problems ahead.

IN WORCESTER, Mass., two patient men, after seven years' work, have produced a volume of twenty-eight pages of verses of the Rubaiyat, which they believe to be the smallest book in the world. It weighs less than a one-carat diamond, is smaller than half the size of an ordinary postage stamp.

Printed in ordinary type this book could contain more than men know about the answers to two extremely important questions: How did we get here,

'REPEATER' SAFEGUARD FAILS TO WORK

Probability of Using Equipment on Nov. 7 Dims

The probability that voting machines will not be used in the election November 7 increased substantially today when the Bureau of Elections discovered that the indorsed candidate links on the machines would not prevent repeating.

That is just what the links are designed to do. When proper links are attached to the machine they make it impossible for a voter to vote for any candidate who happens to be on more than one ticket.

FLAW DISCOVERED

When machinists for the bureau began setting up machines today they discovered that the links were not fulfilling their purpose.

Albert Lauer, chief mechanic, told Bureau officials that the links would function properly if the machines were operated honestly. But, he added, anyone with the inclination and knowledge could vote for a candidate on as many tickets as there were parties which had indorsed the candidate.

Lauer previously told the Harris investigating committee that he believed the links to be satisfactory.

LINKS CONDEMNED

A sufficient number of links had been provided to equip 400 machines for use in the first 10 Pittsburgh wards and in the cities of McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

Whether new links would be ordered was a question which Maj. William T. Rees, chief of the Bureau of Elections, was to discuss later with the County Commissioners.

That they could be obtained and installed in time to make the machines usable was considered unlikely.

Democrats Fight for First Place on Ballot

The Democratic party, represented by William N. McNair, mayoralty nominee, and David L. Lawrence, county chairman, today began a fight for first place on the ballot att he November election.

They asked for a writ of alternative mandamus on the County Commissioners to compel them to show cause why the Democratic ticket should not be given precedence over the Republican nominees, because of the fact that Roosevelt carried Allegheny County over Hoover last November by 37,513 votes.

Discussion brought out that three-fourths of the Allegheny County ballots already had been printed. Judge W. Heber Dithrich, intimating the time was too short for a change, set Saturday for a hearing before a full bench.

The Republican ticekt was given first place because the Republican ticket carried the state at the last general election.

Mrs. Harry G. Samson, chairman of the Women's Civic Committee of the Council of Churches, denied today that her organization had indorsed William N. McNair for Mayor, "except as individuals."

She said that her committee, composed of seven women, had given its approval to Democratic Candidate McNair and his councilmanic ticket and to Gustav L. Schramm, Democratic candidate for Juvenile Court. She added:

"But we certainly did not presume to speak for the council nor for any of its members other than ourselves. We have no right to do so. The council never indorses anyone."

Rug Mrs. Astor Wanted Sold at J. V. Auction

By HIRAM HOWARD
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 26.—The visible glories of J. V. Thompson's abortive career as a coal baron were being parcelled out today to strangers—at cut prices.

Under a grat tent erected on Oak Hill—the manorial estate where Thompson saw his coal empire wax and wane—a corps of auctioneers genteely took bids from a crowd of 1,000 collectors of antiques.

Among them were some entitled to be present by wealth and position and many who merely were curious.

That famous Kermanshah rug, for which "J. V." outbid Mrs. John Jacob Astor in Constantinople, went to Mrs. Charles Frock, wife of Uniontown's most prominent Democratic druggist.

"J. V." took the rug from Mrs. Astor's hands when he upped the price from $19,500 to $20,000 in those old successful days. Mrs. Frock got it today for $2,400.

That was the day's highest bid. The lowest successful bid was $3.50, for which Dr. C. H. Burton, of Baltimore, bought a privately printed copy of Shakespeare's sonnets, "as good as new, ladies and gentlemen."

Those Aubusson tapestry chairs, with a little of the magnificense of Louis XV still implicit in their gilt, were split up among various bidders. Col. Charles A. Brooks, A. and P.'s president, took a few, as did Mrs. A. W. Robertson, wife of the Westinghouse Electric board chairman. To her also went the famous mirror from the Venetian Doges' palace.

Mrs. C. Lawrence Cook, wife of the chief auctioneer, bought the jug of smelling salts which J. V.'s divorced "Honey" Hawes once used. She though she might need it before the sale ended.

Col. Brooks took the two famous 30-pound solid silver candelabra for $350.

WHITE HOUSE HEARS MINE STRIKERS

Hynes, Ryan Demand Steel Subsidiaries Recognize Union

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson today were asked by a delegation of Fayette and Greene County strike leaders to put into effect in the captive coal mines the same working conditions now prevailing in the commercial mines, plus recognition of the United Mine Workers' Union.

The delegation arrived at the White House shortly after President Roosevelt announced that the steel corporation heads, operators of the captive mines, had been ordered to report in Washington next Monday.

Heading the mine delegation were William Hynes, president of District No. 4, United Mine Workers, and Martin Ryan, leader of the captive mine strikers.

DUPLICATE PETITIONS

They made their request both to Gen. Johnson and at the White House, presenting duplicate petitions, signed by Hynes, Ryan, Andrew Ritchie, W. R. Minerd, James Arthur Hall, Joseph Brady, Ralph Courtley and John E. Johnson.

Asserting that it represented the wishes of 15,000 miners, the petition asked that the President and recovery administration effect, as early as possible, a settlement of the controversy; and that the terms be similar to the com-

COLD SETS NEW OCT. 26 RECORD

Overcoats and heavy wraps were in order today as the mercury fell to 28, a record for this date, and a heavy frost took a toll of the few remaining fall flowers.

In outlying valleys the temperature fell to 20, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman reported. The official low mark was one degree below the previous minimum for October 26, recorded in 1879 and 1930.

A rapid warming up sent the mercury into the 50s this afternoon. Rain and warmer is predicted for tomorrow.

Winter's chilly grasp was felt throughout the East and South, the weather map showed. Snow-clogged highways were reported in the Adirondacks. In Atlanta, Ga., a temperature of 44 was reported yesterday, the coldest since April 22.

McSparran, Dry, Concedes Repeal

MYERSDALE, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—John A. McSparran, state secretary of agriculture, told a meeting of leaders of the Reformed Church last night he is confident the Eighteenth Amendment will be repealed.

He said, however, he does not believe repeal will eliminate all the evils of prohibition unless an effective liquor control program is put into operation.

Francies Leaves Estate to Widow

The will of John Francies, former county treasurer who died several weeks ago, was probated today. While no estimate of the estate was shown, it was indicated it will not exceed $10,000. His widow, Mrs. Ella M. Francies, was named the sole beneficiary and executrix.

$2,500 Goods Taken From Parked Auto

Four bags containing wearing apparel valued at $2,500 were stolen last night from the automobile of David Wiesen, of Brooklyn, parked in Liberty avenue, near Ninth street, he reported to police. The theft occurred while Wiesen was in a restaurant.

GANG SLAYS EX-MAYOR IN OHIO

Former Pittsburgher; Body Brought Here For Burial

The body of wealthy Benjamin Oliver, former Mayor of Yorkville, O., who was murdered there yesterday, was returned to Pittsburgh, where he once lived, today for burial.

Meanwhile in Yorkville two men were being held in the investigation of the daring shooting. They are Frank Romano, of Pittsburgh and Joe Viola, of Follansbee, W. Va.

MORE THAN ONE ENEMY!

Twice Mayor, he was a candidate for Council in the present campaign, but was not regarded as a likely winner. He was outspoken and made more than one enemy with his criticisms.

Although out of office, he still held influence with a powerful wing of the local Council.

In 1931 he was accused at Steubenville in a liquor conspiracy, but was not indicted.

Recently he became engaged in a bitter fight with Yorkville authorities. When the town refused to purchase a right of way he held in Martha street, he barred the entrance.

TALKING WITH FRIENDS

Oliver was talking with a friend outside the building which housed his clothing store when a shot was fired from a car that sped by. The bullet penetrated his back. He died in a hospital at Martins Ferry a half hour later.

Soon after Romano and Viola, in an auto which fitted the description of the slayers' car, were arrested at Bridgeport, a few miles distant.

Oliver's body was taken to the Schugar funeral home in Fifth avenue for burial Friday. Oliver, who was 57, left Pittsburgh some 20 years ago. He had two sons, one Aaron being a law student at Harvard. He was the husband of Minnie Oliver. He was born in Poland.

MRS. WINKLER DISAPPEARS

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Georgette Winkler, almost a suicide last Sunday, has recovered sufficiently to disappear.

The goods and chattels of the gangster's widow were packed yesterday at the Lake Shore Drive apartment where Gus and Georgette had lived. Today they were to be moved, no one seemed to know where.

Mrs. Winkler was seriously ill from effects of gas when the inquest into her husband's assassination opened Monday. Mrs. Fred Burke, whose husband is in Michigan Prison for murder, arrived in time to prevent her suicide.

An Honest Dollar

By JULIUS BERENS

SUSPENSION of the gold standard already has reduced the dollar's gold valuation—but this valuation fluctuates with the whim of speculation and hot and cold winds from Washington.

Essentially because of this cheapening, in gold, of the dollar, there has occurred an advance in domestic commodity prices.

This in turn has relieved the debtor somewhat. He has more dollars with which to pay his debts.

His debts are fixed. They are payable in dollars. The number of dollars available determines his ability to pay.

The outright inflationist would expand the number of dollars without limitation.

This would be wholly unfair, however, to creditors and to that important part of the population with fixed income, wages or salaries.

Definite devaluation of the dollar will induce a LIMITED expansion of the total monetary supply—an expansion always within control and yet making available to debtors a REASONABLE increase in the number of dollars which they are seeking for debt repayment.

Devaluation is a form of inflation.

President Roosevelt recognizes that a dollar cheapened in gold valuation lifts commodity prices. That is the objective behind the government's new scheme for manipulating the value of gold.

Devaluation is an inflation which can be restricted by reason of the maximum devaluation, in gold, decreed by Congress.

THE LATEST STEP announced by Mr. Roosevelt, while wholly in line with the desired final objective, nevertheless is unsatisfactory because it still leaves the country in doubt as to what Mr. Roosevelt and his advisors consider the proper gold valuation of the dollar.

Do they want a 70-cent dollar as at present?

Do they want a higher dollar, with all the hardships it would bring to the nation?

Why doesn't President Roosevelt, acting under direct power granted him by Congress, declare for a 50-cent dollar?

By reducing the gold content of the dollar OFFICIALLY and DEFINITELY President Roosevelt will only be officially recognizing what already has in large part taken place.

The President must realize that the course of events already has cancelled three-fifths of this devaluation power.

He has in his power the right, the duty of utilizing for the best interests of the entire nation the remaining devaluation privilege—to bring the new gold dollar to half the gold content of the former dollar.

IT IS INCONCEIVABLE that the President has any intentions of retracing the nation's steps back to the former gold parity.

Repercussions of such action can only be conjectured.

But they can be appreciated by visualizing the consequences to this country if all of the modest improvement thus far scored, in prices, in business psychology, in public faith, is sacrificed to the false "sound money" god.

President Roosevelt has firmly and repeatedly announced his own conception of really sound money.

It is a money which is in fair supply and which treats both creditor and debtor honestly, and both employer and employe squarely.

With devaluation officially proclaimed the President's whole task in the economic crisis would be considerably eased.

But the country at large still is uncertain as to his intentions.

He should end all doubt by formally proclaiming for a 50-cent (of former gold value) dollar.

DRYS LOSE IN COURT BATTLE

Dauphin Judges Uphold Balloting on Nov. 7

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The Dauphin County Court today refused to prevent Pennsylvania from voting on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment on November 7.

The decision sustained the validity of the McClure act, which sets up a convention of 15 delegates-at-large to meet December 5 at Harrisburg.

It was given in an injunction suit brought by national anti-repeal forces, led by Dr. William Sheafe Chase, of the International Reform Federation, Washington, D. C.

The decision was the second legal reverse suffered by the drys this week. On Monday, as the Pennsylvania case was being argued, the United States Supreme Court refused to review a similar case which anti-repeal forces had lost in the Missouri courts.

In both instances, dry leaders had attacked as unconstitutional the method of voting on repeal by state conventions. Such conventions, the drys contended, are non-deliberative and not in accord with principles of representative government embodied in the federal constitution.

In the Pennsylvania case, Dr. Chase and associated prohibition organizations and leaders, alleged the Legislature, in passing the McClure state convention act, usurped powers held only by Congress in deciding how the state should proceed in voting on a federal constitutional amendment. They charged also the state act imposed an unusual expense upon the taxpayers.

Attorney General William A. Schnader, defending the secretary of the commonwealth, against whom the injunction was directed, maintained the McClure

15 ADMIT GUILT IN AUTO FRAUD

Two women and 13 men, one a Ben Avon constable, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to charges of conspiracy to defraud, in connection with what police charge is an international ring to fake automobile accidents.

Judge Sylvester Snee, who heard the pleas, set November 13 as the date for sentencing the group, as well as the [illegible] who previously plead.

City Detectives George Brubach and Andrew Carciere, testifying that the defendants collected a total of $10,000 from insurance companies by means of fake auto accidents, said these were members of the ring.

Picks Funeral Garb, Dies in Auto Wreck

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The Rev. John C. Longanecker, of Jefferson, a retired Baptist minister, yesterday morning laid out a shirt in which he told his sister, he wanted to be buried. The night before he had explained to the sister, Miss Stella Longanecker, the kind of funeral services he wanted and where he wanted to be buried.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Longanecker and Miss Longanecker went motoring. Near Carmichaels the automobile overturned and the minister died from shock.

Sahara Desert Yields Clue to Lancaster

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Capt. William Lancaster, British airman who disappeared on an attempted flight from England to South Africa, was reported alive today in Senegal, in the Sahara Desert, by the London Daily Express.

Lancaster attempted the flight shortly after his acquittal in a Miami (Fla.) murder trial of responsibility for the death of Haden Clarke, writer, who was found shot to death in the residence of Mrs. Keith-Miller, British aviatrix.

The Daily Express reported that caravan parties in the desert have sent word to Paris that Lancaster is living in a remote section. When he started on the proposed flight to Cape Town, Lancaster said he wanted to stage a comeback and to forget the Miami tragedy.

JOHNSON ASSUMES CHARGE OF ENFORCING NRA CODES

U. S. BEGINS JOB OF POLICING INDUSTRY

Chief Lieutenants of Recovery Board Drafted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A reorganized NRA today was embarked upon the task of enforcing its dozens of industrial codes.

Hugh S. Johnson put himself at the top of the new enforcement machinery and also at the head of the national compliance board—the final NRA authority on violations before the Attorney General or Federal Trade Commission start formal legal action.

Immediately under Johnson were four enforcement divisions directed by deputy administrators. K. M. Simpson took the metals, coal, automobiles and related industries. Malcolm Muir, construction machinery, lumber, metal products. C. C. Williams, chemicals, leather, miscellaneous. Arthur D. Whiteside, trades and services.

The order also set up a trade association division under Thomas S. Hammond, of Chicago, whose job will be "to prepare plans for and to advise the organization of industry for industrial self government."

MAXIMUM CONTROL

Important in the enforcement setup was an order for procedure by which complaints will not be referred to the code trade authorities by regional officers unless specifically ordered by Johnson himself, so the administration will retain a maximum of policing control. During creation of a permanent regional organization, district managers of the Department of Commerce in two-score principal cities will be charged with receiving and seeking to dispose of all complaints of code violations in their respective areas.

Johnson also announced today that, pending formal election by the retail trades of members to the National Retail Trade Council and the National Retail Drug Trade Council, the administrative committees for the retail code, the boards of directors of the several trade associations subscribing to the codes would name the council members. Each association will have two representatives on the council except that two shoe retailers' associations will have one representative each.

Also issued were instructions to Oscar B. Ryder, chief of the imports division, not to wait for complaints, but to begin immediately a study of import statistics to be kept up to date so NRA may know whether any products are cutting into domestic markets unduly.

FILMS EXCLUDED

In creating the four divisions of NRA only one group, the amusement industries, movies, stage, radio, etc., under Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, was left outside. On all policy matters Rosenblatt will report directly to Johnson, though his office will be attached to Whiteside's division for administrative purposes.

No reason was given for this exception, but the special interest taken by President Roosevelt in some aspects of the motion picture industry, such as high salaries which he desires controlled, was believed to have had something to do with Johnson's desire to keep direct contact with this field.

In the new structure the compliance division arose as the biggest single activity of NRA, as that work will continue long after the codification is completed. In this division Johnson concentrated a number of his most able executives.

Bishop Cannon Lays Dry Doom to Mellon

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 26.—(INS.)—The fundamental reason for the failure of the Eighteenth Amendment was the indifference of the United States government in its enforcement attempts, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Church, told an audience here last night. He said:

"When prohibition control was turned over to the Treasury Department under Andrew W. Mellon, it was doomed."

GOLD PURCHASE AUTHORIZED BY ROOSEVELT

U. S. Bids Up Price Above That of World Market

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order authorizing purchase of newly-mined gold by the Reconstruction Corporation in accordance with his plan for a managed currency through control of domestic gold prices.

In addition, the order revoked a previous ruling in such manner as to permit the export of manufactured articles fabricated from gold. These exports are to be subject to such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.

The new order also revoked that part of the President's order of August 29 providing for sale of newly-mined gold under the system which was abandoned yesterday with the inauguration of purchases by the RFC.

Meanwhile, the administration sought to give increased impetus to its price-boosting program today by increasing the price it will pay for newly-mined gold by 18 cents an ounce over yesterday, the figure set being $31.54.

It was asserted at the White House later that the increase did not mean necessarily that there would be a daily increase.

Indications were voiced that so long as the American price keeps ahead of foreign market levels, a point may be reached when it will not be felt necessary to increase the quotation.

SENATE PROBE 'BURIES' LETTER ON CUBA

Violence on Island Feared If Message Is Made Public

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Portion of a letter from the Chase National Bank files was withheld from the public record today by Senate investigators after a hasty consultation with W. W. Aldrich, president of the bank.

The letter was withheld on motion of Senator Goldsborough (Rep.), Maryland, and the suggestion of Ferdinand Pecora, counsel, after a brief conference between the members of the Senate Stock Market Committee.

FIRST PART READ

There was no indication of the contents of the particular portion of the letter withheld, but the letter was from L. S. Rosenthall, head of the Chase branch in Havana, to the bank headquarters in New York, dated November 9, 1932.

The first part of the letter, which Pecora started to read, related to payments due on Cuban obligations in December, 1932, and referred to "trouble brewing."

Committee investigators said that part of the letter withheld from the record was not material to the investigation.

Pecora said the reason it was withheld was:

"Because it might lead to acts of violence in Cuba."

GRAFT LINKED

Chairman Fletcher explained the committee could consider the letter in executive session.

This action was taken after another letter from James Bruce in 1930, a Chase representative in Havana, written five months after the bank sold $40,000,000 in Cuban bonds to the public, had been read, saying that "the various members of the cabinet naturally have a big graft" in the Havana waterworks construction.

mercial contracts, including recognition of the union.

The captive coal producing companies, the petition futher stated, have refused to recognize the United Mine Workers and to bargain collectively with the chosen representatives of their employes. It adds that the state is distributing food to a limited number of miners' families, but provision for clothing, fuel, shoes and medical attention are not included. Continued support of the NRA by the miners was assured.

CONFER WITH LEWIS

The miners' party arrived in Washington last night and spent some time with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer.

At the President's conference Monday, Myron C. Taylor, head of the United States Steel Corporation, owners of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, probably will be the spokesman. He has been in communication with the President intermittently for a week. Others interested in the issue are Charles M. Schwab and Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem Steel Corporation heads; E. T. Weir, of the National Steel Company, and Jones and Laughlin Corporation officials. Whether they will attend is not known.

While the President still was confined to his room with a slight head cold, his secretary took the striking miners' petition to him.

Spokesmen Air Stand In Captive Mine Row

Spokesmen for both captive mine operators and the miners here explained the status of negotiations, and defined their positions in the controversy.

Speaking for the corporations, the spokesman said:

"The captive mine operators made an agreement with the President to take a check-off of dues for any of their men who would signify in writing that they desired to assign a part of their earnings to any organization.

"They also agreed to deal with any organization chosen by their employes as representatives or agents for those employes, which would include the United Mine Workers of America.

"The standard form of contract of the U. M. W. A., which captive mine operators have refused to sign, is a contract making that organization a party of the second part, or sole representatives of all the miners, making their mines a 'closed shop.'

"The operators set forth that under section 7A, of the NRA, they must recognize any group of employes who may not belong to the U. M. W. A."

MURRAY'S CLAIM

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, said:

"Four weeks ago Mr. Nathan L. Miller, counsel for the Steel Corporation, wrote the President of the United States a letter, saying among other things that Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, was negotiating a contract with me.

"Since that time I have met Mr. Moses but once. Later Mr. Moses advised me by letter that he would discuss questions of hours of labor and wages and conditions of employment for such of his employes as were members of the U. M. W. A. but he did not indicate that he would negotiate a contract with me, representing the U. M. W. A., in accordance with the pledge made by Mr. Miller for him to President Roosevelt.

"I have had no intimation from Mr. Moses or the representatives of any other captive mine owners of their willingness to negotiate such a contract.

"The United Mine Workers is now ready to meet the captive mine owners for the purpose of negotiating a wage agreement in accordance with the President's expressed desire and also in accordance with Section 7A of the NRA.

"The captive mine owners are merely resorting to subterfuge for the purpose of escaping their pledge to the President and their responsibility to the law."

Captive mines remained closed and picketed today, while commercial mines worked to capacity. Arthur Brown, 42, Negro, was arrested last night by state police at Palmer, near Brownsville.

REPEAL VOTE BAN REFUSED

act was fully in accord with federal and state constitutions. He argued also that the commonwealth secretary had already certified the names of candidates for convention delegates and could not be prevented from doing something he had completed.

The Dauphin court decision was given by the three judges, William M. Hargest, Frank B. Wickersham and John E. Fox.

Noting that "this is the first time that the convention method of adopting an amendment has been invoked," the court said the question has been in dispute in Congress, the courts and state legislatures without being finally settled.

The court said the "conduct of the plaintiffs" also indicated the questions presented "are not so eminently clear as to warrant the issuance of a preliminary injunction."

The decision said the points at issue were "much discussed" prior to Congress' passage of the repeal act on May 3, 1933. It pointed out that those who brought the injunction action "waited until October 13 before presenting this case to the court."

Dauphin court attaches said the decision leaves two courses open to those who sought the injunction, but asserted neither would prevent Pennsylvania from voting on November 7.

One course, they said, is to appeal directly to the State Supreme Court, alleging the Dauphin erred in its decision. This would necessitate an order by the chief justice calling the Appellate Court into special session at once, a procedure local legal authorities said is rare.

The second course lies in a petition for a permanent injunction requiring new argument and a decision on important questions which the court said it is not ready to make without long and careful deliberation.

London Sees Gold Action as 'Cautious'

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The London Times considers the gold price set in the United States by the Reconstruction Corporation "a very cautious advance." It added:

"Buying at this slight increase on this restricted market will not affect the American price level and the price of the dollar in foreign currencies."

PLEA FOR BARS BY HOTEL MEN

Hundreds of hotelmen were convening in Pittsburgh today to decide, among other things, what they'll do about liquor when repeal comes. The meeting is the thirtieth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Hotel Association.

F. L. Andrews, manager of the William Penn Hotel, who last night was elected president of the Pittsburgh chapter of the association, said that sentiment of the hotel men was in favor of a return to the bar, with strict regulation. He said in such case the William Penn Hotel alone would spend $75,000 remodeling and he estimated that hotels of this state would spend $5,000,000. He added that he favored the suggestion that John D. Pennington, long a government enforcer of prohibition, be named to any state board of liquor control.

If bars are barred, Andrews said, the next aim of the hotel men would be to allow individual drinks to be served by the hotel in rooms of guests.

GRAF PAYS FAIR 'FLYING' VISIT

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin paid a "flying" visit to the World's Fair city in the murky dawn today, dropped its commander for a day of festivities and then vanished into the grey skies.

It had come all the way from Germany via South America to show itself at the Fair.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, motored into Chicago from the Curtis-Reynolds Airport at Glenview, where the Zeppelin had been brought to earth for a 20 minute pause to embark and disembark passengers and mail. With Dr. Hans Luther, Amoassador to eGrmany, he was to spend the day visiting A Century of Progress Exposition.

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Cruising lazily in a clear sky, the giant Graf Zeppelin, bound for Akron, O., passed over Detroit at 12:15 p. m. today. She turned south here.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, en route from Chicago to Akron, O., where it will be prepared for its trans-Atlantic flight to Seville and Friedrichshafen, passed over Cleveland at 2:10 p. m. (eastern standard time.)

Crops So Good Here No Relief Needed

GREELEY, Col.—(INS.)—The Weld County relief committee recently decided that crops had been so good and work so plentiful in the vicinity of Fort Lupton, Col., that no relief program was needed in that community during the coming winter. Fort Lupton is in the center of a thriving irrigated region.

THOMAS SPURS INFLATION

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—An appeal to President Roosevelt to lift the country's crushing debt burden by announcing a definite program to reduce the gold content of the dollar was made yesterday by Senator Thomas, (Dem.) of Oklahoma.

The tall, silver-haired leader of the congressional inflation bloc asserted he was hopefully awaiting the results of the President's new dollar control plan, but emphasized his group would demand direct currency expansion at the next session if the President failed to take such action.

Thomas' remarks reflected inflationists' opinion that more drastic measures will have to follow. Many are frankly skeptical over the gold market scheme, doubting whether it will work and restore the higher commodity level the President seeks.

The Senator praised the articles in the Hearst newspapers, describing the immeasurable benefits that would flow to the nation by devaluating the gold dollar by 50 per cent, as authorized in the Thomas amendment.

DENVER, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—More than $1,000,000 worth of machinery to be used in digging gold has been shipped from Denver to mining camps in Colorado and surrounding states within the past few months, local manufacturers revealed today.

The machinery was for installation at mines that had been reopened by recent rises in the price of gold.

LABOR THREAT FACES CUBA

HAVANA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—While disorders in the capital and the interior increased, the government of President Grau San Martin faced a new labor threat today.

The potent and communistic National Labor Confederation voted a general strike, but did not decide on either its date or what would be its duration.

The strike vote was in protest against the government closing of labor headquarters, the arrests of workmen, the increased cost of living, and the "red massacre" of September 29.

As the Confederation met, Fireman Patricio Perez, wounded in the fight against the rioters that bloody day, died.

Today's disorders included the bombing of the home of Carlos Mendieta, veteran Nationalist leader, two small bombs in a street car, an attempt to assassinate Sergio Carbo, one of the leading backers of President Grau, and a soldier and labor clash at Jaronu, Camaguey Province.

Exchange President Visits Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—President Richard Whitney of the New York Stock Exchange and his attorney, Orlando Redmond, spent three-quarters of an hour with President Roosevelt today.

The visit brought rumors that regulation of stock exchanges and the recent tilt between the Senate Banking Committee and Whitney over a proposed questionnaire were discussed.

Mexican Students Yield to Soldiers

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Without violence, striking students barricaded in the university buildings were escorted out early today by federal troops.

Previously, after having gone on strike demanding the resignation of the rector, Diaz de Leon, the students had announced they would "rather die" than leave.

They'd Rather Be In Looking Out, On Cold

NEW LEXINGTON, O.—(INS.)—It was a lot nicer inside than out, so 12 prisoners at the Perry county jail here didn't take advantage of an opportunity to escape when another prisoner sawed his way out. That was what they told Sheriff James Adrian. The break was made on a cold and drizzly day, so the dozen jail inmates elected to stay behind.

PINCHOT MEETS LEGISLATORS

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Striving to reach an agreement on a legislative program to be presented to the General Assembly when it is called into extraordinary session, possibly on November 13, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, political and legislative leaders began their discussions today.

Most important of the topics is liquor tax and control.

The Governor will outline his views on proposed repeal and the liquor problem in general in a speech tomorrow at Penn State College.

Those invited to today's conference ... ude Edward Martin, Republican state chairman; Grover C. Talbot, Speaker of the House; Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon; Senator Harry Scott, Centre, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; Attorney General William A. Schnader; State Treasurer Charles A Waters; Representative John M. Flynn, Elk, and Duncan McCallum, secretary to the Governor.

FOREIGN TRADE RECEIPTS GAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—United States exports during September were valued today by the Department of Commerce at $160,000,000 and the imports at $147,000,000, a net balance in favor of the United States amounting to $13,000,000.

E. A. Tupper, of the division of economic research, said exports usually show a seasonal increase of about 14 per cent from August to September, and imports a seasonal decline of 1 per cent.

This year the value of exports advanced 2.2 per cent while the value of imports declined 5 per cent.

Net customs receipts increased from $32,204,000 in August to $32,936,000 in September, the seventh consecutive monthly advance and the largest collection in any month since October, 1931.

Herron Hits Welfare Aid To Housing Group

Mayor John S. Herron today charged the Pittsburgh Housing Association with playing politics and challenged its right to participate in the Welfare Fund.

The Mayor's remarks were addressed to a meeting in Council Chamber of workers of the Welfare Fund, headed by William F. Maxwell, director, and city department leaders for the purpose of stimulating contributions by the payroll.

Herron said:

"The housing association should be taken out of the Welfare Fund. John W. Ihdler, secretary of the association, took Mr. McNair, Democratic mayoralty nominee, up on the Hill and showed him a few choice spots. Ihdler is using this as a political issue. He always bobs up around election time. The boys are getting tired of giving money to a man like that."

Dr. William W. McFarland, health director, declared:

"Ihdler wants to correct conditions on the Hill that cannot be corrected. He tries to make these conditions campaign issues. He is an impractical theorist."

Maxwell contended that the whole welfare program should not be organized by one man.

The Mayor, modified pledged co-operation of the city departments in the welfare drive. The purpose was a $1,000,000 fund for relief and support of needy persons, an increase of $250,000 over last year. He also favored the No. 2 issue, which provides for the $20,000,000 state bond issue for relief and hospitals.

First Lady Lost 3 Hours On Muddy Roads

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—Heads of Philadelphia motor clubs today rose in rhetorical protest against the complaints of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, who was lost on the road for three hours while attempting to find a "short cut" to the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt, former wife of her son, Elliott, at Ithan, a suburb.

Her shoes spattered with mud, Mrs. Roosevelt and her secretary finally arrived in the First Lady's own blue roadster—several hours late for the luncheon which Mrs. Donner Roosevelt gave yesterday afternoon.

"Your back roads were almost too much for me," Mrs. Roosevelt confessed to newspapermen. "I hate to admit it, but I got lost."

Hearing of her plight, local auto clubs dispatched several sets of maps to the home of Mrs. Donner Roosevelt, but they arrived after the First Lady's departure and will be mailed.

Frank E. Ballantyne, general manager of the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, observed:

"If Mrs. Roosevelt would come oftener she would get used to our roads. It is very regrettable that she got lost because the roads were not sufficiently marked."

BAIL BOOSTED FOR SUSPECT LINKED TO LINDY KIDNAPING

'GIRL FRIEND' ALSO UNDER HIGHER BOND

Universal Service.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Bail was increased from $10,500 to $30,000 today for John Gorch, alleged swindler, who also is the center of a new investigation of the $50,000 Lindbergh baby ransom.

At the same time Judge Charles T. Carr in Municipal Court boosted bail of Gorch's girl friend, Evelyn Klimasginska, from $50 to $10,500.

Inspectors Arthur Tiernan and William J. Bonner, who arrested the pair Saturday night, had them taken to court so that higher bail would be asked.

Gorch yesterday denied any connection with the Lindbergh case, under an hour's grilling by Lieut. Finn, of the New York Detective Bureau, and Corp. William E. Horne, of New Jersey State Police.

These two officers, however, are remaining here for several days to check further Lindbergh clues.

Inspector Bonner was instructed by Deputy Supt. James McDevitt to cite the Lindbergh case in asking Judge Carr for higher bail, but Bonner was busy in another courtroom at the time of today's arraignment, and Tiernan based his plea entirely on warrants received from New York and New Jersey.

Gorch's counsel, Herbert Callahan, argued that the existence of these warrants had already caused the setting of high bail on the original arraignment.

Judge Carr replied he could not disregard the fact that, with the warrants here, Gorch had more incentive to flee if bailed.

Gorch is charged with larceny of $3,500 from Rose Ginsberg, of Brighton, by selling her glass "diamonds." Both he and the girl are charged with a statutory offense.

In the warrants received from New York and New Jersey both defendants are charged with larceny of $3,000 from Mary Butryan in New Jersey. Gorch also is charged with larceny of $3,000 from Helen Kaminski, in New York, and with impersonating a federal immigration officer in Trenton, N. J.

Lindberghs Flying Towards England

The Lindberghs, who flew here yesterday from Galway, I. F. S., were believed en route to Southampton, Eng.

M'DADE SENIOR JAILED AS FLIRT

James E. McDade, 69-year-old father of Edward J. McDade, 24, arrested in connection with the reported jealousy suicide of his young wife, today was accused of annoying small girls in his son's theater.

McDade was arrested in the Elliott Theater, Lorenz avenue, and collapsed shortly after being taken to Central Police Station to await hearing. He was taken to Mercy Hospital, where it was said he was suffering from nervousness and high blood pressure.

Detective Lieut. Edward Harkins, who made the arrest, said a number of complaints had reached the detective bureau that an elderly man was annoying girls in the theater. The complaints were investigated by Policewomen Ida Rockenbrode and Nell McDonnell.

McDade's son was arrested October 17, a day after the death of his wife, Grace, 21, from injuries suffered, the husband told detectives, when she leaped from their automobile near their home, 2136 Charles street. The younger McDade was held over when arraigned in Morals Court along with Mary K. Danahey, 16, a taxidancer, of Hope Hollow road, Carnegie, over whom he and his wife had quarreled.

Woman Finds Snake Asleep on Bed

M'CLURE CALLED BREWERY BOSS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—D. Harvey Sykes, former Constable, testified today that he paid State Senator John J. McClure between $25,000 and $30,000 as tribute which the Senator had assessed on smugglers landing liquor in and near Chester.

The witness said this sum was turned over between the time he first became McClure's collector along the Delaware River in 1929, until he went to jail on charges of extortion the next year.

Describing McClure as the head of a "protection" organization which operated throughout Delaware County, and as "the boss" of a brewery producing "high-powered beer," Sykes was on the stand for the third day in the federal trial of the Senator and 75 others accused of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

He told of carrying big rolls of greenbacks to McClure's office after each landing of a liquor ship, first paying the wharf foreman and policemen and taking a "cut" for himself.

ICE PICK DEATH 'TIP' FAILS

Speeding to a barbecue in East McKeesport, near the cemetery where the slain Volpes were buried and within sight of the culvert where the body of John Aliberti was found on Long Run road, city and county detectives early today questioned a well-known racketeer who a "tipster" said was the slayer.

The "tip" came from Wilmerding, detectives said.

The racketeer, who at first denied knowing Aliberti, but later admitted acquaintance with the slain gangster, convinced detectives that he knew nothing of the murder.

Aliberti, a friend of the Volpes, was found dead last week, his skull fractured and his body pierced by 60 ice pick wounds.

ROCKEFELLER'S TRUST FUND ATTACKED

Grandchild Fights Change in Terms Of Agreement

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard, of Middletown, Conn., charged in a Supreme Court action filed yesterday that her grandfather, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., had no legal right to change the terms of a trust fund established for her mother, the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick, of Chicago.

Under terms of the trust fund after the change was made, Mrs. Hubbard asserted, the late Mrs. McCormick could not bequeath the fund to her children outright. Mrs. Hubbard's action was in answer to a suit brought by the Chase National Bank, fund trustee, against the Chicago Title and Trust Company, executors of her mother's estate, to obtain judicial determination of the rights of Mrs. McCormick's children.

Mrs. Hubbard claimed four-sevenths of the trust, which she said at present is composed of 355,671 shares of the capital stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, having a par value of $25 a share and a cash value of $39.72 a share.

The trust, established July 3, 1917, increased through stock dividends and division of shares from 12,000 shares of Standard Oil Company of Indiana stock.

Under the original agreement, Mrs. Hubbard contended, Rockefeller gave his daughter the right to dispose of the trust in her will so that its principal might be divided among her children and charities in outright gifts.

Mrs. Hubbard asked the court to void an arrangement made by the senior Rockefeller with Mrs. McCormick a few years after establishment of the trust whereby only the income from the trust was to be divided among the children after Mrs. McCormick's death.

Other children of Mrs. McCormick are Fowler McCormick and Mathilde McCormick Ober.

M'CORMICK SET TO FIGHT BALM

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Through his attorney, John P. Wilson, Harold F. McCormick, multi-millionaire official of the International Harvester Company, today emphatically declared that he is not going to settle out of court the $1,500,000 breach of promise suit filed against him by Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday. Wilson said:

"So far as my client is concerned the action will be contested to the very end. No negotiations are under way to settle this suit."

The denial came swiftly on the heels of a report that the New York divorcee's lawyers had sent out feelers towards negotiations.

LUNG REMOVED, DOCTOR LIVES

How the lung of a 48-year-old Pittsburgh physician was successfully removed in one of the most remarkable operations in medical history was revealed today by the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Cancer necessitated the removal of the lung, according to an Associated Press dispatch from St. Louis, where the operation was performed by Dr. Evarts A. Graham and Dr. J. J. Singer, of the Washington University School of Medicine at St. Louis.

The operation was performed April 5 and today the physician is fully recovered and has resumed his practice. His name was not disclosed.

He has gained 16 pounds in four and a half months.

DEATH TAKES 2 NOTED CLOWNS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—William Dobbs, 48, who was billed during his 26 years on the vaudeville stage at Bert Melrose, the "international clown," is dead.

He succumbed in a hospital last night to a congestion of the spine which physicians said may have been caused by his act of falling over backward from the top of three chairs mounted on a table.

Dobbs retired three years ago. He was ill almost a year and had been in the hospital more than a month. His wife, known on the stage as Mae Mack, and a son, William Dobbs, Jr., survive.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Frank Mickey Walsh, 59, who for many years was connected with leading circuses of this country as a clown, died today at National Artists Sanitorium here.

ACTRESS SUES FOR MILLION

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Edwina Booth, motion picture actress, filed a $1,000,000 damage suit in supreme court yesterday against Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The actress charged that her health had been so impaired since she appeared in "Trader Horn" that she had been unable to work since.

In March, 1929, on the ten-day trip from Naples to Mombassa, she said, she was ordered to lie nude on the deck for half-hour and one-hour periods to acquire the proper tan for the film. She was not provided with a sun helmet nor proper care on location, she allaged.

Miss Booth, whose contracts called for a sliding scale of from $100 to $300 a week, said she fell out of a tree, cut her feet on weeds, thorns and sharp grass.

WOMAN SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Forced to serve as a shield for a youthful robbery suspect who opened fire on two detectives, Miss Edna Kingsley, 26, was wounded fatally before the suspect was captured.

Detectives John Mullen and Frank Delora sighted the suspect on a downtown street yesterday and set out in pursuit when he began to run.

Miss Kingsley and a companion, Miss Nellie Kohn, were seized and held in front of the gunman as he began firing. The officers said they held their fire for fear of hitting the young women.

Mullen was wounded slightly as he closed in and grabbed the suspect.

Bartenders' Sign Makes Comeback

BILLINGS, Mont.—(INS.)—The long-absent emblem of the International League of Bartenders is exhibited in each of Billings' many speakeasies. Bartenders here recently unionized in order to be in good standing when prohibition is repealed.

JAIL FOR WIFE, RIVAL'S SLAYER

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—A woman prominent in Portsmouth social circles was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the Marysville reformatory today for killing another woman over her husband's affections.

Mrs. Ethel Pusateri, 45, wife of a wealthy fruit dealer and orchardist, pleaded guilty to manslaughter charges for fatally shooting Mrs. Ermatrude Batterson McCoy last June 20 when she returned home unexpectedly and found her husband with the other woman. The husband, Gus Pusateri, was slightly wounded.

Pleading guilty on advice of relatives, Mrs. Pusateri wept as sentence was pronounced. Her trial had been delayed once to allow her to recover from a nervous collapse.

GOV. GORE AGAIN BOMB TARGET

SAN JUAN, P. R., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—A recess hastily was called at strife-racked Porto Rico University today as another attempt was reported on the life of Gov. Gore.

During the 12-day vacation an attempt will be made to adjust differences which brought students pouring out of their classrooms in a boisterous strike.

Trouble developed rapidly after Rafael Alonzo Torres, to whom students objected because they considered him incompetent, was named to the university board of trustees.

There was grave concern on all sides today as authorities sought to run down those who planted a bomb which wrecked a part of Gov. Gore's summer home at Jajome Alto.

'Unknown' Prize Hen Produces Giant Egg

WILMINGTON, Mass.—(INS.)—C. E. Dodge would like to give a medal to one of his hens, but he doesn't know which one. In his hen barn he found an egg 9½ inches in circumference lengthwise and 7½ inches around the middle. Previously he has had eggs with as many as three yolks.

PLAYBOY ROLE DISSIPATES $750,000

McCready Riches Now Down to Income of $23 a Month

What does it cost to be a playboy?

In the case of Harrison McCready, the answer is $750,000.

The young hospital patient's attorneys announced in court that McCready has spent that sum, and that the income on what little remains of his inheritance has been reduced to $23 a month.

The role has been expensive physically and mentally, too.

Dr. L. G. Ignelzi, of West Penn Hospital, testified that McCready's whisky ration had been reduced from four to two quarts daily, and Attorney Charles J. Margiotti contended that McCready was incompetent just now to answer questions.

Margiotti won a postponement to November 20 of the hearing on McCready's petition to upset the $150,000 trust fund he set up for his first wife and 4-year-old daughter.

McCready claims he didn't know what he was doing when he set up the fund. And Margiotti contended that four days before he set up the fund the first wife, who is now Mrs. Margaret Welfer, had planned to ask for a guardian for her husband.

DOUGLAS JAILED IN CHECK SUIT

John Douglas, Jr., former Clerk of Courts and one-time candidate for Mayor, was to be brought before Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Criminal Court today to explain why he failed to appear for trial Tuesday on a worthless-check charge.

He was lodged in the county jail late yesterday by Constable Ralph DeCengo, of Alderman Thomas M. Geary's office, after his arrest had been ordered by Judge Snee.

Douglas failed to appear in court to tell a jury about a check for $1,170 which he had given Henry M. (Puncher Proof) Fox, self-styled beer baron, for a load of beer, June 3.

Fox, also scheduled to face a similar charge, failed to appear, too. The bonds of the two men were ordered forfeited by Judge Snee.

John Darges, of 107 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, had posted $1,000 for Douglas and J. H. Finkelstein, of 46 North Second street, Duquesne, $500 for Fox.

TITLED BRITON ESCAPES KILLER

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Police began an investigation today into what they rescribed as an attempt on the life of Viscount Ratendone, only surviving son of Earl Willingdon, viceroy of India and former governor general of Canada.

Police were called last night when Miss Dorota Flattau, a neighbor of the viscount, encountered a man she said was an "Indian" crouching on the flat roof outside his apartment.

She said the man, carrying an 18-inch curved knife, fled when she threw a flower-pot. Authorities found the knife and a piece of pipe the intruder threw at Miss Flattau. The viscount was not at home.

and whither are we going when we leave?

THE AMERICAN Bartenders' Institute has a class for good looking young women learning "the intricate art of drink mixing." The photograph shows young ladies at a bar with cocktail shakers receiving instructions from an old-fashioned bartender.

They are pretty girls and learn easily, BUT mixing drinks should be a man's business in this country, and young women should be kept out of it—no transplanting of the British bar-maids to this country.

If that be interference with "women's rights," make the most of it.

Priest Sees 2,000 Years Needed to Convert U. S.

At the present rate of conversions to the Catholic church in the United States, it would take 2,000 years to convert the nation to Catholicism, the Rev. J. Elliot Ross declared last night in Sacred Heart Church.

Taking the population as a whole, he said, the nation is now 15 per cent Catholic. He added:

"And taking the statistics we have, we are making about one convert a year for every 500 Catholics.

"Now the Catholic church will never approximate complete success in carrying out Christ's injunction to preach the Gospel to every human being until the laity recognize their responsibility."

Fondness for Succotash Shown in Nurse's Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The failing of the late Col. J. B. Lankershim for "succotash" was described in Superior Court in trial of the action by which Mrs. Irene Herbert, a nurse, seeks collection of a $500,000 promissory note which she said he gave her in return for her attention to him in his last years.

Executors of the estate of Col. Lankershim, who died in 1931 in Brooklyn, N. Y., rejected the nurse's demand for payment of the note, charging it had been tampered with and the amount for which it was drawn greatly increased.

Mrs. Bell Clark, called as a witness for Mrs. Herbert, told of seeing Mrs. Herbert dress and undress Lankershim and related his fondness for the vegetable dish. She testified:

"I made him some succotash one time, but Mrs. Herbert said I seasoned it too highly so the next time she did the seasoning. Col. Lankershim was sure fond of succotash."

Mrs. Ruth Allen, another witness, related a conversation she had with the Colonel in which she said he told her that Mrs. Herbert protected him from movie-struck mothers who wanted their daughters financed in pictures and he intended to reward her for her services.

FATE OF RELIEF HINGES ON BOND ISSUE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania is having spent millions every month for unemployment relief. Less than $40,000 remains in the coffers of the State Emergency Relief Board for distribution after December 1.

The board distributed $6,188,307 to counties yesterday for food, fuel and highway work relief in November and announced that a cash balance of $70,292 is all that remains for December.

Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the board, said "there will be no other money left to take care of emergency relief" unless the voters approve the $25,000,000 state expense bond issue November 7.

U. S. FUNDS PERILED

Of the funds distributed yesterday, $3,620,587 represented the final payment from $18,000,000 of state funds which the Legislature provided for relief after April 1 this year. The cash balance in the treasury is what is left of federal funds.

Biddle said the federal government has made it "perfectly clear" that unless the state appropriates money, the federal government will not give Pennsylvania any further relief grants.

Acceptance of pork shipments offered the state under the federal government's plan for distribution of surplus products to the needy also is being held up pending decision on the proposed bond issue. Gov. Pinchot said it would be "exceedingly unwise" to set up machinery to distribute such supplies without assurance there would be money to finance it.

Allocations made yesterday by the relief board included:

	Food, Fuel	Work Relief
Allegheny	1,186,816	26,516
Armstrong	26,450	5,856
Beaver	72,528	11,281
Butler	52,076	4,628
Fayette	215,010	16,625
Greene	22,170	1,954
Jefferson	42,669	3,294
Washington	103,660	18,005

State Treasurer Urges Bond Issue Approval

LEBANON, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—State Treasurer Charles A. Waters said today the proposed $25,000,000 bond issue for state expenses must be approved at the general election to prevent "a complete breakdown of our unemployment relief program after December 1."

If the bond issue is not approved, Waters told members of the Kiwanis Club, Pennsylvania will be in default on its unemployment relief obligations to the federal government and money already appropriated to educational and charitable institutions can not be paid.

Work to Continue With Relief Funds

Under the second appropriation of $300,000 for work relief, the city will continue its program of dirt streets, parks, playgrounds and sewers improvements, it was announced today by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

An ordinance recently passed by Council authorizes expenditures of $80,000 on sewers, $45,000 for parks and playgrounds and $175,000 for dirt streets.

Missionaries at Conference Here

MISS YI-FANG WU

HERMAN CHEN-EN LIU

E. STANLEY JONES

MISSIONS HELD RELIGION'S TEST

The un-Christian impacts of western civilization in the East is the greatest stumbling block in the way of missionary work in that field, according to Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary and author of "The Christ of the Indiana Road."

Dr. Jones was the keynote speaker at the opening session of the United Foreign Missionary Conference in German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street.

Representatives of 600 Protestant churches, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. gathered in nearly a score of meeting places in Pittsburgh today for the conferences which constitute one of a series of 29 being held in this country. The mission sessions will be concluded tomorrow.

In a round table discussion, Dr. Jones explained that what he meant by the "impact of the West" was that the peoples of the East "know our Western civilization too well." He asserted:

"We have built up a system around Christ and now say to the world that this is the good news. But Christ originally was the good news. As denominations close in this man-made system and make it more Christian, I believe they will become more and more unified."

The speaker added:

"We have begun to realize that if we can't spread the Gospel to the whole world, we will not be able to hold it. Our missionary work is the acid test of our religion."

WINTER RELIEF BURDEN RESTS ON WOMEN

Upon the shoulders of volunteer women relief workers will fall a large part of the burden of caring for needy families the coming winter, Mary Margaret McBride declares in the November Good Housekeeping.

In an article entitled "Lest We Forget," the writer sketches the possibilities of such women workers, asserting that frequently they are superior to men in money-raising as well as social service campaigns.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the Woman's Crusade, is quoted:

"This emergency is the greatest opportunity we have ever had to educate ourselves as citizens . . . We never really succeed in anything until we feel it as something in which we ourselves are deeply involved.

"You have heard it said that the poor are more generous than the well-to-do. That is because the poor have felt from actual experience what cold and hunger are.

"The government has promised that no one shall be without food and shelter because he cannot find work. But food and shelter alone do not make life worth living. There must be more. What more is needed you must find out for your community."

Mrs. Alice E. Liveright, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, told the writer:

"The well-qualified volunteer is an essential adjunct to all welfare programs. The field of social work is so vast today that there are not enough accredited social workers to cover it."

Motorists Given Halloween Warning

"Don't drive masked; you'll need full vision that night.

"Don't crowd the front seat with merrymakers; leave yourself free to operate safely. Unorganized processions will fill the streets of many communities.

Washington Refuses Relief to 'Loafers'

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Washington County emergency relief officials assert aid will be withdrawn from unemployed persons who refuse to accept offers of public work.

The announcement was made yesterday after Washington city authorities reported that of 20 relief-receiving men offered street work only three accepted.

PLYMOUTHS THAT REFUSED TO FREEZE

There are a lot of Plymouths on the road today whose radiators breasted last winter's icy blasts and never thought of freezing.

Those drivers knew that a low-priced, boil-away anti-freeze could cost money before spring. They knew that most so-called "permanent" anti-freezes soon break down.

This year, at the new low price of $2.95 a gallon, Eveready Prestone protection for a 1933 Plymouth to zero (1¼ gallons) costs only $3.72. For other models and makes, see your dealer's chart. It's good for a full winter's driving—25,000 miles or more. Approved by all car manufacturers. Fully guaranteed by National Carbon Co., Inc., New York.

*Records show Pittsburgh usually sees freezing weather by Oct. 29. Put in Eveready Prestone now—and have protection all winter.

MAN BETRAYED BY WIFE ASKS AID HERE

In the shadow of the gallows at San Quentin Prison, California, a convicted wife slayer, arrested here four months ago, ponders the vagaries of a woman's love.

In a letter to Sergt. Samuel Wheeler, of the Homicide squad, the doomed man, Leo D. Murphy, asks that Wheeler and Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd ask Gov. Rolfe, of California, to spare his life. Murphy is sentenced to be hanged December 13 for the torture-slaying of his second wife in Long Beach, Cal., seven years ago.

Of his third wife, who remained loyal to him, Murphy writes:

"Yes, the wife has stayed with me. Another strange thing—woman. She stepped out on me in San Antonio, got drunk with a private detective, gave me away, came back to me and has fought like a tiger ever since to save my life. I have always loved her, still do; but what a terrible lesson it was for her."

Murphy describes himself as "not a gangster, kidnaper, bank robber; just an everyday common man who drank too much drug store bitters and one day committed a terrible crime while out of his head. I've been in hell the whole seven years I was out, but hanging won't bring back Cornelia (the slain wife)."

Murphy asks that Wheeler and Boyd write to Gov. Rolfe or to his third wife, in Los Angeles and she will take it to the Governor with a plea for commutation soon.

Murphy was arrested here last July living with his third wife and 15-month-old son in Homewood. He was charged at his trial in Los Angeles with fatally beating his second wife and tickling her feet as she lay dying.

SEVEN DROWN IN AUTO PLUNGE

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Seven persons, laughing and joking on their way to a birthday party, were drowned last night when their car rolled into the Susquehanna River.

The dead are Elsie Eldred, 14, in whose honor the party was planned; Avis Houston, another 14-year-old girl; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lord, and their three children, Louis, 9; Austin, 6, and Ardean, 2.

After steering into a driveway to ask the way, Lord started to back out. The car backed down an embankment into the icy water. Half an hour later a passerby saw the headlights, almost submerged, shining out of the river. All had died trapped inside the car, except two children whose bodies were found nearby.

NAVY TO UPHOLD PEACE, SAYS SWANSON

Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—"I think we had better attend to our own affairs and pay less attention to foreign matters but the best assurance of peace for the world is the supremacy of the American Navy."

Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson thus summed his stand yesterday when leaders of civic life, the film industry, business and politics gathered at a luncheon at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. He added:

"I would never consent to American membership in the World Court unless it was guaranteed that the United States should have a veto power on the issues touching her."

STRONGEST NAVY

Secretary Swanson made his declaration with a friendly gesture toward his long-time friend, William Randolph Hearst, who had just said:

"President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary Swanson have set their hands to building up a new Navy which shall be equal to any fleet in the world—and that means superior to any in the world, because our men shall make it so."

Turning to Mr. Hearst, Secretary Swanson declared there has been no more staunch supporter of Navy strength.

To President Roosevelt, Secretary Swanson, for years his friend and close associate, paid a glowing tribute. He said:

"If any man loves the Navy and knows the Navy's needs, that man is President Roosevelt. I see a picture of hope, not only for the Navy, but for all the nation. We have a President who acts and does not waste time talking.

"Statesmanship is the vision to see the right path and the valor to lead men into it. Thank God for a President with that vision and that valor."

TRIBUTE BY HEARST

As an old friend of Secretary Swanson, William Randolph Hearst paid tribute to the man and the statesman. He said:

"California welcomes Secretary Swanson personally with ardent good will—and welcomes him officially with all respect for his high office and with sincere admiration for the ability and knowledge and vision with which he conducts it.

"I do not intend to talk politics, but I must confess that it is a deep satisfaction to me to see a great patriotic Democratic secretary of that splendid arm of our protection and defense—the Navy.

"I will explain why this is particularly so.

"Fifty years ago I was a student at Harvard and my father was a Democratic United States Senator from California.

"In one of my rare regular vacations or one of my frequent enforced vacations from college I went to Washington and my father took me to see President Grover Cleveland and Secretary of the Navy William Collins Whitney.

"Mr. Cleveland was a great President. We all know that now, and Mr. Whitney was a great Secretary of the Navy.

"During the administrations which preceded theirs the Navy had been allowed to deteriorate until it had become the scornful jest of the paragraphers of the press.

RESTORED TO GLORY

"But President Cleveland and Secretary Whitney restored the Navy to its ancient and historic glory. Together they built the splendid white squadron which soon became the pride and joy of the nation.

"And this newborn, or rather reborn Navy, had more than a sentimental value to our people. It was the white squadron which won the Spanish War for us in the incredibly short space of a few months.

"It was with these newly built ships that Dewey heroically captured Manila and Schley utterly annihilated the Spanish fleet at Santiago de Cuba.

"So efficient was this magnificent Navy of ours that only a few hundred precious American lives were lost in the whole course of this war and at no time was an enemy ever allowed to set hostile foot on American soil.

"It was this inspiring white squadron which President Roosevelt sent around the world to show all the nations of the earth, in friendly fashion of course, the wall of steel which America depended upon to protect its peaceful people against aggression — and the floating forts and forces with which we would repel any invader and keep our shores free from the horrors of war.

NAVY NEGLECTED

"Fifty years have passed since Grover Cleveland's Democratic day. Again the Navy has been neglected and has declined.

"Fatuous bargains have been made with conspiring foreign powers under which we have sunk our ships and lost our supremacy.

"But now another great Democratic President sits in the White House and another great Secretary of the Navy stands loyally at his right hand.

"President Roosevelt and Secretary Swanson have set their hands to building up a new Navy which shall be equal to any fleet in the world—and that means superior to any fleet in the world because our men shall make it so."

AID FOR STATE BANKS LIMITED TO 17 IN PA.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Asserting only 17 of Pennsylvania's closed, state-supervised banks are eligible for help from the federal deposit liquidation board, Dr. William D. Gordon, state banking secretary, says he hopes the plan will be supplemented soon to aid the 140 others.

Only banks which closed since January 1, 1933, come under the plan to "unfreeze" deposits, Dr. Gordon explained last night.

Two Western Pa. Banks Approved By U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Six national banks, with frozen deposits of $7,508,000 and unrestricted deposits of $524,000, were re-opened during the 10 days ended October 20.

J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, in making this announcement today, said reorganization plans were approved for 29 additional national banks during the same period. These banks must meet various requirements before actually resuming business, however.

Among the banks licensed to resume business or granted a new charter, with the amount of the frozen and unrestricted deposits respectively, is the Sharon (Pa.) National Bank, $4,106,000 and $238,000.

National banks whose reorganization plans were approved in the 10-day period included Greensburg (Pa.) First National, $6,527,000 frozen and $511,000 unrestricted deposits.

284 'UNWANTED' LAID TO REST

The ashes of the army of the unwanted—284 who lay in the Allegheny County Morgue unclaimed—were buried in a single grave today in Highwood Cemetery.

Little white bags of ashes, each weighing seven pounds, contain the only remaining symbol of that army.

The Rev. A. W. Stremel, of the Lutheran Inner Mission, said a few words over the grave.

The 284 bags were placed in a single box. The total weighed nearly 2,000 pounds.

Modern Home-Making

Horne's Home-Making Exposition is being recommended by thousands who have already visited this store in the last week as the most instructive and entertaining display in years. Don't be at a loss when someone asks you what you thought of the novel drapery designs . . . of the rooms furnished by Pittsburgh club women . . . of the hand-blocking demonstration . . . of the Currier & Ives originals . . . of the new silk tablecloths, the hand-loomed tapestries, and countless other things at Horne's this week.

Miss Gladys Miller

—at 2:30 P. M. in the Auditorium, Miss Miller, an authority on interior decoration, will give her final lecture and demonstration on the multiple uses of mohair, the old-fashioned fabric that has progressed to new fashion heights.

Be Sure to Vote

Cast your ballot for the room you think best among the 12 furnished by the Women's Clubs. The prizes of Irwin furniture to be awarded first, second and third winners will be distributed according to public vote.

GIVE YOUR FURNITURE A BEAUTY TREATMENT

Re-Covering

Material, Labor and Minor Repairs Included

Your own choice of fabrics from an extensive collection of fine tapestries and damasks that are now specially priced at $1.95 yard. We'll call for your furniture, re-cover it in our workrooms, and send it back to you as good as new. This offer continues until October 31st.

During the Home-Making Exposition you can see photographs of the various steps in upholstering on the Fourth Floor, and if you are interested ask to see the Movie of our Workroom in operation.

Living Clothes

with LASTEX the Miracle Yarn

Something really new, at last, in men's clothing—after more than a thousand years without a change in basic construction. A miracle fibre woven into standard woolens with amazing results.

The whole garment has a living quality; it gives gently with every movement—and whether you sit, stand, stretch, or bend, there is no strain anywhere.

It is almost as though you were free of clothing entirely. And all this, mind you, without detracting one iota from smart style.

Suits in the wanted models and patterns, $45

Topcoats—can't you imagine the satisfaction of driving a car absolutely free from strain or binding?—$40

Try on one of these garments and convince yourself that here is something better in men's clothing. Exclusively at Horne's—the store that leads in men's fashions.

MILITIA HUNTS CONVICT MOB

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—Six hundred and thirty National Guardsmen in 76 squads of eight men each were ordered today to 44 strategic locations as Indiana moved with a mailed fist to crush the mass mob contempt of court that has been terrorizing the state.

The order was issued by Adj. Gen. Elmer Scott after conference with Al Feeney, state safety director.

WAPAKONETA, O., Oct. 26 (INS).—Wild rioting raged in Auglaize county today as the lynch spirit of the kidnap gang that has terrorized northwestern Ohio and Indiana for a week or more stood poised for the attack. County Jail here where Fred Pierpont is held as a suspected $30 bank robber, and Mary's O. last October 3.

The vigilantes were organized under the leadership of Clarence Wright, American Legion commander, after local authorities expressed fear that an attempt might be made by the slayers of Sheriff Jess L. Sarber to harm the prisoner.

Dr. Butler Recovers $300,000 From Bank

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, won his suit today to recover $300,000 in securities from the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company.

Federal Judge Grover M. Moscowitz decided the securities were not a personal loan to Joseph W. Harriman, president of the closed bank, but were deposited with the bank as security for financial transactions the bank conducted in Dr. Butler's interest.

STABILIZED CURRENCY URGED

Ohio Recovery Board Head Says Pegged Dollar Needed

A dollar untied to capital investment will be available as soon as President Roosevelt gets the dollar, Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, member of the Ohio Recovery Board, and executive vice president of Cincinnati, said here yesterday. He said:

Col. Sherrill

"What the business community needs more than anything else just now to help restore prosperity is definite information concerning the government's future monetery policy.

"Confidence is lacking while the dollar is up in the air. It is true, however, that President Roosevelt's last speech has done much to clarify the situation, and I have already noted an improvement which should grow stronger every day.

"We don't need more currency—there is plenty of it available for capital investment if business men and investors knew where they stood."

RAPS COMPLAINTS

Praising the co-operation his board has received in Ohio, Col. Sherrill, who is vice president of the Kroger Baking and Grocery Company, saw the NRA and other administration recovery measures as gradually bringing about a restoration of prosperity. He emphasized that many complaints concerning the NRA are exaggerated.

The NRA costs food chains scarcely two per cent of the cross cost of doing business, he said. In general he estimates the cost of living has risen less than 10 per cent.

Most people forget, he says, that the Roosevelt administration has two aims: the restoration of prosperity and the restoration of fair wages for a great mass of people who have been in the poverty class ever since the years of created prosperity.

LAVORS PAID STAFFS

With the NRA as a permanent organization, Col. Sherrill advocates employment of paid executive directors and staffs to assist the Washington regional coordinator boards. Such a permanent organization, he says, is needed to receive complaints and to enforce the codes in each district.

Criticism that the government is trying to use the NRA to seize control of industry was declared unfounded by Col. Sherrill. Rather, he said, the NRA intends to have industry control itself for its own good.

One of the best ways to help the farmer, he asserted, is to reduce the cost of distribution, pay the higher prices for farm products and lower costs for consumers can be obtained if distribution costs are slashed. He pointed out a co-ordinated rail, river and highway transportation system, and uniform truck sizes in every state as some of the measures which would help.

Sherrill Honor Guest At Employe Dance

Col. C. O. Sherrill of Cincinnati, vice president of the Kroger Company, last night was honor guest at the first dance of the season given by the Kroger Employe's Mutual Benefit Association at Islam Grotto, North Side.

C. H. Hall, of McKeesport, is president of the association, which has approximately 20,000 members.

Former G. O. P. Aid Faces Tax Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Evidence that James B. Reynolds, former assistant treasurer of the Republican National Committee, failed for several years to make income tax returns on payments to him by a New York steamship magnate was offered today before the Senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts.

FAMILY SLAYER AWAITS ROPE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Euel Lee, 60-year-old Negro convicted of slaying Green K. Davis, Taylorsville farmer and his former employer, two years ago today, awaited his execution shortly after midnight at the Maryland Penitentiary.

On October 12, 1931, Davis, his wife and two daughters were found murdered in their farmhouse. Lee was arrested in Ocean City and was convicted twice of the murder of Davis. The State Court of Appeals overturned the first conviction because Negroes were not on the trial jury panel. The United States Supreme Court refused a review.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Gov. Ruby Laffoon today granted a stay of execution to November 10 to the two white men and a Negro who were scheduled to die tonight in the electric chair at Eddyville Prison.

The men are Boone Bowling, convicted in Breathitt County of slaying Taylor Spencer; Walter Dewberry, Negro, convicted in Hardin County of slaying Thomas Tillery, a white man, and Harve Burton, convicted in Elliott County of slaying his wife.

High School Rodeo Stars Forsake Grid

COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Heading for the last roundup of the fall season, picked riders and ropers of Cheyenne High School today were herding steers and horses from the U-Quarters-Circle ranch to a large corral built where the gridiron used to be.

The school, which this year abandoned football for rodeo sports, regards the season as successful. There has been only one casualty, and that minor. Dr. Lloyd Shaw, of the faculty, who contended that a rodeo was safer than football, received a fractured rib.

COLONIAL SILHOUETTES PATTERN 437

Colonial Scenes in Silhouette

Silhouettes in cross stitch are a decoration that is attractive in any home. Having an old-time quaintness, they are as much in vogue today as they ever were. Done in one color thread, they are especially interesting to make, for cross stitch is quick to do, and each bit added to the embroidery shows up. These quaint scenes are attractive subjects to work on, for one could so easily weave an interesting story around them. They lend themselves not only to pictures, but are decorative as cushions, tray cloths or insets.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Jangled nerves can make married life miserable

In so many cases it's not the big, important things that make married life unhappy. It's the little sharp words... the bickering... the nagging... the jangled nerves.

And the dangerous thing is that we frequently don't even realize that our nerves are upset until it's too late.

The more alive you are, the more high-strung, the more carefully you must watch yourself.

Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels ... for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

TEST No. 5

Place a small coin on the back of each spread finger, approximately at the large knuckle joint. Flip the coins in the air... turn your hand over. Can you catch them all the first time? You should be able to catch them in one of your first 3 tries.

BOARD REBUKES M'GOVERN

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern stood rebuked by the Allied Boards of Trade today for his statement that for years people had been relying on boards of trade and the Chamber of Commerce "for statements not worth a thing."

A resolution adopted by the board advises Mr. McGovern that the Allied Boards of Trade represents 35,000 taxpayers in 48 communities and they request an opportunity to be heard. McGovern's statement was said to have been made when representatives of the Allied Boards of Trade protested against purchase of the Wabash Bridge and tunnel.

Other resolutions indorsed the metropolitan charter plan for Allegheny County, suggesting that the state and nation provide funds for public schools other than for housing and supplies and favored elimination of tax qualifications for voters.

Directors elected for three years were: W. B. Hodby, Overbrook; C. V. Shoup, West View; George B. Snyder, Squirrel Hill, and James Keenan, Lincoln District. W. E. Armstrong was elected for a two-year term. Election of officers was deferred.

4 DIE IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

James Shaw, 29, of Verona, formerly of Manhattan street, North Side, died in Indiana Hospital last night of injuries received when his automobile crashed into a pole as he was en route to Pittsburgh to visit his wife who is a patient in a hospital here.

Shaw was accompanied by his 9-year-old son and Mrs. Shaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cowan, of Sykesville. They were slightly injured. The accident occurred near Marion Center, State highway patrolmen said the car apparently skidded.

Three men were killed when their automobile was struck by the Cleveland Flyer, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, at the Broadway crossing, Coraopolis, last night.

The victims were Lang Williams, 35; his brother, Garfield Williams, 36, and James Edwards, 36, Negroes, of 945 Pine way, Coraopolis.

The occupants of the car ignored the watchman's signal to stop, according to the Coroner's report.

MUNHALL BUS CASE HEARD

Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby yesterday for a second time heard the petition of Bamford Brothers for renewal of the certificate under which they have been operating buses for two years between Pittsburgh and Munhall. The petition is opposed by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, owned by the railways company, operates two buses daily between Pittsburgh and Munhall on a 35-cent fare. The Bambord buses operate on a 20-minute schedule at 16 2-3 cents.

THREE CLOTHING STORES LOOTED

Clothing was the loot of thieves who broke windows in two upper Fifth avenue stores and ransacked a clothing store in Center avenue early today.

Two topcoats, three overcoats and three suits were stolen from Al Berk, 1013 Fifth avenue, after a display window, valued at $250, had been shattered by a brick.

Five blocks away two windows in the shoe store of the Fifth Avenue Boot Shop, 1501 Fifth avenue, were broken and 10 pairs of men's and women's shoes stolen.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 26 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

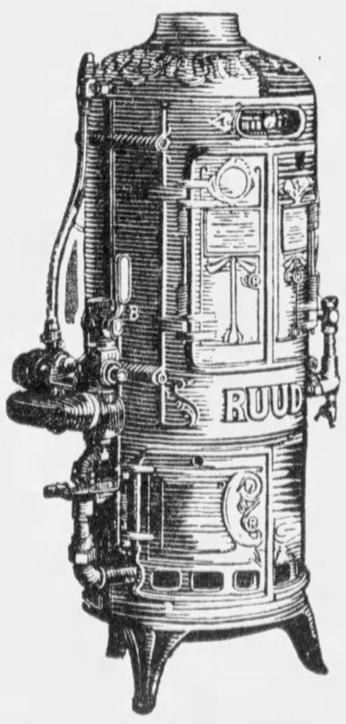
Glamour in a water heater?



ASSUREDLY YES! The daily gifts of this machine of iron, brass and copper are cleanliness . . . beauty . . . youth.

Glamour, elusive and indefinable, starts with cleanliness . . . of person, of clothing and environment. HOT WATER,—it's indispensable for a fresh, clear skin,—glossy, lustrous hair,—glistening teeth,—well-kept hands.

Greater than the creams and lotions on your bathroom shelf is the beauty-help of pure, fresh-flowing RUUD Hot Water, instantly at your finger-tips. Let it guide your quest for charm. Let it mark the end of skin-coarsening rusty water and of delays that try the temper.

At our store, we can show you this modern fountain of youth just as it will flow in your home; we can explain how very easy it is to own.

And if you will call, write or telephone, we'll give you a copy of "How Hot is Hot!" the 40 page Hand-Book of Beauty.

RUSSIAN OF OLD REGIME URGES RECOGNITION

Nineteen years ago he was a representative of the old Russian regime, but today Dr. Vsevolod N. Krivobok, professor of metallurgy at Carnegie Institute of Technology, indorses President Roosevelt's move toward Russian recognition as "particularly beneficial to trade and cultural relations" between the two nations.

Krivobok, who left Russia for the last time in 1920 at the conclusion of the Civil War, now numbers in his special graduate class two Russian youths sent here by the U. S. S. R. to learn American skill in metallurgy. Of recognition he said:

"It seems to be the only way out of this abnormal situation. I am not at all in favor of the present regime, but now that it has sustained itself 16 years, there must be something to it.

"Such recognition, I am sure, will be approved by the commercial concerns of this country."

Russian recognition received the stamp of approval from two other Tech professors, Dr. Bartow Griffis, head of the department of economics, and Dr. Nathan Miller, professor of economics.

M'ADOO URGES SOVIET PACT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Early recognition of Russia was urged by Senator William G. McAdoo, of California, upon his return today from Europe and a visit to Russia.

Senator McAdoo, arriving with his wife on the liner Conte Di Savoia, praised President Roosevelt's initial steps toward recognition.

He emphasized the negotiations were solely an executive function in which the Senate did not figure. He said:

"I have stood for recognition for a long time. It will open up trade on both sides."

The Senator said that during his visit to Moscow, which was in an unofficial capacity, he was considerably impressed. He added:

"There is virtually no unemployment there."

HULL MAY MISS LITVINOFF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With even the highest officials joining in the guessing, there appeared strong question here today whether Secretary Hull would be able to shake hands with the holder of his corresponding office in the Soviet Union, Maxim Litvinoff, commissar from foreign affairs.

The concensus appeared to lean rather strongly toward the view that Hull would be embarked upon his good-will tour to South America before Litvinoff landed to discuss recognition with President Roosevelt.

Opinion was that Hull would sail from New York at noon Saturday, November 4 and that Litvinoff would not land "until around the sixth."

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The spread of communism in the Far East, Toshio Shiratori fears, would be accelerated by American recognition of Soviet Russia.

That is why such recognition would be "a serious matter to Japan," said Shiratori, here en route to his new post as Japanese ambassador to Sweden.

Wilkinsburg Grocer Hurt in Oven Blast

Severely burned by an exploding gas oven in his home, Harold Kastner, 26, of 1026 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, manager of an Oakland chain grocery, was in Columbia Hospital at Wilkinsburg today. Police said Kastner was hurled several feet across the kitchen by the oven explosion, which occurred when he attempted to light the oven.

Whisky, Beer Seized In Dry Raid, 1 Held

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Charged with sale and possession of liquor at his Waynesburg road filling station near Amity, John Kovock, 35, was arrested in a raid conducted by county officers.

The raiders said they found nine pints of alleged whisky and 200 bottles of beer. They asserted Kovock had no beer license.

Chinese Girl Defends Father's Business, Opposing Competitor

LUCILLE YEE LIM . . . . . "THERE'S NOT ENOUGH BUSINESS"

Pleads for Family's Livelihood Before Zoning Board

A shining example of filial devotion, characteristic of the Chinese race, was brough to light with the plea of Lucille Yee Lim, attractive 18-year-old Carnegie High School graduate, before the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

The oldest girl in a family of six children, Lucille acted as spokesman for her father, Yee Lim, who runs a laundry at 5835 Forbes street, Squirrel Hill. She asked the board to refuse the Three R Laundry, Inc., a permit to install a laundry at 5825 Forbes street.

Envisioning the probable effects of additional competition on the family wardrobe and larder, and eager that her younger brothers and sisterse might have the same educational advantages as herself, the girl said:

"We don't want you to let them put in the laundry. There isn't enough business now for father."

FORD'S U. S. BID AWAITS RULING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Henry Ford's status as a non-member of the NRA in selling to the government is expected to be determined in the early award of a contract for new trucks for the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The Agriculture Department, which has jurisdiction over C. C. C. purchases, said no determination of Ford's eligibility to bid had been made.

Beacon Club Backs G.O.P. Candidates

The Beacon Club, according to a communication from its secretary, Bernard D. Sandomire, has indorsed the straight Republican ticket. The club, according to Sandomire, has in the past indorsed such candidates as Judges James H. Gray and Frank P. Patterson and the late Judge Richard W. Martin.

Louis Wechsler, who supported Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell in the primary, is chairman of the board of directors.

SHADYSIDE TANK PLAN DROPPED

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company has withdrawn its request for a permit to install six 15,000-gallon tanks along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, near Shadyside Station.

Residents of Bayard street and Bayard place had protested placing of the tanks, and a hearing had been set for tomorrow. The project was abandoned after it was found that two large city sewer lines are under the property, into which gasoline leaking from the tanks might drain.

NRA WE DO OUR PART

DON'T be fooled into believing that your teeth are naturally dull in color, or susceptible to decay simply because brushing fails to keep them sound or make them white. Remember this:

Any preparation that polishes teeth and fails to kill germs—millions of germs which cause so many tooth and gum troubles—ONLY HALF-CLEANS TEETH.

One dental cream that kills troublesome germs as it cleans the teeth is Kolynos. Try it—a half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. Soon your teeth will look cleaner than ever before.

This unique, scientific dental cream contains two priceless agents that give the teeth a DOUBLE-CLEANSING. As one foams into every crevice, over every tooth surface and washes away food accumulations, stain and tarnish, the other kills millions of germs.

Thus, in a remarkably short time, teeth are cleaned right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel—without injury. They look more attractive than you ever believed possible.

So, you can't get by with dull, HALF-CLEAN TEETH. Don't try to. Start using Kolynos. Overnight your teeth will show great improvement. Your mouth will feel cleaner and fresher. Get a tube of Kolynos from your druggist today.

GERMAN RALLY BANNED, PLOT CHARGED

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Foes of Nazism were jubilant today as Mayor John P. O'Brien turned thumbs down, finally and officially, on a "German day" rally in a public armory next Sunday.

The Mayor, after an uproarious hearing guarded by 100 policemen, refused last night to lift his ban on the meeting, which opponents had denounced as a forum for Nazi propaganda.

He said "A group of propagandists sent here by a foreign power" had seized control of the United German Societies, which planned the rally. The meeting, he said, would "lead to violence, riot and possibly loss of life."

The Rev. Dr. William Popcke, acting head of the societies, denied Nazis had control and promised "no racial remarks" would be made, but the Mayor remained adamant.

SPANKNOEBEL ASSAILED

Roars of applause shook the hearing chamber, crowded to the doors with Jews and Christians, when opponents of the meeting denounced Heinz Spanknoebel as leader of a group of "alien agitators" who had come from Germany to spread Nazi propaganda and get control of German-American organizations by "terrorism."

B. G. Vorburg, president of the German Bicycle Club, testified Spanknoebel had criticized the NRA and the American flag. He added:

"He said that he had enough storm troops armed with blackjacks ready for anyone who tried to break up his meetings."

The whereabouts of Spanknoebel became a matter of conjecture today. Reports were current he had sailed suddenly last night for Germany on recall by Berlin—reports which were widely discounted in German-American quarters of New York and denied by one steamship line with a vessel sailing last night.

U. S. INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Public hearings on Nazi activities in the United States are scheduled to begin November 14, under the direction of Chairman Dickstein of the House Immigration Committee.

The New York Democrat set the hearing date yesterday and said he would produce "enough material to open the eyes of the American public," adding:

"If we did in Germany one-twentieth of what they're doing here, we'd be shot."

Dickstein invited all information relating to "the Nazi or storm trooper movement" in this country.

AIDES IN REICH FIRE SOUGHT

"Who were Marinus Van Der Lubbe's accomplices?"

For a long time it appeared the court might accept the Dutchman's oft-reiterated assertion that he set the fire last February 27 alone.

A lengthy array of witnesses brought no evidence that he had any helpers.

But on the twenty-second day of the hearings there came a turning point when chemical experts testified, and evidently satisfied the judges by experiments, that Van Der Lubbe's deed must have been carefully prepared by others.

Since then, the court, the prosecution and the four other defendants accused in the fire have been grappling with the problem of possible accomplices. Neither the judges nor th state's atttorney seem to entertain an idea that there is even a possibility that others than Communists might have been implicated.

Charges from many quarters that the Nazis might have prepared the ground for Van Lubbe are rejected sharply by all officials.

ARMS PARLEY ADJOURNED

GENEVA, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The Disarmament Conference today adjourned until December 4, after hearing friendly references to Germany during the session's discussions.

The adjournment decision was in line with a recommendation of the steering committee which met yesterday. Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign office under-secretary, said during the discussions that it was quite clear that the withdrawal of Germany would not be without effect on the work of the conference and that it would cause some dislocation. He added:

"The British government feels this should not be allowed to stop the work of the conference. We must look forward and not indulge in recriminations."

HITLER RENEWS TREATY ATTACK

HANOVER, Germany, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Chancellor Hitler brought his momentous election campaign to provincial Germany, flaying anew the Treaty of Versailles and vowing that Germany would not return to the League until assured full equality with other nations. He said:

"If the world wants to see us anywhere it must recognize our equality. If it doesn't we will completely draw back."

He spoke to an audience of 100,000 persons assembled yesterday in the huge exhibition hall and gathered in the streets before it. Amplifiers carried his voice to the throngs outside.

"In the future we will never again let our honor be soiled. Courageously and joyously one must fight for one's rights. One needs only courage heroically to do the unavoidable. I have never capitulated and never will as long as I live."

Corn Loan Interest Set at 4 Per Cent

LEAGUE GETS REFUGEE AID OFFER BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The United States today offered its co-operation to the League of Nations in aiding Jewish and other refugees fleeing from Germany.

Secretary Hull, replying to a league invitation to have the United States represented on a body designed to assist such refugees, said this country would be "happy" to assist.

Earlier this month the league voted to place a high commissioner over an organization to offer "assistance to refugees (Jewish and others) coming from Germany."

Fifteen nations were designated to be represented on a governing body to assist the commissioner in the relief work. Hull replied:

"In view of the fact that the people of the United States have, in times past, invariably regarded with a sympathetic interest all efforts to alleviate the plight of unfortunate peoples who find themselves in destitute circumstances beyond their control, the Secretary of State takes pleasure in informing the Secretary General that the American government will be happy to name, at an early date, a representative to serve on the governing body."

James G. MacDonald, of New York, has been appointed by the league as high commissioner for refugees from Germany.

The United States apparently will name still another American to sit on the governing body.

SARRAUT BACKS DEBT DEFAULT

International News Service.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The new French cabinet headed by Senator Albert Sarraut, which probably will be completed this evening, will continue the policy of defaulting on foreign debt payments to the United States.

From reliable sources International News Service learned this afternoon that Sarraut, like his predecessor, Edouard Daladier, who was overthrown yesterday morning, regards the debt to America as "a closed incident" in view of the hostility of the Chamber of Deputies to further payments.

Some doubt had been raised as to Sarraut's attitude when it was learned he had offered the post of foreign minister to Edouard Herriot, radical Socialist leader. Herriott was ousted as prime minister by the chamber when he insisted upon honoring the debt to the United States.

Herriot declined the foreign portfolio. Whether his declination was due to the fact that he differed with Sarraut on the American debt question could not be learned.

PENSAUKEN, N. J., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—A "bookkeeping burglar" has made his appearance in Delair.

He entered the home of Frank Muches, escaped with his loot—but left an accounting. Said a note found by Muches:

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Not long now until Halloween, fellows!

We just hope no Junior Patrol member is playing harmful Halloween pranks. It's all right to have fun, fellows, but throwing rotten tomatoes on front porches, and destroying porch furniture and those kind of things aren't fun. Maybe YOUR mother will have to clean tomatoes off the porch.

Billy Maloney, of R. D. No. 4, Punxsutawney, Pa., is starting a Junior Patrol club instead of his old "M. M. Club." That's fine, Billy, and we hope you and your friends have a good time. Welcome to our gang. You can become a captain when you have 10 members and they elect you.

Jack Rousseau, of R. D. No. 6, Box 95, Kittanning, Pa., is a new captain today. He sends 11 pledges and here is his letter:

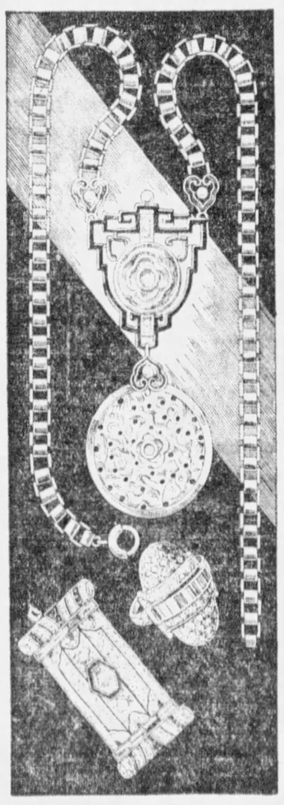
"The name of our club is N. R. A. I believe I could make a better center than the fat boy in the comic strip. We have a one-room country school and we boys have a clubhouse built out of logs."

Boy, that must be a lot of fun, Jack. Let us know what you are doing to help others, too. How do you have your clubhouse decorated? Do you have any deerskins or bearskins? Or antlers on the walls?

Robert Lewis, of 2140 Leechwood boulevard, Pittsburgh, is starting a club and wants to call it the Secret Six. Why not the Secret Ten, Robert, so that you can be a real Junior Patrol club with 10 members with a Captain and everything?

John Frankovich, of R. D. No. 1, West Brownsville, Pa., sends a roll of 30 names for the Junior Patrol, but only one pledge for himself. You can't be a captain, John, until you are elected by at least 10 members of a club. Send in nine more pledges.

Another girl who is almost a captain today is Vervian Johnson, of Box 535, MacDonald, Pa. She only sends six pledges and of course every club needs at least 10. Surely, you have four more friends who would like to join up, Vervian? Send in their pledges and we will send your captain the black and orange armband.



GROGAN JEWELRY

Why It Is A Good Investment

Because Grogan jewelry grows more valuable with time. And our reasonable prices of today and the high quality of our jewelry make a purchase now a better investment than ever. This is indeed a rare opportunity to invest, at small cost, in lasting and beautiful pieces, particularly for those with modest incomes.

In times like the present, people are prone to go after will-o'-the-wisps, and later regret purchases made unwisely. The possessions we treasure and the heirlooms we value are the result of good workmanship by the maker and careful consideration on the part of the purchaser.

I love the quiet line of hills
Against a sky; a tide that fills
A tranquil bay; a sun that comes
With beauty like the beat of drums;

Fingering the slender grasses . . .
Why is it, then, I so love jazz;
The fever-chart a night club has;

Slender figures, weaving hips,
Young white arms and torrid lips;
Hungry eyes and tinkling glasses,
Beating hearts and muted brasses? . . .

Why it is I do not know . . .
I merely state that it is so.

By Way of Report

The controversey over "Where's Elmer?" is explained by Department Commander Robert E. Minnich of New York, who says the expression is merely a gag salutation, which some of us suspected right along. But this letter is easier to understand:

"Dear W. W: Regarding Elmer. About three days before the Legion convention opened, a guest registered as a legionnaire at a hotel where the Legion headquarters located, and they learned later he was a bootlegger, who sold it cheap.

"His card read: 'If you need any stuff see Elmer on the second floor.' He was arrested, and the expression started when all of us ran out of hooch we said: 'Where's Elmer?' That's really the lowdown. —Stooge."

That's more like it.

Merciless Truth

J. C. has come to the conclusion that being a Broadway playboy not only puts circles under your eyes—but in your bankbook.

The Morning Mail

"Santa Monica, Cal. Dear Walter: Jot this down on the inside of your cuff so your coat sleeve won't wear it off. There are only two kinds of actors—good and bad. No matter how badly a good actor does anything it is right. No matter how well a bad actor does anything it is wrong.—Sincerely, Richard Bennett."

Heheheh

Jack Benny, the radio star, and Ben Piazza, the MGM casting director, were golfing in Hollywood recently. The latter almost enjoyed the distinction of making a hole-in-one.

Piazza, it appears, hit the pill a mighty wallop and it landed on the green, rolled along to the edge of the cup—where it stopped.

"Dammit!" barked Piazza, "what hard luck. If there had been another earthquake—I'd have made it!"

As If You Didn't Know

And Harry Salter's glass top desk features this flippancy: When a woman is good, that's beautiful, and when she's beautiful, that's good. But when she's beautiful and good—that's a damb shame!

Quiteso, Quiteso

And what the world needs most is someone who can make it taste as good from a container as it used to from a pail.

Oop!

Irving Hoffman was among the attendance that heard Mayor O'Brien's campaign speech from the marquee of the Criterion Theater the other night.

"I've seen many a flop inside that theater," he says, "but that was the first one I ever saw outside!"

Imagine

Joe Haymes is an orchestra leader. When he observed an item in the local society pages that a wealthy woman of Newport was planning a coming-out party for her daughter, he wrote her recommending his orchestra for the event. Mr. Haymes, however, made a mistake. Instead of posting the letter with a three-cent stamp, he used a two-cent stamp.

It was returned yesterday, marked:

"One Cent Due—Refused."

Of All Things!

Samuel Untermyer, who is practically running the City of New York, has a home in Yonkers, which he has often graciously loaned as a background to motion picture companies.

Once, however, in Mr. Untermyer's absence, a small flicker firm invaded the estate and thefted some shots of the lawyer's mansion. Imagine then this devoted husband's irritation when he saw a picture containing a view of his place prefaced by the title: "The Home Where No Happiness Dwells."

Of Course!

After leaving the NBC studios Sunday night we ankled along the boulevard and overheard this repartee as the red lights retarded traffic at Fiftieth street:

"Did you see those three fellers that just passed us?" said one chap.

"Yeh," said his listener, "why?"

"Well, the feller in the middle owes me $10—and the other two said 'hello!'"

Form of Criticism

In one of the Hollywood rendezvous the other midnight they were discussing a certain actor, and Tom Van Dycke caustically observed:

"Any theater can be emptied in three minutes—but with him in the cast, it's generally much sooner!"

Blonde Dancer Feature Of Variety Show

"Biff, Bang, Bing," now playing in the Variety, has 48 scenes in its two acts, not a dull minute occurs. Four comedians are in the show, including Harry Myers, a "boob" type who is a newcomer here. Others are Eddie Lorraye, eccentric comedian, George Leon and Fred Binder, the latter a Yiddish comic. Ruth Miller, a blonde dancer, who does part of her routine in the Oriental style, also is seen in several comedy sketches of the show. Wanda DeVon, Jean Rose, Marchs Patti and Franklyn Hopkins also are prominent. "Girls of All Nations" and "In a Garden" are numbered among the colorful bits.

'One Happy Family' in Nixon; The Mantell Tragedy; Leiber Is Coming

Cap'n Andy's slogan, "Just one happy family," seems to fit the company presenting "Music in the Air" in the Nixon Theater this week. There are more friendly people with warm souls in this large aggregation than you could count on all your fingers and toes. Perhaps the most genial of them all are the old musician and the village school teacher—Al Shean and Leo Slezac. The son of the famous metropolitan star has the sort of personality one would expect to find in a young man reared in the Bavarian Alps—so he is perfectly at home in the story of this opera laid in Munich and the German Tyrol. As for Shean, who played in the Alvin Theater 42 years ago, the second week after it was opened, his impersonation reminded so many people of David Warfield in "The Music Master" that they were surprised an Irishman could do it.

Mr. Seibel

Right here they are due for another surprise. They assume that Mr. Shean is Irish because his old partner, Mr. Gallagher, was Irish. But Shean is just as German as if he had been born in Egern on the Tegernsee. He came from Germany as a boy of 8, about the same time that Gallagher came from the great Irish seaport of San Francisco. As Gallagher and Shean they were big vaudeville stars for many years, and their famous song was sung by everybody with variations. Now Shean is an actor of such sympathetic spirit that the comparison with Herr Barwig seems inevitable. But there is a difference—Shean's Music Master has more spine and less sentimentality than Warfield's.

It's a joy to watch him. He is one of a dozen comedians of "Music in the Air," and there is no slapstick, horseplay, or vulgarity. The whole show is clean and wholesome, as well as melodious and entertaining.

If anybody wishes to see how delicately a delicate situation can be managed, they should watch that scene where young Slezac bandages Ann Barrie's leg. What some of our big comedians would have done with that episode in the way of suggestive vulgarity is easily imagined. As played in the Nixon it is poetry. Some of the credit for this also belongs to Miss Barrie, who looks and acts with a shy sweetness that might have come from some blossomy village like the one we see in this light opera gem.

END OF A ROMANCE

The tragic news from Los Angeles that Robert Mantell's son by Genevieve Hamper has shot himself, in despair over being unable to get an engagement, is the sad ending of a romance that began in Pittsburgh. It seems to me the young man was here last with Walter Hampden, and Hampden spoke well of his lovable character and promising talent. I looked him up in his dressing-room, having known him since he was an infant in arms, and found him a quiet, modest, sincere young man.

He must have felt that life was futile when he answered Hamlet's "To be or not to be" with a loaded revolver. His worthy father never would have thought of such an end to young Bob's fine flaming spirit. "Out, out, brief candle!"

The young man's mother, Genevieve Hamper, was about to appear again as Portia in a revival of "The Merchant of Venice," and this will be a sad blow to her. Life is a perilous adventure, and art a precarious calling. Perhaps the only true philosophy is that in Addison's "Cato": "'Tis not in mortals to command success. But we'll do more, Sempronius, we'll deserve it."

FRITZ LEIBER COMING

Another figure from the old Mantell entourage is coming next week with the Theater Guild to play an important role in the new Maxwell Anderson drama, "Mary of Scotland." This is Fritz Leiber, who first rose to fame as Iago opposite Mantell's Othello.

Leiber succeeded Mantell as a Shakespearean star, and then was put at the head of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Company. But the collapse of Chicago enterprises after the fall of the Insulls put a temporary stop to this laudable institution. While waiting for road conditions to improve, Leiber has accepted a place in what is almost an all-star cast—with Helen Hayes, Philip Merivale and Helen Menken.

Great interest is manifested in the new play about Mary Stuart by the author of "Elizabeth the Queen." The best-known play about the unhappy Scotch queen, who was really French, is that of Schiller, in which Modjeska did her finest work. But scores of plays have been written about this subject. Anderson, no doubt, will deal with the woman rather than the queen—and Helen Hayes, who has left the pictures, should paint an appealing portrait of one who is "more sinned against than sinning."

Dietrich Girl In Mother's Support

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—Eight-year-old Maria, daughter of Marlene Dietrich, Hollywood's most closely guarded child, will step momentarily from the shadow of her bodyguards to portray her own mother as a girl in "Scarlet Pageant."

This unusual experiment became assured when secret tests turned out satisfactory, and when Miss Dietrich's consent finally had been obtained. The German star, at first, refused to let her little girl go before the camera. She yielded to Director Josef Von Sternberg only when a search had failed to discover any young performer resembling the actress.

Maria's debut, naturally, will be a modest one. She appears briefly at the beginning of the film as the child who became Catharine The Great. If the cutters' shears are kind to her, she will have a few spoken lines in the picture.

Full of the football fever and of opposing sympathies, Director Bill Howard and Hal Rosson, cameraman, were arguing bitterly over a bet on next Saturday's classic between the University of Southern California and California at Berkeley.

"I know what you'll die of," he squelched, "an enlarged heart."

One of the funnier stories of the week is that Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will go into the beauty shop business. The boys are serious, however. They are looking for a location. Shop is planned to be one of the smartest in the film colony and it will have a department of plastic surgery. The idea sprang out of a beauty parlor sequence in this new picture, "Hip, Hips Hooray."

* * *

Barring unforseen developments, Adrienne Ames will get her divorce next Saturday. Just as I told you, Bruce Cabot will fly to Nevada for her and the two will stage an airplane elopement to the town of Carlsbad, N. M. The ceremony—they want the union to be as solemn as possible—will be performed in the little church to which Bruce went as a boy, and from where his father recently was buried.

The city desks here failed to note it, but I think it's a tragic story.

It was opened at page 14 to the speech (Miss Garbo's):

"Spoils, glory, flags and trumpets! What is behind these high-sounding words? . . . death and destruction!"

The departure of Cary Grant on a two weeks' vacation starts hot rumors that he and Virginia Cherrill will be married before he returns to the studio. Cary smilingly denies them, as usual. Says he's going to wear a pair of old pants and make a motor trip . . . George Raft's mother (few knew it but she's been out her four months) sailed Tuesday for New York. George bought her a fine new car and put it aboard the vessel.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEW

The British stage, like the American, with its Barrymores, has its royal family, a member of which will be seen in "Mary Of Scotland," Maxwell Anderson's new historical play that will come to the Nixon Monday with a cast headed by Helen Hayes, Philip Merivale and Helen Menken. This scion of theatrical aristocracy is Anthony Kemble Cooper, who, as his middle name suggests, is a member of the Kemble family, distinguished on the English stage for two centuries. It is descended from Roger Kemble, a strolling player of the early eighteenth century, whose daughter, Mrs. Sarah Siddons, and son, John Philip Kemble, the latter, by the way, educated for the priesthood, were the first of the eminent clan to establish the family as one of prominence, in which a number of illustrious names shine, including that of the great Fanny Kemble.

Right on the heels of "Mary of Scotland" will come the third subscription play, "A Trip to Pressburg," a Lee Shubert production that will have Pola Negri in the leading role. It is an importation from Europe, and is by Leo Perutz. It had considerable vogue abroad, and Mr. Shubert had announced his intention to present it more than a year ago. It did not reach the stage, however, until last spring, in Philadelphia, where it played two weeks. Meanwhile the producer has been seeking the services of a suitable star, and he believes he has found the answer in Pola Negri, who was prominent on the European stage before her appearance in the foreign-made film, "Passion," resulted in bringing both herself and Emil Jannings, who had the leading role in it, to America and Hollywood careers. "A Trip to Pressburg" will be in the Nixon the week of November 6.

Notes of interest about the current theatrical week in New York: Harland Tucker and Paul McGrath, former leading men here with George Sharp, are in two new plays, Mr. Tucker in "Move On, Sister," while "Three and One" includes the name of our Paul . . . "Her Master's Voice" has lured Laura Hope Crews and Roland Young back to the stage from Hollwood . . . A revival of "The Family Upstairs" has in its cast Elsa Ryan, who played "Peg O' My Heart" on the road while Laurette Taylor was doing it in New York . . . Harry Davenport, brother of the renowned Fanny, also is in the cast of "Move On Sister."

All in a Day

Crime at Night

NO ONE could ever define the thoughts that raced through Emma's brain as she stepped out of the car and saw him sitting on the front porch. All she knew was that she suddenly felt cold and panicky, and that she wanted to run. But her legs kept carrying her to the porch.

In the purplish haze of an October twilight, she couldn't be quite certain that it was Red, until she got close. Then, as she started up the steps, she could see that insolent smile and the white scar that ran crookedly down his nose like a stream on a watershed. Then she knew that it was Red. Knew it beyond a doubt.

"Hello, Baby," he said quietly. "Surprised?"

"Hello, Red," she said. "I thought it was you. I wasn't sure."

"What do you want, Red?"

He made a deprecating gesture with his hands.

"Now, is that nice, Baby?" he smiled. "After all these years, you're gonna act like that. Is that nice?"

"What do you want, Red?"

He kept smiling, and staring at her.

"What do you want, Red?" The tone was becoming insistent.

"Well," he said as the smile faded, "it's been a long time. Do we have to get acquainted all over again?"

"You'd better go."

"Oh, I'm being thrown out, eh?"

"You'd better go."

"I can see you're tickled to death to see me."

"Red, you'd better go. My husband will be along any minute."

"All right. Let's talk first."

They talked. Talked for 20 minutes. And all the time that they were talking, Emma's mind was panicky, and racing with thoughts.

She hadn't seen Red in 12 years. That was when the judge had sentenced him to 15 years in the penitentiary, and Emma had sat in the back of the courtroom, and cried. She was only a kid, then. She had loved Red a great deal. Loved him in spite of the fact that a bed-ridden mother had begged her to give him up.

Since that day, she hadn't seen him. The great steel doors clanged shut, and, as she grew up, she grew wiser. She often wondered how she had ever cared for a hardened criminal; a brutish man like Red.

Then Henry came along. Henry with a pasty, thin face and his boring honesty. Henry with his manners, and decorum, and ambitions. Henry had won Emma. Married her. He had worked hard, terribly hard, in the 10 years of their married life. Now he was manager and part owner of the tire-vulcanizing works on Main street. They had a home and car and money in the bank.

Emma loved Henry. But she never had the nerve to tell him about Red. And for 10 years she had lived a life of peace and tranquility—until today. Away back in her mind, she knew that she must have expected this. She must have known that Red would hunt and search until he found her. And now—well, here he was.

"All right," she heard herself saying. "All right. It's the most damnable thing in the world to ask me to do it, but if you'll keep away from me for the rest of your life, I'll do it. I'll do it."

"Has he a gun around the house?"

"Yes, but I'll hide that. Remember, though. If he should wake up while you're in the house, no shooting! That's your solemn promise, Red. And if you break it, I swear that I'll tell everything, even if I have to hang with you."

Red smiled again.

"Don't worry, Baby. If there's three grand in it, and you lead me to it, that's all I want. And no one will ever know. Okay?"

"Yes." . . .

Emma lay blinking in the darkness. She could hear the faint whistling noise of Henry's breathing. He would sleep deeply tonight. He was bound to. After working hard all day long at the plant, he had sorted $3,000 into pay envelopes on the dining room table. It had taken a big part of the evening. And he was dogtired when he went to bed.

She heard the faint tap on the window. She arose noiselessly. She went to the door. Red was standing outside. She took his hand, big and cold and hard, and led him through the dark rooms slowly. She showed him where the stack of envelopes were and he stuffed them into his pockets silently.

Emma could feel her heart beating slower and slower, and it pounded in her throat and temples. Once, when Red almost stumbled, she went "Shhh!" sharply. Then he started to tiptoe out the back way . . .

Henry didn't know what had happened for the moment. He knew vaguely that some sound had awakened him, and he reached under the pillow for his gun, but it wasn't there. Then, clad in pajamas, he had raced out into the dining room looking for Emma.

He found her standing halfway between the dining room and the kitchen. There, in the flood of light from the wall brackets, lay a dead man. A blackish stain was spreading between his shoulder blades. His eyes were open, and he was smiling insolently.

"Good God!" Henry said. "What happened?"

Emma's voice was dull, flat. She pointed at the body.

"I heard this man," she muttered, "in the dining room. I grabbed your gun from under your pillow. He was stuffing pay envelopes in his pockets. I had never seen him before, and I knew he must be a robber. So I shot him." . . .

M'KEE CHARGES 'RED PLOT'

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—A "red plot" and woman suffrage entered the mayoral campaign today as Joseph V. McKee and Fiorello H. La Guardia grew fighting mad and reached for new clubs with which to whale each other.

McKee, the recovery party candidate, accused La Guardia last night of being a dangerous red and a leader of a "plot to put us under the politics and philosophy of Moscow."

"He would be the first to lead the mob," McKee said.

A woman leader in La Guardia's fusion camp hurled at McKee an accusation that in 1915 he wrote for the Catholic World an article impugning the morality of woman suffrage leaders. Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll read from the article and called it a "scurrilous and unwarranted attack made on the moral probity of those sincere women."

Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany candidate, carried his campaign into Yorkville, heart of the German-American section and listed economies he said he had made.

SURVIVES WIFE IN DEATH PACT

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Col., Oct. 26. (AP.)—Declaring he was sorry he had survived the suicide pact in which his wife died, Augustus S. Pasierbeck, of Chicago, told authorities here today he would ask that he be sentenced to death if he is tried for his wife's murder.

Her body was found in the mountains near here yesterday after Pasierbeck had been arrested as he was boarding a train. He led a posse to the scene where he said he and his wife had inhaled an anesthetic from which he recovered.

He said he and his wife had planned to end their lives for a year and had come to Colorado a week ago to carry out the plan. He said they had worked at a box factory, but had not been employed for a year.

PROGRAM FRAUD TRAPS TWO

Magistrate Ray Schneider fined two men today for soliciting Pittsburgh notables for advertisements in a program, sponsored, police said, by a non-existent club.

But the police wouldn't have had to testify, because Schneider knew first-hand. The solicitors yesterday returned $50 to Schneider, given them by his clerk after they showed him an unauthorized advertisement with Schneider's name on it.

James Speers, 36, of 536 Foreland street, was fined $10 in the North Side Police Court, and Theodore K. Bevington, 38, of 507 Avery street, was fined $50. Lawrence Muckle, 27, of 717 Foreland street, was discharged.

Police testified the two men collected for the advertisements under the name of the Majestic Club. Mayor John S. Herron, Councilman William J. Soost and other officeholders were mentioned in the program.

'Three-Cornered Moon' To Open Playhouse

"Three-Cornered Moon," Gertrude Tonkonogy's recent Broadway comedy success, will be the first production of the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse, opening its winter season in Hotel Schenley Theater, Monday evening, November 6, to run four nights. It goes into the Playhouse program in place of "Dangerous Corner." The latter play was presented by the Playhouse during the summer season so it was decided to make this change and give Pittsburgh audiences the first opportunity to see Miss Tonkonogy's comedy hit. The play had a long run at the Cort Theater, New York, last season. The stage for the Hotel Schenley Theater and the sets for the show are nearing completion. The cast is rehearsing for the opening performance.

PLAN MOUNTED SCOUT TROOP

Plans for formation of a mounted Boy Scout troop will be outlined tonight when 50 Eagle Scouts and scout executives meet with County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and several other officials at a dinner in the Community House, South Park. Speakers will be McGovern, Maj. John H. Shenkel, Capt. Charles A. Fleming, Joseph Trainer and Clifford Ball.

McGovern said there is but one mounted Boy Scout troop in the country—in California. He believes there are about 50 Eagle Scouts here eligible for such a troop, which would have headquarters in South Park. The speakers for tonight's meeting are men with cavalry experience.

"PROTECTED"—DO NOT TOUCH

Pittsburgh's Republican Machine Now But A Shield For the Vice Racketeer and the Utility Profiteer---Out of Ill-Gotten Profits the G. O. P. Pays Its Way

Here is "Protection" picturized. The political boss, one arm encircling Pittsburgh's "protected" "industries"—which include houses of prostitution, trolley and bus monopolies, gambling dens and slot machines, light and power franchises and utility buildings that pay no taxes because a Republican machine legislature forbids such assessments.

THE WORD "protection" has always been associated with the name "Republican," ever since there was a party by that name.

There was a time, however, when the Republican Party was engaged in the legitimate and meritorious cause of "protection" for American industries endangered by foreign competition.

But "protection" to legitimate industry and commerce through the medium of tariff laws has become secondary in the Republican scheme of things, not only in National politics, but also in State, county and city politics.

In the City of Pittsburgh, especially, the local Republican machine exists and is kept in existence only for the purpose of protecting a small group of men who are engaged in the business of promoting and operating monopolies of the necessities of modern, everyday life, and in promoting and operating monopolies in commercialized vices such as prostitution, gambling, slot machines, racketeering and moonshine joints.

This statement, constituting a serious indictment of a political party, can be corroborated and proven in more ways than one. Take the recently filed primary expense account of the Coyne-Herron machine for instance.

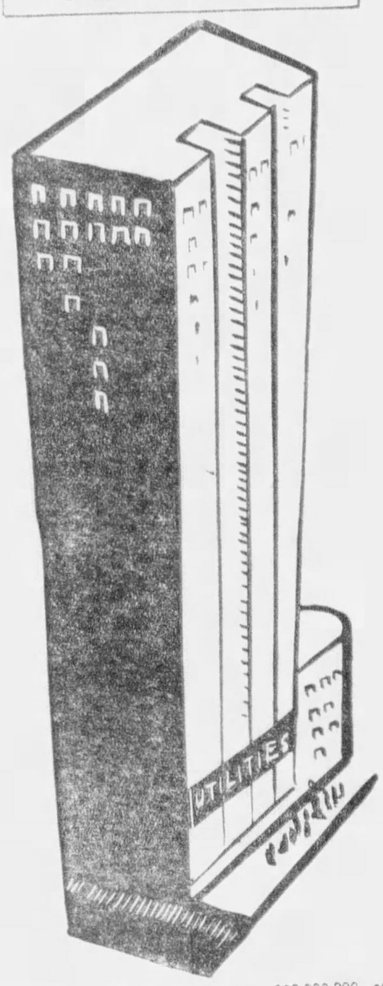
Who were the biggest contributors? The answer is that the biggest contributors were the so-called Mellon group, most interested of all in the profits of the utility monopolies.

No one knows the amount of the annual revenue that the members of the Mellon family receive from the local utility corporations. It has been frequently asserted that out of the approximate $4,000,000 annual profits of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, over $500,000 went to Mellon security holders.

The next piece of evidence proving that the local utility corporations are "protected" monopolies lies in the fact that in spite of the common knowledge that the Duquesne Light Company has extorted $6,000,000 annually from local consumers; in spite of the poor service and high fares charged by the local street car and bus companies, the Republican machine council and the Republican machine mayor, John S. Herron, refuse to even file a complaint with the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission against these corporations.

Another indication of the "protection" given these utilities is the fact that when, during the last session of the Pennsylvania legislature everyone was seeking new sources of revenue to meet the cost of feeding the unemployed and also save some one introduced a bill proposing that the buildings in Pittsburgh owned by the Bell Telephone Company, the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and other utility corporations be taxed like the property of home owners of this city, the Republican machine killed the bill.

PROTECTED



This building represents $32,000,000 of real estate owned by such companies as the Bell Telephone Company, Pittsburgh Railways Company, Pennsylvania Railroad and other utilities on which no city taxes are collected.

Over $100,000,000 of such buildings in the city pay no Allegheny County tax.

As a result, scores of millions of dollars' worth of buildings owned by these utilities pay no taxes. That should be some evidence of "protection."

Last year, charges were made to the Pennsylvania legislature that the Chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission had accepted financial favors from the president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. It was proven that the street railway head had paid this man's hospital bills and other evidence was produced to justify an investigation into the bank deposits of other members of the Public Service Commission.

Because there was no other way out, the presiding officer of the Pennsylvania Senate appointed a committee to investigate. One of the senators named was James J. Coyne. And of course the inquiry got nowhere because the Republican machine stopped it. That is some more evidence of Republican machine "protection."

Now let us take up another kind of "protection."

Under the late Mayor Kline, the Philadelphia system, developed and perfected by Republican Machine Boss Vare, was established in local politics. Under this system, the ward chairman is the recognized head of the machine in his own ward.

All privileges, promotions and patronage must receive his O. K. in order to get the approval of the mayor.

This means that no house of prostitution, no gambling dive, no slot machine or numbers concessions can operate in any ward unless the ward chairman speaks the right word to the police inspector in the district.

All these activities are violations of the law. And it stands to reason that no Republican machine ward chairman would permit a gambling house or a house of prostitution to operate unless some one was receiving a share in the profits of the illegal enterprise.

Only a fool would believe that a house of ill-fame, a gambling den, a slot machine operator or a numbers salesman can do business without paying someone for protection and that someone necessarily is a Republican political boss.

So the very existence of these vice activities is all the evidence needed to prove that "protection" is being bought and paid for by the racketeers of the underworld just as the evidence above cited is sufficient to prove that similar "protection" is purchased in the form of campaign contributions by the monopolists of the overworld.

And the only authority for giving "protection" both to the overworld of the utilities and the underworld of commercialized vice is the present Republican machine, now endeavoring to elect Herron mayor of Pittsburgh.

The only way to put an end to the traffic in "protection" is to install a new administration in city hall—an administration that owes nothing to the utilities, to the racketeers of the underworld, to the Coyne Republican machine or to anyone who can demand such "protection."

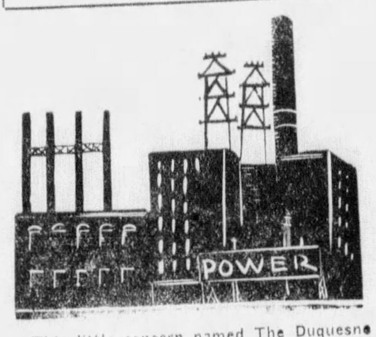
This means that you should vote the straight Democratic ticket which will insure the election of William N. McNair as mayor and a council that will co-operate with him in wiping out the Republican protectionists and their beneficiaries in the overworld and in the underworld.

PROTECTED

Protected from all competition by a friendly Public Service Commission, the Pittsburgh Railways Company has been able to collect over Forty Million Dollars in profits in about 10 years. Today its executives say it cannot afford to pay the city the agreed charge of $300,000 for paving between street car tracks.

So, as a result, the City of Pittsburgh is now paying for all such work out of the treasury and sending the bill to the taxpayers.

PROTECTED



This little concern named The Duquesne Light Company, according to a recent report signed by Senator James J. Coyne has been getting away with an excess charge for light and power to Pittsburgh consumers of over Six Million Dollars a year.

But neither Senator Coyne nor Mr. Herron has ever attempted to stop the looting of the pocketbooks of the citizens of Pittsburgh.

Would You Want Your Children To Be Reared In This "Protected" Neighborhood?

Here is presented a portrayal of what Republican "protection" means in Pittsburgh's underworld.

It shows, for the benefit of that half of Pittsburgh that might know nothing about how the other half lives, a street scene in a machine controlled ward.

Here, sandwiched in between the homes of respectable but respectable residents, protected houses of prostitution operate day and night, the madames knowing they have nothing to fear from the police, order the inmates to openly solicit the patronage of the passing youth.

On the sidewalks, children, little boys and girls, play and pass back and forth on their way to and from the neighborhood school.

In close proximity to the police station, the artist shows a gambling den, to which the racketeers of the underworld lure boys and young men of the neighborhood. The notorious Monaca Club was an outstanding example of a gambling club operating across the street from a police station.

And again all over the city are to be found slot machines, mute evidence that somewhere a racketeer favored by a Republican ward leader will be around on Saturday to take from the receptacles the huge sums contributed by the wage-earners of Pittsburgh out of pay envelopes that should have been saved intact to pay home expenses.

Here is underworld "protection" by the Republican machine. It is bought and paid for and the price paid is part of the price Pittsburgh pays for the maintenance of the Republican political machine.

ZONING BOARD BANS MINE

The Zoning Board of Adjustment has refused a permit for the opening of a coal mine in the Lincoln avenue district, making the third such request for mine operations within the city turned down recently.

The appeal was made by Robert B. Parkiss, owner, and William W. Scully, lessee, of 14 acres in Apple avenue, Twelfth Ward. According to the owner's testimony, there had never been a mine opening on the property.

According to information at the board, a mine fire had burned for a number of years under adjoining land. The board held that since the Apple avenue property had not been used for mining before the passage of the zoning ordinance, it could not be so used now.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves Big Dollars! No Cooking!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

WELFARE FUND ROLLS GAIN

An increase in new families seeking relief is being noted for the first time since last spring, according to Wilbur F. Maxwell, director of the Welfare Fund.

Fifty-nine thousand families will enter the winter on the relief rolls in Allegheny County, compared with 37,000 families receiving help at the opening of last year's Welfare Fund drive. At the peak last May the number of families cared for was 75,000.

The Welfare Fund is seeking to raise $2,837,000 this year as compared with $2,480,000 last year.

R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the fund, announced that J. W. MacGowan would address the Sewickley High School Assembly today. Speakers listed for tomorrow are: Leetsdale High School, the Rev. Dr. W. S. Corcoran; Edgeworth Junior High School, Eleanor P. Webster; East Deer Township Junior High School, T. R. Alexander; Glassport High School, A. T. Benson.

Repeal Wave Boosts State Grape Harvest

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Probable repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment this fall has increased the harvest of grapes in Erie County, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The harvest, now at its peak, amounts to approximately 30 cars in addition to hundreds of trucks daily.

PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

TOPLEY LOYAL TO G. O. P.; OUT FOR HERRON

Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley at a noonday meeting in Republican headquarters declared his support for the Republican city and county ticket and said that "all good Republicans should unhesitatingly aid in furthering the party's interest in any way they can serve."

Topley in the primary supported Recorder of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell against Mayor John S. Herron. Mackrell recently bolted to the Democratic party, Topley said.

"The Republican ticket will be elected November 7. I think we can be certain about this, because the people of Pittsburgh know that the Republican candidates, by their record of performance, can prove a competence which their opponents cannot assert. However, none of us should rely on confidence in the result and relax our activity. These are times when our opponents can more readily make headway with appeals based on the sentimental and temperamental, which avoid the real issues. There is always a danger that facts may be obscured under such circumstances, so it is our job to guard against this.

"These appeals that are being made on a national basis must be shown up for what they are. President Roosevelt has said he will take no interest in local elections. We will conduct the election of city and county candidates in this city and county, which are concerned, and the Democrats should do the same."

Councilman Harry A. Little declared that national issues had nothing to do with the election, the sole question being whether officials who had made good and who had established the city's credit at a high point should be retained.

DAVIS OPPOSES CANCELLATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.) Senator James J. Davis is relentless in his opposition to the cancellation of European debts to the United States. In a letter to the Citizens' Committee opposed to the cancellation of foreign debts at Philadelphia, he wrote:

"The United States should follow the logic of geography and maintain her political connections on this side of the Atlantic. The conflagration which has flared up in Germany may possibly set all Europe in flames. Our best fire insurance consists of following the advice of Washington in avoiding entangling alliances while we steadfastly demand payment of what Europe owes us."

HOUSEWIVES WELCOME RECIPES

Many Readers Write Appreciation of Menu Aides

Prudence Penny is still receiving scores of enthusiastic letters from housewives who seem to be getting help from the favorite recipe contest which is, perhaps, attracting greater interest among women than any other feature ever published in the Sun-Telegraph.

Mrs. E. E. Newlon, Point Marion, writes:

"In the recipes I find many new ways of cooking things, which when tride once, will be tried again and again, which is the best praise that can be given any dish. I am submitting one that I think is good and hope you will like it also."

Mrs. R. K. Hutchinson, 549 James street, Turtle Creek, says:

"I am very much interested in your recipe column. I have tried several and had wonderful success. I have clipped all recipes and have pasted them in my cook book."

Mrs. Mary E. Hollins, Dormont, says:

"All of your recipes I have tried are so good and we like them so very much that I think that it is a lovely and grand idea to publish them. I like to read them, tried to bake from them and best of all—eat them. They all sound good."

The Sun-Telegraph continues to award $15 in daily cash prizes for the best recipe submitted to Prudence Penny—$5 for the best of the day and $1 each for 10 others.

THURSDAY'S $5 PRIZE WINNER

MRS. K. R. ADAMS,
2764 Bergman street,
PASTEL SHORTBREAD BISCUITS

One-half pound margarine or other un-colored shortening.
One-half cup confectioners' sugar.
One-quarter cup corn starch.
One and three-quarters cups flour.
Cake coloring.

Mix with hand or pastry mixer until ingredients will stick together. Color delicately and pat out on floured board to about one-quarter inch thickness. Cut with fancy cookie cutters and bake in hot oven about 10 minutes.

TEN $1 PRIZE WINNERS

MRS. L. C. FISHER,
904 Chess street, Monongahela.
LAMB PIE

One lamb shank (two pounds).
Two onions.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One cup peas.
One cup carrots (diced).
One-half cup celery (cut up).
One cup potatoes (cubed).
One teaspoon sugar.
One clove garlic.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two cups lamb stock.
Four tablespoons flour.

Wash meat and place in pot with boiling water. Add one onion, sliced, salt and pepper. Cook until meat is tender. Cool and skim off all the fat. Cook peas, carrots, celery, potatoes and sugar in boiling salt water until tender, about 20 minutes. Chop onion, add garlic and fry in butter until browned. Thicken lamb stock with the flour mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Combine with vegetables, onion, garlic and butter. Cut meat from bone and add to the vegetable mixture. Turn into a baking dish and cover with pie crust.

MISS ELIZABETH BATEMAN,
Smithton.
HALLOWEEN PUDDING

One cup brown sugar.
Two cups water, set some to a boil.
One tablespoon butter.
One-half cup brown sugar.
One cup flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One-quarter teaspoon nutmeg.
One-quarter teaspoon cloves.
One-half cup raisins.
One-half cup nuts.

Cream butter and sugar. Add unbeaten egg, one cup flour, salt, spices, baking powder and milk. Mix well. Add raisins and nuts, sprinkle with flour. Add to boiling syrup. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve with cream.

MISS CLARA ALLISON,
2611 Oakland avenue, Charleroi.
MOTHER'S SPICED RED CABBAGE

Red cabbage, shredded
Two tablespoons butter or lard
Two tablespoons sugar
One tablespoon salt
One bay leaf, crushed
Six cloves
Two tablespoons vinegar
Water

Put cabbage, butter, sugar, salt, bay leaf, cloves and vinegar in saucepan and add enough water to cover. Cover and let stand over a moderate heat for 2 hours. Then drain off water and add enough more vinegar to cover. Pick cabbage lightly in fork. Boil over a moderate heat for 10 minutes. Serve hot.

MRS. H. H. BAXLEY,
3641 Brighton road.
DIXIE CAULIFLOWER

Cook a large head of cauliflower until tender; salt and place in buttered baking dish. Pour over this a pint of thick highly seasoned tomatoes which have been strained. Add to this liquid one buttered cracker crushed fine, one grated onion and a dash of pepper. Cover with a layer of dry bread crumbs that have been fried in brown butter and set in a hot oven until nicely browned.

MRS. HENRY J. SCHAFERS,
210 Park way.
HALLOWEEN PEANUT POPCORN BALLS

Pop enough corn to make six quarts, taking care that all hard kernels have been removed, and spread in a large dripping pan. Make a syrup of one cup of molasses and one-half cup of sugar cooked until it forms a hard ball in cold water, 242 degrees. Add one-quarter teaspoon soda dissolved in one quart boiling water. While this syrup is foaming in a cup of peanut meats, then turn it over the popcorn, stirring vigorously. As soon as the mixture can be handled, grease the hands and make quickly into balls of the desired size.

MRS. R. HUNT,
120 Hemlock street, Mt. Lebanon.
KIDNEY SAUTE

Wash one beef kidney and cut in small pieces. Put in pan. Have deep skillet of boiling water ready with one or two tablespoons hot fat and add kidneys and let cook, stirring the while. Add two sliced onions, two carrots cut lengthwise, one bay leaf, two peppercorns, salt and pepper to taste. Simmer an hour or longer and about half hour before serving time add two medium sized potatoes diced. Add a little water from time to time to keep from sticking. This makes a very nice and inexpensive dish.

MRS. THOMAS DALEY,
854 Thompson avenue, Donora.
SPICED CRABAPPLE JELLY

One peck of red crab-apples cut in quarters, cover with water and to each quart of water add one-half pint of vinegar, one teaspoon of whole cloves, one teaspoon of allspice and one stick of cinnamon. Cook with apples until soft, drain through cheese cloth, add one cup of sugar to each cup of juice, boil until jelling point is reached. Seal in sterilized glass and cover with parrafin. This is delicious with meat.

MRS. A. J. THOMAS,
HARVARD BEETS

Mix one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one eighth teaspoon salt. Add one-third cup cider vinegar and one-third cup boiling water. Cook until sauce is clear. Add two cups cooked, diced beets. Add two tablespoons butter and serve.

MRS. H. H. STEPHENS,
7021 Bennett street,
TOMATO RAREBIT

One half pound American cheese.
One-fourth teaspoon dry mustard.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Two cups drained canned tomatoes.
Salt.
Six slices toast.

In the upper section of a double boiler put dried cheese, mustard and pepper. When cheese is melted, add tomato pulp and salt to taste. Stir until smooth and creamy and serve on toast. Six portions.

MRS. P. H. CHRISTIAN,
Torrance.
DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

Three level tablespoons of butter or Crisco.
One cup sugar.
One-half cup hot water.
One cup flour.
Two level teaspoons baking powder.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two eggs.

Melt one and one-half squares chocolate or four rounded tablespoons cocoa and three level tablespoons of butter or Crisco in a pan. Add one cup of sugar, one-half cup of hot water, one cup flour with two level teaspoons of baking powder and one-quarter teaspoon of salt. Beat two eggs with egg beater. Bake 20 to 30 minutes at 350 degrees F. This recipe makes one layer cake, unless part. Top the cake with plain uncooked icing.

PLAIN UNCOOKED ICING

One and one-half cupfuls confectioners' sugar.
Three tablespoonfuls water or milk.
Few drops flavoring.

Sift confectioners' sugar into bowl. Add water or milk, then gradually sugar and stir thoroughly for several minutes. Add the flavoring and spreadable consistency is desired. Makes enough to cover one cake.

CHARGE FACES CONSTABLE

Accused of aggravated assault and battery, Constable R. E. Switzer, of the office of Alderman Charles A. Burke, East End, will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan in Sewickley tonight.

Sophia Menerzyn, of 1010 Carson street, South Side, charged that Switzer, during a search on a warrant, shoved her through a showcase when she protested against the breaking of several jars of pickles.

Wife Seeking Boost In Small Allowance

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Now that the country is off the gold standard, Mrs. Celia Shultz told Judge Shepherd at Geneva she thinks it's high time her husband was leaving more than a daily allowance of 25 cents.

Mrs. Shultz told the court yesterday in her hearing for a divorce from Fred C. Shultz, 72, of Aurora, that for 37 years he had left a quarter daily at the corner drug store with which she was to buy supplies for the day's three meals.

Injuries From Fall Fatal to Woman, 86

Wild West Thriller On Air

A dramatic program packed with suspense, excitement and high humor is heard over 10 radio stations in Pittsburgh and the tri-state area today and tomorrow in the presentation of "The Wild West of 1933."

Based on a story featured in next Sunday's American Weekly Magazine, distributed with the Sun-Telegraph, "The Wild West of 1933" tells how a country sheriff and his deputies, guided by an observing farmer, captured a gang of modern western desperadoes.

It is heard on the following stations:

Today: WFBG, Altoona, 3 p. m., and WKBN, Youngstown, 8:15 p. m.

Friday: WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WADC, Akron, 7:45 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, 8 p. m., and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

East End Templars To Hold Card Party

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

An important schedule shift puts the Weston Sisters, harmony trio, in the 8:45 spot. They previously were heard at 7:30.

Jeanne Galbraith, who sings on WJAS at 6, will be a busy lady tonight, being scheduled for a personal appearance in her home community—West View.

Two late evening features—Charles Reber's "Pianoisms" at 10:30 and Eddie Peyton's band at 11:30.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello ladies and gentlemen:

As I said before, Carnegie soil grows anything and everything.

Mrs. H. Gluckman has a pretty good idea that the morning-glory growing propensities of the North Side real estate are nothing to be passed off lightly. Her front yard on East street boasts of a 35-foot-high morning-glory.

With the first cold weather comes the brain teasers.

Here is an original headache by Clifford Garden, Aliquippa.

A man spends twice as much for his house than he does for his furniture, twice as much for his furniture than he does for his automobile, twice as much for the auto than he does for his rug, twice as much for the rug than for the stove and twice as much for the stove than for the radio and twice as much for that than he does for his electric iron. Altogether he spent $1,000. What did each article cost?

All I'll venture is that he sure did get his money's worth.

No, Mrs. Jones, I didn't mention anything about any affair that was giving away $50 in gold each day as prizes. You're right, Uncle Sam would get after anybody that had so much gold.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph Huckestein, Wilkinsburg: Don't be discouraged about that recipe. I'll bet you make grand apple pie.

* * *

Mrs. J. P. Dobo, McKeesport—Hate to admit it, but don't know nor can I find when the last conference of the International League of Peace and Freedom was held.

Can some one help us out here?

The envy of the force is Patrolman "Whitie" Seiferth, who made a hole-in-one on Castle Shannon's No. 7. He wants all the other globe trotters to know about it.

7 Log Drivers Swept From Island Drown

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Seven log drivers drowned today in the Salmon River 40 miles from here, according to meager information reaching Saint John. Names of the men were not available.

Swollen by overnight rains the river became dangerous and the men took refuge on a small island. The water continued to rise, however, and they were swept downstream and drowned.

MOTHER DEFORMS SON'S FEET FOR LIFE

The bones in the feet of a child are plastic like clay. Therefore, the shoes worn in childhood mould the feet to the shape of those childhood shoes.

If the shoes worn in childhood or growing youth are not scientifically shaped to make the feet walk like a barefoot boy, if they do not allow the blood to circulate naturally through the youngster's feet, if they cramp the toes, the child will reach manhood or womanhood with feet deformed for life. Your boy or girl will grow up with bent bones, corns, bunions, ingrowing nails, painful falling arches, tired, aching legs, feet. One or more of these deformities or one of forty diseases may torture him for life.

Get your children or growing girls and boys into Ground Gripper Shoes today. They make the feet lie and walk as nature intended they should. They let the blood circulate in them freely and full. They do not pinch the toes. They make a man of boy, a girl or a woman walk with the joy of a barefoot boy. They give you happy feet that are also handsome feet.

Ground Grippers are hard to wear out. They wear so long and give such blessed relief that nine out of every ten Ground Gripper wearers wear them for life. This is not boyeraj. This statement is from our customers' record. Bring the youngsters in today and let our experts fit them with the shoe they should wear for life. Also let us make you walk with the joy of a barefoot boy. Come in and see our experts today. Ground Gripper Shoe Shop, 203 Stanwix St., Jenkins Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Universal News Writer on Radio

The thrilling experiences of a news correspondent during the recent Cuban revolutions are described over an NBC Blue Network tonight when Karl Decker, Universal News Service staff writer, war correspondent and soldier of fortune tells of his experiences in and about Havana.

Decker, who first rode with and wrote of the insurrectos who aided United States soldiers in freeing Cuba from Spain, still is vigorous, strong voiced and as forceful a writer, talker and fighter as when he personally freed Evangeline Cisneros, the "Cuban Joan of Arc," from a Spanish prison, placed her aboard a gun-running American ship and brought her to New York and an uproarious civic greeting.

The intensely interesting broadcast, not carried locally, may be picked up on WJZ, 760 kilocycles, at 11 o'clock.

Legion Post Plans Armistice Dance

Fort Black Post No. 538, American Legion, Hazelwood, is planning its annual dance at Barkers Hall on Armistice Day, November 11. The post will launch a membership campaign this week.

Marsh and Keck Talk On Hunting Season

Louis L. Kaufman, globe trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the day's news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.; over WCAE at 6:30.

Suggestions For Radio Programs

By AIRCASTER

From a radio artist who doesn't want publicity (Hey, Ripley!) comes a petulant letter deploring the lack of originality in the run-of-mine radio programs.

He believes the head men of radio networks lack the originality of the radio newsreel editors who, he finds, never are at a loss for novelty.

This far-sighted fellow suggests, for instance, that radio might sound a new note by having the networks bring us stuff like this:

The chatter of teeth and the knocking of knees from an October Morn nudists' camp;

Tomorrow's Games

WWSW re-creates the Pitt-Notre Dame contest at 1:45.

WCAE and WJAS carry a play-by-play account of the Army-Yale game tomorrow afternoon at 1:45.

* * *

The Pitt-Notre Dame game at South Bend, Saturday, will not be broadcast over KDKA as first announced.

Wynn Out

Maybe you've heard. Then, again, maybe you haven't. He made his exit with less fanfare than his entrance.

Ed Quinn quit as president and director of the new Amalgamated Broadcasting Company yesterday.

"I'm a showman—not a radio technical director," he said.

It is perennially the most popular of all books, full of romance and suspense.

Thumbnail descriptions of a few of the major broadcasts:

"Roses and Drums"—A re-enactment of the Civil War, the outcome of which is held in doubt and thus suspense provided, for those who were born too late or cut their history classes. It is being rumored, however, that Grant will take Richmond, and that war is what Sherman said it is.

"Crime Club"—A school for those who wish to polish up on the fine art of murder.

"Bath Club"—A one-hoss shay drawn by thoroughbrds.

"Bernie"—A Revival. (Of gags that were funny when Ben was a lad, himself.)

Gem of the Ocean

The Navy, 364 days out of the year goes about its business without fanfare. Tomorrow, Navy Day, the networks and the nation honor the Bluejackets and their battlewagons.

A sham battle at sea off the Pacific Coast is described over CBS-WJAS, from the Navy dirigible Macon, between 2:30 and 3:30 in the afternoon.

Rear Admirals Cluverius and Standley speak over NBC-KDKA at 4:30.

EVERY DAY thousands of people say, "Let's go to Isaly's". Probably the sparkling white store fronts that radiate quality and neatness, invited them inside the first time. And then they learned what fine, appetizing dairy products Isaly's served—the cottage cheese, ice cream bricks, milk shakes, butter, cheese and others. We know that our customers want high quality, so we ourselves control every step right up to the minute we hand their purchases over the counter. They want freshness—our twice-a-day delivery to every store insures that. They want cleanliness—and you've seen for yourself how neat our stores are kept. These factors make Isaly values that induce people to come back again.

Get this NEW Pumpkin Center Brick

A pumpkin shaped center of pumpkin custard ice cream runs through every one of the seven or eight thick slices you can cut from this brick—and for less than a nickel a slice. Vanilla ice cream cloaks the outside. Even if you haven't planned a party, you should at least observe Hallowe'en with one of these bricks for dessert some evening soon.

And here's a tip—get a brick any time during the day and have it packed in dry ice (for only 5¢ more). It will stay cold as long as 24 hours.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

One of our most charmingly distinctive debutantes is making her bow to the social world today—Vardi Marshall, tall, slender daughter of the Lee Holmes Marshalls.

Her mother is presenting her at a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club. Debutantes of the season and members of the Marshall family, including the deb's sister, Mrs. Wallace Hurtee Rowe, Jr., are guests.

One of the new striped velvets in a rust shade is the choice of the debutante for her "coming out" gown. It is made in the princess style having as the only trimming a broad collar of sable. Her hat is of brown velvet. She is to carry yellow orchids.

While on the topic of debs, I want to tell you some more good news—another debutante is added to the list. She's charming Jane Kennedy, daughter of the Joseph W. Kennedys, who's studying again this year at Vassar.

To Make Debut

Her mother will present her at a luncheon December 20 in the Kennedy home. Betsy Liggett will be presented at a tea in the Allegheny Country Club, November 14.

Mrs. James R. Crutchfield will give a dinner in her home tomorrow night for a most interesting visitor—Dr. Y-Fang Wu, president of Gingling College, Na'ting, China, here for several days to fill lecture engagements.

Spectators at the Brandywine Hunter trials, run yesterday afternoon over wind-swept Barberry farm, Sewickley Heights, shivered in the cold, but the trials went on.

Hunter Trials

Stablemen walked brightly blanketed horses about under the trees in a nearby orchard to warm them up, and everyone kept moving to keep comparatively warm.

Women, and even several of the men, wore fur coats. The J. O. Burgwins, both of whom were in riding clothes, had raccoon coats.

In spite of the cold, the event attracted many spectators, and many riders. And the setting was a colorful one—the hilltops with their masses of autumn foliages, the flags marking the jumps, the pink coats of many of the riders.

Brides at two of the most notable weddings of the fall were there, back from their honeymoons—Mrs. William D. George, Jr., and Mrs. Emory Moran Ford.

Mrs. George, the former Mary Franklin Robinson, wore a striking full-length leopard coat and a small green felt hat. Perched on top of a rail fence, the Fords were watching the trials.

Brides Attend

Mrs. Ford, the former Laura Evans, wore a luxurious mink coat over a wine-red rabbit's wool dress, having an Ascot tie of wine-red velvet and a jaunty red felt hat with a pointed crown.

Young Margaret Painter, there with her mother, Mrs. C. A. Painter, Jr., was the only person there to ignore the wind so far as to go hatless.

Rosamound Pitch wore bright blue wool socks over her stockings. And the socks matched her wool dress and felt hat. Chatting together were Nancy and Virginia Doyle and Martha Yost in warm sports clothes.

Debutante Fredericka Holdship and her sister Margaret, chairman of the Hunt ball held last night in the Allegheny Country Club, were in riding clothes and so was debonair young Althea Robinson.

Others braving the winds to see the trials were Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, who wore a leopard coat; Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Mrs. Clinton Lowrie Childs, Mrs. B. F. Jones II, Collie Jennings, Laura Childs, Bertha Brooks, the A. R. Hamiltons, Roberta Smith and George Davidson.

Brave Winds

I had a glimpse of attractive Evelyn Evans, who wore a mink coat over her wool dress; of Mrs. Edward McKinney and Mrs. C. Bedell Monro, there to see Janet McKinney ride; of the Morgan B. Schillers, young Leonard Buchman, tall son of the Henry Clay Bughmans who always attend such events; A. C. Martin, Richard King Mellon, Torrence Miller, of the B. F. Jones, III.

Genevieve Bell was chatting with friends, and I saw Mrs. Eugene H. Kipp, Katharine Walker and Margaret McGrath near the paddock.

Chatting with Mary Elizabeth Floyd was Mrs. Douglas Little, whose marriage took place this fall in England. And Mrs. Lewis A. Park was there. Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mrs. William Christopher Robinson and Mrs. Donald C. Bakewell.

Seen at Event

Mrs. Richard T. Fleck attended, Mrs. James William Benning, Jr., Mrs. Frederick Bullard, Mr. Simon T. Patterson, Louise Reed, Mrs. McCook Reed, Mrs. Edward Wallis Woods, Mrs. George A. Bennes, Jr., Mrs. T. Hoge Nimick, Miss Susan O'Neil, Mrs. W. L. Mellon, Jr., Mrs. Leslie W. Young and Mrs. Thomas C. Wurtz.

That evening she will give a dinner for 40 guests in honor of Mrs. Sebrell in the William Penn Hotel, to be followed by a theater party at the Nixon.

Dorothy Brown Married to Laurence B. Kuhns in New Kensington

Dr. and Mrs. Prentiss A. Brown, of McCargo street, New Kensington, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Brown, to Laurence B. Kuhns, of New Kensington, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Moser Kuhns, of Dalmatia, Pa.

The marriage was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony took place before a lovely embankment of cibotium and croton ferns, palms and yellow chrysanthemums, arranged in the living room. The Rev. William P. Russell, of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated.

Mrs. Walter S. Gabel played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in an empire gown of transparent velvet of bishop's purple. She wore a tiny turban edged with a short veil in the same shade. Her flowers were orchids, pansies and lilies of the valley arranged in an arm bouquet. Miss Miriam Brown, her sister's only attendant, wore a gown of rust velvet with a small gold metallic turban, and carried pompons in the rust shades.

The bride's mother was attired in a frock of brown and cream lace, with a shoulder corsage of tea roses and valley lilies. The bridegroom's mother wore black velvet and a shoulder corsage of roses. William Kuhns, of New Kensington, was his brother's best man. Only the immediate families and a few close friends were present.

A prettily appointed tea followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kuhns left by motor for a trip through Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Birmingham School and Miss Conley's School and attended Washington Seminary. The bridegroom is a graduate of Van Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhns will be at home in Pershing drive, Mt. Vernon, after November 15.

Through the Spyglass
Viewing the New

Here's news for Halloweeners on through to "first nighters" . . . brought by the trusty spyglass clutched in our fist! For the names of the shops whose items are mentioned here, call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass . . . or send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a reply.

With the arrival of several good shows and an eye-widening turnout of fashionables, we feel justified in chanting off a few bars in praise of the new "lame" or sequin jewelry which has appeared to match evening bags and collars. For, while "all that glitters is not gold," anything more "golden" than this is quite unnecessary when it comes to smart shimmerings in your hair, at the throat, wrist, shoulder, or in your ears! $1.98.

And in line with doing the gracious-lady act down the aisle on first-nights — or anywhere else which warrants formal attire for that matter—why not wear one of the new coronet braids which all young America of 16 onwards is wearing? We saw a number of these worn halo-fashion 'round heads at the recent Press Night at the International. And they were smarter than smart! Incidentally we know of a shop which will make your own hair up into your coronet braid for you for $6—or provide you with a silky, fine one of imported hair for $10!

Crossing over to pumpkins with a hop, skip, and jump we have ferreted out the news about some marvelous Jack Horner Pies which are made up at one of the shops . . . for as little as 50c! And if your mind travels back as far as grade school days, you'll doubtless remember having pulled many a prize out of such "pies."

This shop suggests Halloweeners-to-be order themselves a pie to set before their guests as an interesting way to present favors. And believe us, they have quite the cleverest ideas on the subject we've heard.

When doing a September Morn into your own private tub, you'll find it much more enjoyable if you throw in a packet of the water-softener-bath-crystals which we've found packed into intriguing square boxes of cedar! The idea being that when the salts are gone, the cedar box will be nice for handkerchiefs, jewelry, cigarets, or other junk. 25c the box . . . and a nice gift, we whisper!

* * *

Bracelets by Elizabeth Hawes, the much-heralded American designer of clothes and accessories! These quite look as if you had stepped out of the pillory . . . being as how they are merely slabs of prystal cut into squares and then a round hole punched out to admit your slender fist! Terribly swank, though . . . in colors, and costing $1.95! Lots of other jewelry of hers, too . . . from $1 to $2.95.

—DOROTHY RANDALL.

Junior Club To Sponsor New Play

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

To further finance its several philanthropic activities, the Junior Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg will sponsor a performance of "Three-Cornered Moon" by the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse Wednesday evening, November 8, in the Hotel Schenley. The play is a new work by Gertrude Tonkonogy.

MANNISH HATS ADOPT SOFT LINES

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A coachman's cap inspired the gray tweed felt hat, left, with its stitched green antelope band. The brim curve is especially interesting.

Below, an antelope Glengarry bonnet with a bright quill.

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

IT looked for a while last winter as if even the bowler hat, in all its original masculinity, was going to be taken over by girls who went haywire over "mannish" hats. The prospects this winter are much brighter, however, and the hats we see that have a man-tailored look are distinctly feminine pieces and nothing that laments for pants and a pair of braces to keep them sartorial company.

Hairy tweeds and felts which can be shaped softly to the appearance of blocked hats are being used a lot for the models. They can be had in colors that blend with any sort of tailored woolen ensemble, and they are a little bit more sporting and masculine than smooth felt though they remain so feminine.

Numerous models that spring from various Highland bonnet types have given designers a chance to take novelty plaids into camp, and the vogue for Alpine hats has brought back the becoming brim line which sweeps up in the back with abrupt chic and down in the front with seductive eye shadow.

The hats that stem from man's Fedora are legion, but all of them are more soignee and adaptable than those of yesteryear. Grays are good; so are dark greens, coppery shades, and wine or berry shades.

Right, an adaptation of the Tyrolean hat in stitched peau d' antelope with a quill trimming suggestive of the traditional eagle feathers.

Lunt to Direct Mt. Lebanon Singers

Miss Fitzer Chairman For Sheraden Dance

Miss Louise Fitzer is general chairman for the dance, which the Sheraden Junior Woman's Club will give tomorrow night in the Chartiers Heights Country Club. Mrs. Benjamin Clarke is her vice chairman; Mrs. Robert A. Burrows, chairman of publicity; Miss Mae Banker, of tickets; Mrs. Roy S. Dawson heads the orchestra committee; Miss Mary Jane McMurry, posters; Miss Marion Thompson, dance programs, and Miss Hope Adams, decorations.

Scholarship Unit Guides Students

The scholarship committee of Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, maintains an unusual relationship between committee members and the students to whom it gives assistance.

Not only do Mrs. Alexander Silverman and her aides on the committee finance these talented young men and women, but they advise them concerning their scholastic problems and family difficulties.

The bridge benefit which council will have on Monday at the Hotel Schenley is designed to raise funds for its scholarship aid.

Amendment 7 Deals With Railroad Rates

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Number 7 in the list of proposed Constitutional amendments to be voted on next month deals with railroad rates. It strikes out the so-called "long and short haul" clause in Section 3 of Article 17. The Civic Club bulletin, in a statement on this subject prepared after a thorough study of conditions, points out that there has been a change in transportation since the Constitution was written in 1873. It says:

Mr. Shields

"The only effect of this amendment is to eliminate the long and short haul provision with respect to shipping rates . . . Conditions no longer justify the inclusion of such a provision in the state Constitution. Rate making within the state is now controlled by the Public Service Commission, just as interstate commerce rates are controlled by the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Amendment No. 8 Causes Most Talk

Of all the amendments, No. 8 has caused the most talk. It authorizes the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer to borrow on bonds $25,000,000 for the "expenses of the state government" during the current biennium. If approved, this amendment requires no further action by the Legislature. The enabling act has been passed in advance of decision by the voters on the proposition.

"Expenses of the state government" is thus made specific in action despite indefiniteness in phrase. It means that $20,000,000 will go for unemployment relief. The remaining $5,000,000 will go for appropriations to hospitals and educational institutions. This $5,000,000 represents the amount which was abated from these institutions by the last Legislature to provide that much for unemployment relief from current state revenues.

Hospitals through their state association have said they will be compelled to curtail services and in some instances to entirely abandon the conduct of certain phases of their work if the amendment does not pass. Heads of educational institutions have declared that they will not be able to continue at a standard approximating desired school levels if the amendment is defeated.

There is a sharp divergence of political sentiment over the amendment. Gov. Pinchot is ardently for it. Auditor General Frank A. Baldwin, a member of the State Emergency Relief Board, acidly opposes it. Senator Harry B. Scott, President Pro Tem of the Senate, as loyal an organization Republican as Mr. Baldwin, is author of the amendment, and a short time ago made a speech in its favor.

Bond Issue or Higher Taxes, Pinchot Says

Mr. Pinchot says that relief cannot be financed without the bond issue unless there is sharp upping in taxes, which he does not believe the people want. John F. Casey, of Pittsburgh, a regular Republican interested in relief work, says that relief funds will be exhausted in December without the bond issue, and that the federal government will cease its assistance to the state.

The bond issue was vigorously discussed in the last regular Legislative session. Some regular Republicans, principally from the rural counties, insisted that relief should be financed by drastic economies in state government. Many of them, unaware of conditions in industrial sections, had no patience with a continuance of relief on a large scale through any system.

Mr. Pinchot insisted that sufficient economy could not be secured without disrupting imperative services of the government.

Some members from industrial counties wished relief financed through a transfer of money from the road fund, which was fought by the ruralites and the Governor. The upshot was the bond issue which now appears on the ballot.

The bonds would be retired in 10 years and require something like $3,500,000 annually for sinking fund and interest charges. The 1933 session provided for the interest, but made no provision for sinking fund demands for next year which would be $2,500,000. If the amendment passes, either the special session must finance this charge or leave a deficit to be met in the next regular session of 1935.

The entire sum, of course, must eventually be met from tax money, but proponents of the measure feel this can be accomplished painlessly in better times.

Might Term Nos. 9 and 10 Philadelphia Amendments

Amendments Nos. 9 and 10 might be termed Philadelphia amendments though the whole state votes on them.

That is a phase of voting on amendments which should be re-emphasized. Though a proposal may be local to a single county, the whole state decides its adoption or rejection. Even though a community desires the passage of an amendment, and votes overwhelmingly for it, the right may be denied because other counties vote adversely.

This somewhat cumbersome and at times unrepresentative manner of amending the Constitution is in part responsible for renewed agitation for the call of a constitutional convention to write a new charter for the state. This may, perhaps, be included as one phase of Gov. Pinchot's call for the special session next month.

Amendment No. 9 permits the levying of special assessments against abutting or non-abutting property in the city of Philadelphia which may be benefited by rapid transit lines, including sub-

BORICH READY TO SURRENDER; CELL WAITING

U.S. Orders Him Jailed In Fight Against Deportation

Frank Borich, 33-year-old national secretary of the National Miners' Union, was to surrender to immigration officials here today to await in jail further steps in his fight against deportation.

He was ordered deported because of his Communistic activities and his participation in Communistic disturbances.

Surrounded by his wife and three children at his home, 151 Crawford street, last night, Borich referred to his impending stay behind bars with a smile:

"Well—tomorrow I go to jail!"

An extension of the mandate handed down by the United States Circuit Court in Harrisburg last week has been asked, Borich said, adding:

"This is the first time anyone in such a case has been ordered to surrender immediately. Usually they give 30 days notice."

Pending the court's decision, the immigrant leader of 20,000 miners plans to appeal to the United States Supreme Court. He declared:

"The whole procedure is outrageous on the part of the Department of Labor."

Borich, a native of Yugoslavia, came to this country in 1913, and was arrested in March, 1931, at the Pittsburgh headquarters of the National Miners' Union. On March 31, 1932, he was arrested on a deportation warrant issued by the Department of Labor, whose ruling was upheld by both Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson, of Pittsburgh, and the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Eight Dog Owners In Bellevue Fined

Eight Bellevue dog owners were assessed small fines at hearings before Justice of the Peace Elmer Greiner, of Bellevue, last night, as a result of a campaign being waged by agents of the State Bureau of Animal Industry to eliminate the keeping of unlicensed dogs.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Jesse Jones, of Texas, has started in buying gold for the government, so get your old wedding rings ready. It's going to be a great thing for a lot of these Hollywood females. They got buckets full of 'em, and if gold gets to $40 an ounce I got some old teeth fillings that will go.

Will Rogers

I would love to see the loot that Jesse gathers in. There will be many a one of these old hunter gold watch cases. Gold-headed canes is another commodity that will be resurrected.

If we had just thought of all this five years ago when every paper headlined the daily millions and millions that was going out, We have some great ideas, but most of 'em come too late to do us any good. Yours, WILL.

King Coal, Who Pulled His Industrial Temple Down on Own Head, Looks to NRA for Rescue

Depression Hit Mines As Far Back As 1922

By HOWARD BROWNING

King Coal, the Samson of American business who pulled his industrial temple down on his own head, has hopes of rescue.

His 550,000 subjects today look to his expected come-back to lift them from the misery and poverty and serfdom into which they lapsed when their monarch fell.

The shock of his fall and his failure to come back hit Western Pennsylvania particularly. Towns and villages and railroads and banks that once boasted of great prosperity came upon dark days.

That's the metaphor. Here's the proof:

The coal industry in Western Pennsylvania has been on the rocks since 1922. Each successive year has seen it grow worse. And each time the industry slipped down a peg, Western Pennsylvania slipped.

There was starvation hereabouts before stocks fell in 1929. There was plenty of poverty and plenty of depression.

Operators answered by throwing out the union and cutting wages so they could produce cheaper coal.

They blamed it all on the union and its strikes and the union blamed it all on the operators' refusing to deal with the union.

Davis Cites Causes

But it goes deeper than that. Listen to Senator James J. Davis as he shows there are other causes of this demoralization:

"From 1900 to 1922, inclusive, while the total number of man-days lost as a result of strikes in the coal fields was 407,414,000, a total of 1,282,670,000 man-days were lost through other causes.

"These causes are listed as lack of markets, car shortage, mine disabilities and the like.

"And when we compare this with the loss from strikes, we discover that over the most troublous period of the industry, disagreements between worker and employer were responsible for only 14 per cent of the lost time, while other causes which should be within control were responsible for 86 per cent of the time lost."

But, before you study the cause, glance at the result. Closed mines; impoverished owners of mines—men once proud and rich—walking the streets; blackened, dirty, company towns; deputy sheriffs and company policemen with itchy trigger fingers, and tens of thousands of miners and their women and children verging on starvation.

That's the picture today.

If you're probing the cause of all this misery and depression, you'll have to look in several directions.

First, we know that operators have been so eager to sell their coal that they have quoted prices resulting in heavy losses to themselves rather than see their customers slide to other operators.

Overhead Heavy

This practice of ruinous competition results from the heavy overhead connected with mining. To shut down a mine means deterioration of the property through flooding and timber decay and cave-ins and dozens of other causes.

Meanwhile, fixed charges—depreciation of equipment, interest on debts incurred for development, taxes, etc.—continue to pile up at an alarming rate.

But the operator would rather mine coal at a cost of $2 a ton and sell 10,000 tons of it at a loss of 10 cents a ton or $1,000 than spend $2,000 keeping an idle mine ready to operate when and if a favorable market comes into being.

So that's why he's so eager for customers and so willing—if he must, to beat a competitor—to sell at a loss to himself.

Then there's the labor question, possibly most important of all. In the South, a great surplus of cheap labor is available at all times, uneducated in the ways of collective bargaining and, because of racial prejudice, afraid to demand improvement of its lot.

But here in the North is a different calibre of man. For two and more generations the union movement gained strength here. The gospel of collective bargaining and, frequently, its tangible profits were no strangers to the miners. Until late years, there was no great labor surplus.

So we find the miner in Western Pennsylvania increasing his basic rate from less than $10 a week in the '60s to $45 a week in the union agreement of 1920. That's not luxury and he might not work all week and he certainly didn't work every week.

Rates in South

But the Southern non-union miner will work for anywhere from $1 to $3 a day, and, because his cheap coal is easily sold, many work steadily. Here's how the Constitutional Society of West Virginia put it back in 1922:

"A new agreement between the union operators and the union miner is no sooner entered into than the non-union miner (mine operator) begins to readjust his wage and working conditions so as to give him an advantage over the agreement and enable him to reduce his production costs below those fixed upon the union operator by his new agreement and sell his coal for less money but at more profit than the union operator can sell his product."

And today, Dr. Alexander Sachs, chief economist of the National Recovery Administration, will point out to you that, since 65 per cent of the cost of mining goes to the miner, that differential between labor costs, North and South, can cut the heart out of the business of the operator who pays better wages.

And when the Northern operator had broken with the union and reduced wages to absolute minimum essential for life—and often that minimum was so low it had to be eked out with state or county relief funds—the Southern operator cut still lower.

A lower standard of living and lower costs of living did the trick. And all the Northern operators gained was to spread distress to the Southern miner.

Competitors Gain

After the industry had beggared its miners—and before, too—it found itself losing in competition with gas and oil and electricity generated by water power. Since price advantages form the industry's principal competitive weapon, further reduction in the cost of coal seemed vital.

But analysis showed that the principal cost of delivering coal to the consumer isn't within the industry's control. Only the Interstate Commerce Commission can lower almost prohibitive costs of rail transportation of coal that all mines, North and South and West, must face.

Coal is one of the cheapest commodities a railroad can handle. The mines load the cars; no special handling is required; loss through damage is negligible. Profit to the roads is immense. Yet the cost of transporting coal averages more than the cost of mining it. And the Interstate Commerce Commission won't cut that cost. That big cost is tacked on coal prices and the consumer pays or uses other fuel.

ASKS FRIENDS NOT TO VOTE FOR HER

Lost Primary to Lane, Schramm; Fails to Indorse Either

By MARK SHIELDS

Mrs. Lois McBride, defeated in the primary for both the Republican and Democratic nominations for Juvenile Court judge, has asked her friends not to vote for her in the November election, even though her name appears on the Independent and Socialist tickets.

Mrs. McBride makes no indorsement of either Gustav L. Schramm, Democrat, or Charles G. Lape, Jr., Republican, candidates for the new bench. In a statement today she said:

"I did not learn that I had received the nomination for Juvenile Court judgeship on the Independent ticket until too late to withdraw. I was a candidate in the Republican primary and was defeated by Charles G. Lane Jr.; I was a candidate on the Democratic ticket and was defeated by Gustav L. Schramm. I wish to express my gratitude to my many friends for their support in the primary election. I do not, however, solicit their support in the general election."

The presence of Mrs. McBride's name on the ballot may be beneficial to Lane, who, of all Republican candidates for county office, is most in danger of defeat. It is assumed that votes Mrs. McBride will get would otherwise have gone to Schramm rather than to Lane.

PARK FAVORS LANE

The majority of the club women and civic groups which supported Mrs. McBride in the primary have declared for Schramm. Her most potent practical political backer, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, is for Lane.

With Councilman P. J. McArdle remaining an enigma in the mayoralty campaign, attention is turning toward Councilmen Charles Anderson and Robert Garland, long-time Republicans, who, in Council, have been at odds with the city organization. Both supported McArdle in the primary, and worked in close harmony with the Citizens League, many of whose members have come out for

GALLAGHER HITS G. O. P. AS FOE OF NRA

William H. Coleman's attack on the NRA brings the Republican party out in the open as champion of special privilege, Thomas J. Gallagher, Democratic councilmanic candidate, declared last night.

Before an audience of some 600 in Connelly Trade School, Gallagher said:

"The NRA guarantees workers the right to choose representatives for collective bargaining, a right for which many have died. But special privilege, and therefore Republicanism, don't want it."

LOGICAL COURSE

Repudiation of NRA is the logical course for a party representing Mellon-controlled interests, United States Steel and the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Gallagher stated.

William P. Witherow, vice president of the latter company, is a recent convert to the Democratic cause.

William N. McNair, mayoralty nominee, repeated the substance of many of his former speeches when he urged shifting more of the tax burden to absentee land owners.

DR. MARINO SPEAKS

Dr. Vincent L. Marino, candidate for coroner, attacked the present administration of the coroner's office with charges that it aided large industries by rendering false reports of the causes of deaths occurring in the plants.

By attributing deaths to natural causes, Marino stated, the coroner's office lifted from companies the responsibility of supporting widows and orphans.

Other speakers were John J. Kennedy, for Common Pleas Court; John J. Kane, for Council, and James L. O'Toole, for County Court.

COOPER SCORES DEMOCRATS

Democrats in the mayoralty campaign, finding it an impossible task to match Republican candidates with candidates of their own party, are attempting to tail onto the Roosevelt kite and win the election through misstatement and deceit, Attorney Alexander Cooper charged in a Republican meeting in the Friendship school, Eighth Ward.

Joseph F. Guffey's charge that the Republicans were not co-operating with the NRA is disproved by the activities of Mayor John S. Herron and former Gov. John S. Fisher in assisting the federal recovery program, he said.

Cooper cited the fact that the Mayor, in the midst of a primary campaign, had ignored politics to organize mayors and burgesses of the tri-state region into a federation to seek federal aid for construction of flood control reservoirs so that thousands of men might be put to work.

He cited the financial standing of the city as an evidence of sound economics in administration. Referring to the charge by Joseph F. Guffey that wealth was on the side of the Republicans, Cooper said:

"The Democrats, with three separate headquarters in the downtown district and spending huge sums for sensational advertising, have Mr. M. F. Benedum in their midst. It would seem that Mr. Guffey, if it will cool his wrath to attack rich men, has an outstanding one in his own camp."

WOLFF JOINS M'NAIR RANKS

Charles Wolff, North Side grocer, unsuccessful candidate for councilmanic nomination in the Republican and Democratic primaries today wrote Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence that he would support William N. McNair for Mayor. He wrote:

"The question for the voters to decide on November 7 is whether the present political gang shall win the election of Mayor and its Council and the city remain in the rut, or whether this political machine shall be defeated and the city move forward as a part of the new deal.

"I am in the front line of the rapidly growing Independent-Democratic army that is supporting McNair for Mayor and his councilmanic slate to bring about municipal reclamation. I ask all my friends who supported me under the most trying circumstances to again fall in line."

Thomas J. Gallagher, Democratic Council candidate, told a noonday headquarters crowd that a Democratic victory here now is a Roosevelt victory for 1934. He said:

"The people of this community should not lose sight of the fact that an unfriendly Congress elected next year can bring down the Blue Eagle. If we want to live under its protection, if labor wants the five-day week, if women and young girls who must work for wages want to retain the minimum wage law, if they want to see the sweatshop kept in exile, if businessmen want to keep on doing business in comparative safety, the best guarantees for all these things is to make possible the election of a Congress next year that will vote to support the President and the program of the Democratic party."

OBITUARY

J. Frank Tilley.

J. Frank Tilley, 67, secretary-treasurer of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange and an authority on river subjects, died last night at his home, 575 Orchard avenue, Bellevue.

Mr. Tilley was born in Petersburg, Ky., and came to Pittsburgh as a young man. He had been secretary and treasurer of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange for the last 40 years.

He was a former vice president of the Mississippi Valley Association, a director of the Ohio River Valley Improvement Association, a former president of the National Board on Steam Navigation, and a director of the National Rivers and Harbors Conference of Washington.

He was a member of the Pittsburgh Propellet Club and the Bellevue Methodist Church.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Harold E. Frederick, of Washington, Pa., and Mrs. Ethel Kelley, of Boston. Funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery.

Cousley Funeral.

Funeral services for Samuel Robert Cousley, 64, of 5711 Rural street, who died Tuesday, will be held tomorrow in the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, North Highland avenue and Station street.

No. 10 would authorize cities to take more land than actually is needed for street improvements and bridge approaches to spans or tunnels under or over streams which form boundaries between Pennsylvania and other states. This could never affect Pittsburgh. It is designed for improvements in the vicinity of the Delaware River Bridge.

QUICK! STOP THAT COLD

IN THE DRY OR FIRST STAGE!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. It is twice as easy stopped in the first as in the second or third stages. In fact, to let a cold run beyond the first stage is inviting trouble.

As your doctor will tell you, there is nothing better you can take for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is expressly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all." It is internal treatment which a cold requires. It is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary.

First, it opens the bowels. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. Anything less than that is inviting trouble.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine.

Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Only druggists more interested in making an extra profit rather than in your welfare offer you a substitute. When a cold threatens, don't wait or delay, but go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q on every tablet.

William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty candidate.

Garland's friendship for Senator David A. Reed is expected to keep him "regular" in the campaign. It is no secret that the Senator's friends feel his re-election might be jeopardized by a Democratic victory, even though the Republican organization has no great affection for Mr. Reed. It could be controlled in his interest on a showdown where the Democrats could not.

ROOSEVELT ASSAILED

Should the Democrats win the municipal campaign they may be able to ascribe some of the credit to two "regular" Republicans, County Chairman William H. Coleman and County Treasurer Robert S. Cain.

Capt. Cain at last Friday night's mass meeting made a bitter general attack upon President Franklin D. Roosevelt for his attitude toward veterans, calling him "more cruel" than former President Hoover ever thought of being, and the County Treasurer had not forgotten the ejection of the bonus marchers in Washington. That was an extremely bad speech from a political standpoint, as other Republican leaders recognized, and it was criticised by many attending the meeting.

Tuesday night in Hotel Henry headquarters Mr. Coleman assailed President Roosevelt and assured his hearers that the NRA is no good and is headed for wreckage. This was only a few hours after Mayor John S. Herron had seemed in a speech to be rather pleased with the NRA and explained how well he and other Republicans had been contributing to its success.

G. O. P. NEEDS PINCHOT

In time the NRA may break down, and some of its facets are subject to criticism, and in the next campaign it may become a good Republican issue and a controversial one. But not this year. Last Friday night Mr. Coleman used the occasion for some sarcastic references to Gov. Pinchot at the very time the Republicans need all of the Pinchot Republican votes they can get.

The speeches of Mr. Coleman and Capt. Cain might have been all right for closed workers' meetings, but they do not attract votes from the general public when published. Some Republican politicians, despite not to recent evidence to the contrary, cannot get over the conviction that their professional organization is impregnable, and still think it can afford to affront any one and win.

Mr. Coleman, particularly, in view of what happened in a succession of campaigns when he was a candidate for public office—he still is a private citizen—should realize that apparently his customary methods of appealing to the electorate are not conducive to success.

WHAT'S COME OVER JACK?

He looks years younger—doesn't complain or grouch around any more

The crowd always dodged when they saw Jack coming. They couldn't stand his grouchy manner—his pepless, spoilsport attitude. It got so bad he began to hate himself.

Now suddenly he looks and acts like a new man. Actually he feels years younger. The secret? He learned what his ailment was and easily and quickly corrected it! Millions are in the same lamentable plight today and not one in ten can guess the cause.

It's Asthenia

(Run-down condition, usually caused by Constipation)

That's the insidious thing about Asthenia . . . it drags you down, slows your mind, robs you of your joys and pleasures, yet you hardly realize you're slipping.

Would you like for once to brush the cobwebs from your eyes . . be ready and eager for any task . . experience all the glories of this glorious old world? Then rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it.

You think that you're not the least bit dopped . . . you say that you're "regular" as can be—but physicians will tell you that it's only too easy to deceive yourself in this respect and stay doped with poisons. Thus millions of micro-organisms accumulate in the intestinal tract and produce that dull, achy, pepless feeling known as Asthenia.

Decide right now to turn the tables on Old Man Gloom. Take Pluto Water every morning for ten mornings, and see a new world in ten days!

Gentle, Effective

Don't miss a day. Take it before breakfast as recommended—one-fifth glass Pluto Water in four-fifths glass hot water—for ten straight days. Cleanse your system of every vestige of health-destroying impurities. Then you will understand why for nearly 90 years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this ten-day Pluto Water treatment. And why physicians everywhere recommend it as a mild and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming.

Two sizes—20c and 45c—at all drug counters. Bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana.

KING COAL LOOKS TO NRA FOR RESCUE

Freight Rates Unequal

Then there are the unequal freight rates—we find Gov. Pinchot blaming them for an annual loss in sales of 60,000,000 tons of soft coal and the permanent employment of 42,000 miners in central and Western Pennsylvania.

For years, Western Pennsylvania operators have fought for rates in accordance with our geographical nearness to markets on the Great Lakes. But the Interstate Commerce Commission blocked their efforts.

Take these instances of inequitable rates conspiring to rob us of our natural markets:

It costs $2.60 a ton to ship coal from Pittsburgh to Detroit, Mich., and just exactly the same for the longer haul from Harlan, Ky., to Detroit.

That, combined with lower wages in the South, resulted in Western Pennsylvania coal operators shipping to Michigan last year 83,560 tons of coal, while Southern West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia were shipping 7,672,399 tons—91 times as much—that extra 100 and 200 miles.

If you want to ship a carload of coal to Cleveland from Pittsburgh, it'll cost 8.8 mills a ton-mile. But a Harlan operator pays but 3.5 mills a ton-mile to Cleveland. From Pittsburgh, it costs $1.46 a ton; Harlan's rate is $1.81.

Coal is carried from West Virginia 435 miles to Sandusky, O., for $1.96, but Clearfield, Pa., operators must pay $2.23 to send their coal 304 miles to Ashtabula, O.

If you want to know about another straw that was loaded on the proverbial camel's back, remember that you can go into your back yard with a pick and shovel in almost any neighborhood in Southwestern Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tenessee and dig a coal mine.

What's the answer? If you own an acre of land, you own an acre of coal, in many districts. You want to make some money. You start a coal mine and expect to get rich.

You're inefficient, so you cut wages to lower your high costs. Then you discover that 99 dozen other land owners had the same idea. And you break your neck to undersell them.

Every time the price of coal goes up—when there's a war, or railroad cars are scarce in a normally heavy producing area, causing a shortage of coal at market points—new coal mines are opened, old ones reopened.

Then those new mines result in over-production; but it's cheaper to run them at a loss than to close them down so over-production continues. And wages go down and men starve and bankruptcy sets in and nobody makes any money but the lawyers.

Going back to the Constitutional Society of West Virginia, we find it making a perfect case for stabilizing that 65 per cent labor cost when, in 1922, it said:

"The biennial agreement entered into by the union operatorsand the miners' union has the practical effect of putting about one-half of the bituminous industry on a fixed and stabilized base."

So the socity concludes that:

"There is no remedy for this situation and there can be no peace in the coal industry or protection to the people of the country so long as the non-union side of the industry is free to undercut any fixed and definite agreement that may be entered into by the operators."

That, of course, is going down even deeper—down where the NRA goes—and concluding that the fundamental cure for the ills that beset the coal industry lies in equalization of labor and production costs.

NRA Seen Hope

The NRA guarantees to the miners the right to bargain collectively. In addition, it guarantees to the operators establishment of minimum prices, to stop all that underselling. And it's going to make it impossible for inefficient mines to drive men to poverty and slavery.

And the United Mine Workers of America is trying to join all the miners of the country into one big unit—there are 400,000 of them now employed and 154,000 more available for employment—to see that nobody cheats and the miners are protected.

And out of it all may come a new King Coal or, rather, the same old boy with his face—and his prices and wages—lifted.

The series on "King Coal" will continue in Tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph with Mr. Browning's story on another phase of the industry's ill. The theme of the next article will be:

"Did King Coal Kick His Best Friend Out of Court."

VOTERS' ROLL FACES SLASH

The Registration Commission tonight or tomorrow morning is expected to make public a list of names of persons stricken from the registration lists. The voter cut from the books and denied the right to vote next month, will have five days in which to make an appeal to the court.

According to Chairman John K. Morrow, members of the board are busy reviewing the testimony taken during the last several weeks. Already more than 200 names have been cut from the books, he said.

Between 7,500 and 8,000 subpenas were issued during the time the commission was investigating fraudulent registration.

C. O. P. BALLOT RULE FOUGHT

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The Dauphin County Court has been asked by the Allegheny County Democratic Committee to prevent listing of Republican candidates ahead of Democratic on Allegheny County ballots for the November 7 election.

A mandamus action against Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, was filed yesterday by David L. Lawrence, John J. Kennedy and A. Marshall Thompson, all of Pittsburgh. The writ is returnable October 30.

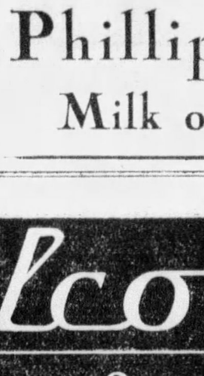
A Simple and Quick Way to Relieve Acid Stomach

Easy to Tell if You Have It

The Signs of Acid Stomach

Nervousness
Neuralgia
Indigestion
Auto-intoxication
Nausea
Frequent Headaches
Sleeplessness
Feeling of Weakness
Mouth Acidity
Loss of Appetite
Sour Stomach



WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

OR—Take the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—one tablet for each teaspoonful as directed above.

Some 80% of the people of today have Acid Stomach, according to many authorities! This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," "biliousness," are the usual indications. So you can easily tell if you have Acid Stomach.

You Can Quickly And Easily Correct It

But if you do have it, don't worry about it. Today it can be corrected in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid.

What This Does

That's all you do. But do it regularly, EVERY DAY.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy you feel.

Everywhere people are doing this—doctors advocating it. Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips'" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

Men Who Choose Dishonest Women Invite Grief

She two-timed her husband—but that didn't worry "Funny Face," because he was the guy she did it for.

But now she's two-timing F. F. himself and, somehow, he doesn't think it's such a joke.

To the contrary, he's astonished, outraged and plenty peeved.

But has he gotten wise at last—decided that cheats won't work as partners—chucked her out on her deceitful ear? Well; see for yourself!

Dear Miss Robinson:

For about a year and a half I've gone with a married woman. We were in love with each other but since I had no job I couldn't very well ask her to get a divorce and marry me.

For about a year I was the only one she went out with, and I thought she really loved me because she did stick to me when the going was tough. Then I found out that she was going out with another fellow. I objected to this, and she promised me that she wouldn't go with him any more. But the promise wasn't kept.

A few days after she made the promise she stepped out with him again, and kept on stepping. It finally got so that whenever she went out alone, I suspected her. So some time ago, we had a good talk about it, and here is what she said:

That I had no right to tell her where or with whom she should go.

FOUND SOMEONE ELSE

Well I never did TELL her what to do. I only asked her not to two-time me. But asking her not to do a thing never had any effect, for if there was something she wanted to do, she did it, no matter how much it hurt me.

Finally, one night, I told her that either she had to go with me alone, or we were through. Her reply was this—

"You haven't any money, and you can't take me any place. If you think I'm going to pass up any chances to have a good time, you are sadly mistaken."

Well, that made me sore; so we quit.

Some weeks later I saw her and spoke to her, and she told me she was now in love with someone else. I wished her luck and happiness, and left.

But now I don't know what to do. Somehow or other, I can't forget her. I still love her. What can I do? "Funny Face."

DOUBLE-CROSSERS

What can you do?

You can get enough decency, honesty and self-respect to quit messing around in the gutter, big boy.

You complained that this woman two-timed you. Well, what did you expect? You knew she was cheating her husband and you were crooked enough to help her do it. What made you think she wouldn't also cheat you?

A woman who will be dishonest with one man, will be dishonest with another. You wouldn't trust or take for a partner a man who had robbed somebody else. Why should you expect to find happiness with a woman who is plainly a two-timing tramp?

You're probably two of a kind, and a cheap tramp is all either of you deserves. And I'm telling you right here, "Funny Face," that you'd better snap out of it, develop a little decency and get regular enough to deserve and appreciate a regular girl, if you don't want to go right on picking yourself bigger and better gobs of grief.

If you can't get regular, don't come barging in here with your bleats about being gypped. A gyp is exactly what you asked for when you were brainless enough to fall for a double-crosser.

Love May Blossom in the Cold of Winter, Fay King Declares

By FAY KING

Many girls seem to think that summer is the only time for romance.

If their summer romance has faded with the fall they settle down to await better luck in love—next summer.

Perhaps song writers are somewhat to blame. They are forever rhyming "moon" with "June" and "eyes" with "summer skies."

But I believe most of the June weddings are planned in November and December.

A homeless holiday time has melted many a bachelor heart.

On wet, cold winter evenings the best of clubs seem dull and dreary. A man begins to long for cozy evenings under his own roof.

The glow of a winter firelight has warmed many a heart to romance, that the summer sun only sunburned!

Mother Graham's Fault-Finding Starts Trouble

As Katie's high-pitched scream followed the crash of crockery from the kitchen, I paid a mental tribute to the self-control and social poise of the group gathered in the living room.

I was sure of one thing, however. There was something besides social poise in Mother Graham's apparent indifference. I had caught her one quick furtive glance toward me when that scream rang out. It was exactly like that of a small boy, after stealing jam, when suddenly confronted with the empty jar. The quick averting of her eyes which followed, and her intense absorption in what Mr. Veritzen was saying only confirmed me in the opinion that she was responsible for whatever had happened in the kitchen.

"The blessed old ostrich!" Lillian murmured. "She probably thinks she can get away with an appearance of innocence, when it's dollars to doughnuts she's bedeviled poor Katie into practical insanity. Do you want me to come along?" as I rose from my chair.

"Not just yet, thank you," I murmured. "I'll just slip out the side door here. Cover my retreat for me, and if I'm not back soon, come and find out where the body is buried."

"I'll do that little thing," she said, and unhurriedly I made my way out of the room. Purposely I had delayed going until I was sure no one was noticing my exit.

TRAY DROPPED

Katie stood in the middle of the room, her hands clawing the air, while Jim stolidly held his one good arm around her neck, his hand firmly covering her lips.

"If you'll promise not to scream again, I'll let you go," he was saying patiently, as I came into the room.

I advanced straight to them, took the girl's twisting hands in mine and looked compellingly into her eyes.

"I'll take care of her now, Jim," I said quietly. "I'm sure she won't make me any more trouble by screaming."

With a sigh of relief, Jim took his hand away.

"I'll clear up this mess," he said, indicating a welter of tomato juice cocktails, caviar sandwiches and broken glass—my best rock crystal ones—upon the floor.

Katie slumped heavily against me and for a second I feared she had fainted; but her hands were still twisting frantically in mine, and she was whispering between broken sobs.

"I won't scream," she promised penitently. "But oh! dose pretty glasses. Dot old womans she coom in, snooping round, finding fault mit eferytings, und ven she vent I got to crying so I couldn't see tings, und den I drop tray. I could shoost keel!"

"Hush!" I said sternly, although my heart was not in the reproof. My little maid evidently had been sorely tried. "You mustn't talk like that. Besides, we have a lot of work to do. We must get all this ready again to take in the living room.

MADGE HELPS

"Give me an apron and Jim and I will get to work again. Mrs. Underwood will be out, too, in two or three minutes. Now you go upstairs and bathe your eyes, and calm down, so you will look all right when you are serving dinner."

"You shoost vun angel," Katie said, covering my hands with kisses, a demonstration which I dislike intensely, but which I dared not rebuff in the present state of my little maid's nerves.

"How many vimmens act like dot ven der pretty tings all smashed?" she went on rhetorically. But I stopped her in full flight.

"If you had broken them because of carelessness, Katie, I should be very angry," I said. "But you have been with me many years, and you have an unbroken record of care for my things and devotion to me. Of course I am sorry about them, but we cannot bring them back by grieving over them. We have something much more important on hand. Come! Give me that apron quickly."

There was need for haste, I knew, as the aroma of the baking chicken pie came to my nostrils. I especially wished this dinner to be a success, both because of Philip Veritzen and because of my mother-in-law's strictures upon Katie. But everything depended upon Katie's getting back her equilibrium.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

When a Needle Is Lost in Tissues of the Body

A recent newspaper story told of a man of 80 years of age who, when a boy of 13, came into violent contact with a needle. The needle was not removed at the time. According to the story, 67 years later the needle was seen emerging from the man's big toe.

Dr. Copeland

Of course, I do not wish to doubt this story. It may well be, however, that the needle recovered from the big toe was not the same needle that entered the young boy's hand.

It is true that foreign bodies, like bullets, pins and needles, may move about in the body. But their range of movement is limited and probably never to the extent believed by most people.

Great excitement occurs when a needle is lost in the tissues of a member of the family. This makes it more difficult to remove the foreign body. Too often the victim squeezes and pushes the afflicted part in the hope that the needle will come out. This results in driving it in still deeper.

The best thing to do when this accident occurs is to keep calm and hold the injured part as quietly as possible. This prevents the needle from entering into deeper tissues and from breaking. Bear in mind that only a slight movement of the muscles may drive the needle so deeply into the tissues that removal is almost impossible.

A physician should be called immediately. If the needle is visible he will get it. If its position cannot be determined otherwise, the needle can be localized by an X-ray examination. If necessary, an incision is made and the needle removed.

All surgeons agree that search for a needle which has entered the body within a comparatively short time is indeed a difficult task. It is made difficult because contraction of the muscles changes the position of the needls. For this reason, a search in one particular area may be unsuccessful.

There are several methods of visualizing the needle other than the use of the X-ray machine. Concentrated light or a magnet which is attracted to iron and steel objects may determine the position of the needle. The needle of a compass may be directed by the buried article.

Of course the safest plan is to take the necessary precautions against needle accidents. When you sew, keep track of the needle, and do not use it except in a light room. When the needle is not in use make sure it is threaded. This will help you to find it when needed.

Use a thimble when you sew, and when at a sewing machine, keep the fingers well guarded from the needle.

Negligence is responsible for many of our troubles. Awkward use of the needle may result in damage.

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Working of the Squeeze

Unquestionably Pre-emptive bids and Pre-emptive Overcalls of Opening bids often work havoc with the adversaries because the decision as to whether it is wiser to go on with your own bid or to double the opponents, who have probably bid too much, is sometimes so hard to decide. In the face of a Pre-emptive Overcall, after partner has opened the bidding, it is perhaps no more than human to visualize tremendously freakish distribution and to hope that a contract can be made rather than to double for what may well be a paltry penalty. I cannot recommend the bidding on the hand below, but the play was flawless. In my judgment both North and South erred in the bidding. South in not opening his near-minimum hand with a bid of one club, and North in not doubling the Pre-emptive Overcall of four hearts rather than embarking on what, but for masterful play, would have proved a losing contract.

South, Dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N T	4♡ (1)	4 N T (2)	Pass
Pass	Double (3)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—Really a very good bid. If the King of hearts can be captured and East has the King of clubs, the Ace of diamonds or the Ace of spades, the contract can be made. In any event, it does not appear that it can be badly defeated and West has the honors to compensate.

2—North's bid here is over-enthusiastic. It is true that he has 3½ honor-tricks, but his hand is far more suggestive of a stinging set of the opponents than the prospect of making 10 tricks, as South, by his Opening bid, has seemingly denied the possession of a biddable suit.

3—A double is indicated. For all West knows, North and South can take 9 tricks in the three remaining suits and undoubtedly they have one trick in hearts.

West's Opening lead was the heart Queen, which the Declarer permitted to hold. The Ace was next led and on this trick East started a spade echo, but West decided to clear the heart suit, and continued with another round. This trick was won with the King in Dummy, upon which East completed his echo in spades and the Declarer discarded a small club. Then followed four rounds of diamonds, upon which West discarded two clubs and one heart. The lead was now in the South hand, with the outstanding cards as follows:

South, in order to fulfill his contract, had to take five of the six remaining tricks. He led the King of spades, to which West followed. Dummy played the five and East the seven. A low spade was now led, upon which West dropped the five of hearts, and the Declarer also played a low spade from Dummy. This was the crucial play, as he must have one more lead of spades to squeeze West and at the same time retain control of the spade suit to shut out East. At this point East's return was immaterial. As a matter of fact, he led a club, which South won with the King. Now, when South led his last spade, West's hope of defense vanished. He was forced to retain the heart Ten to shut out the nine in Dummy, and thus the Declarer won the remaining tricks with the clubs in his own hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

My partner bid one heart and Second Hand overcalled with two diamonds. My hand was

♠ 9 7 3 ♡ K 6 5 2 ◇ A 7 4 ♣ 8 5 3

With 1½ honor-tricks and adequate support for my partner's suit I felt I was justified in raising, but I was severely criticized.

Answer—You have only 2½ playing-tricks (1 in diamonds and 1½ in hearts). This is the minimum required for a shaded Raise when Second Hand has passed and it is desirable to give your partner a chance to rebid. In no circumstances should you raise on so weak a hand when your partner is accepted of another chance without your help.

Visiting Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly let me know if it is proper to enclose a calling card or name card when sending a gift, and in what other ways can a name card be used? MALE READER.

Yes, it is proper and very convenient to enclose your calling card when you send a gift. If you wish, it may be sent as is, or you may write a message on it. If you do write a message on it, you cross off the title before your name. If you know the person very well you will probably wish to cross off the Mr. and your last name. The written message, you see, makes a note of the card, and so we cross off the formal details from our names.

A man uses a visiting-card also for calling, leaving it when a friend is not at home. He sends a message of condolence on his card or leaves his card at the home of a friend who is ill or at the home of a friend who has just lost a member of the family. He sometimes uses his card, too, for introducing one friend to another when, for instance, one friend is to be in the home-town of another friend. He sends flowers to a mutual friend and encloses his card. And encloses it, too, with a box of flowers or a corsage. There are many uses for a visiting card, and that is why I am always saying that the card should be properly done.

"I can give you proof that Chipso keeps materials new-looking longer," exclaimed Mrs. A. B. King of Wilmington, Del. "A neighbor and I bought the same pattern of printed cotton goods. I made a kitchen apron. She made her little girl a dress. In less than a year the child's dress had no pattern on it! But my apron—washed in Chipso at least once a month for five full years—is bright and pretty today!

"Nothing ever comes to harm in Chipso—not even silks and woolens. Yet to me there is nothing like it for speed and ease in taking out dirt. Chipso fills the tub with wonderful suds. They practically soak the sheets, towels and linens white as snow.

Saves hands . . . safe for colors

"I've tried other soaps that might get the clothes white—but then I wouldn't trust them for colors. I know I can trust Chipso. Chipso isn't harsh. I wash dishes with it three times a day and it doesn't hurt my hands. I've washed a 65¢ pair of gray silk stockings in Chipso for a whole season without having them streak or turn pinkish. And when I patch the children's old clothes with new material the patch matches so perfectly you would think the clothes had never been washed!"

Chipso is not adulterated with the harsh substances contained in inferior soaps which gradually weaken fabrics and dull their color. Chipso loosens dirt harmlessly by RICHER SUDS. That is why Chipso-washed clothes stay new-looking for years.

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soap and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, Chipso is the biggest value in rich, safe soap on the market today!

'PITT SHOULD WIN AS IT PLEASES'---ANDERSON

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

JOCK NEVER DEFEATED TWICE IN ROW

To defeat Pitt in Saturday's football battle at South Bend, Notre Dame will have to break a Panther record, and if it could be taken for granted that a tradition unbroken through the entire coaching career of Jock Sutherland at the Oakland university would be upheld on this occasion, local fans might safely anticipate a Panther victory, or at least nothing worse than a tie. For during Sutherland's more than nine years as head coach at the big Pittsburgh school, the Panthers never have lost two games in succession. And as Minnesota beat them in their last time out, this record will be at stake in the meeting with the Irish.

Jock Sutherland

There have been four seasons under Sutherland in which Pitt lost more than one game, but in no year were two defeats suffered consecutively, the closest approach having been a defeat and a tie, which happened three times. In Jock's first campaign as coach here, 1924, the Panthers lost three decisions and played one tie, but after losing to Lafayette they beat West Virginia and Johns Hopkins, then lost to Carnegie Tech and tied Syracuse, and defeated Geneva before bowing to W. & J.

DEFEATS ALWAYS SEPARATED BY VICTORY

In 1926, the Sutherlands tied with Georgetown and lost to Lafayette in successive games, but downed Colgate before losing to Carnegie. In 1928, the Sutherlands dropped two games to West Virginia and Carnegie, but in between they defeated Allegheny College. In 1930, they lost to Notre Dame and tied with Nebraska, but beat Carnegie prior to a defeat at the hands of Ohio State.

To administer a second successive defeat to Pitt on Saturday, therefore, Notre Dame will have to achieve something that never has been accomplished against the Panthers during Sutherland's regime. On the other hand, a second straight defeat for the Irish, who lost to Carnegie here last week, would not be without precedent in recent years, as the South Benders lost two in a row to Carnegie and Southern California in 1928, and to Southern California and Army in 1931.

FAKE QUICK KICK GAINER FOR OHIO STATE

The quick kick often is effective on first or second down because the opposing team is not looking for it and the safety is playing close up. Coach Sam Willaman has his Ohio State gridders going other elevens one better by using the quick kick as a bluff and turning it into an end run.

Sam Willaman

Cramer, the kicker, retreats quickly just before the ball is snapped, with his hands stretched forward to receive the pass from center, and to give the defensive line the impression that he is to make a quick kick, which play has preceded the same kind of run during earlier stages of the games.

After retreating a few steps, Cramer then runs forward with the ball, makes a half turn and hands the ball to Boucher, the right halfback, who sweeps wide around the defensive right end. Though it didn't suffice to beat Michigan, the play has been successful in the main because the defensive right end and tackle usually assume that a quick kick is to be made and converge toward the punter with the idea of blocking the boot. Suddenly Cramer runs into the line as if to make a buck, thereby continuing to draw the defensive players toward the center, which in turn enables Boucher to run around the end unmolested. Heekin, left halfback, blocks the enemy right tackle, and Padlow, Ohio's left end, goes down the field as though the kick actually would be made, thereby drawing in the defensive right halfback.

BOOST FOR BACH AS GREAT LINE BUILDER

The excellent work that Joe Bach has continued to do as assistant to Elmer Layden at Duquesne University this season, in building the great line that has figured so prominently in the success of the Dukes, has not escaped the observation of the fans. They feel that not enough has been said about Joe's fine coaching, as indicated by the following letter to the Sun-Telegraph from Frank J. Lokar:

"Many times during football discussions with my friends and other fans, mention is made of Joe Bach, line coach of Duquesne University. Consistently, he has produced strong lines, which, as you know, is practically the main cog of a good football team. Even the great Rockne proved that with his most famous backfield, the celebrated Four Horsemen.

"With all due respect to Elmer Layden, who is a great coach, my friends and I fail to understand why the Pittsburgh newspapers fail to give Bach the credit he deserves. He is absent from the majority of the Dukes' games during the season, doing scout duty. Nevertheless, his lines perform nobly at home. Understand, this is not a complaint regarding your sports columns. They are enjoyed by all. But in justice to Bach, we feel that he rightfully deserves to be classed as one of the best line coaches in the business."

SON'S SMALL FEET DISAPPOINT NURMI

The average fond father would be ready to fight if anybody dared to intimate that there was a slight blemish or defect in his first-born child. But Paavo Nurmi, famous Finnish runner, always has been a chap of an exceptional type, and he broke even his own records for being different by admitting that he was disappointed in his new son. The first thing Paavo wanted to know was whether the boy would make a runner, and he almost sobbed when he found the youngster's feet were too small.

Mrs. Paavo Nurmi

Mrs. Paavo Nurmi, the former Sylvi Paaksonen, told the story in explaining why she had applied for a divorce from the noted speedster. It was not until Nurmi promised to give up athletics that she consented to marry him, she said, but he kept his promise for only five days after the wedding and then went back into training. That was bad enough, she remarked, but the last straw came with the arrival of the baby. When his son, who is named Matti, was born, Paavo measured his feet and was not satisfied with them. He even tried to arrange the boy's food so that Matti would become an athlete, but Mrs. Nurmi is pleased to report that "those feet have not stretched at all." She says her boy must not become a competitive athlete. He may play tennis or engage in gymnastics, but she will not allow him to take up the intensive training that caused her to separate from her husband. She adds the hope that by the time Matti grows up "the world will have become sensible again and will laugh at this sporting madness."

end for Tech against the Presidents, filling the shoes of Lib Lewis, who was injured making the lone touchdown against Notre Dame last Saturday. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

KING LIKELY TO OPPOSE TARTANS

By JESS CARVER

They aren't shouting it to the heavens, but the word has slipped out that Bob King, who started the season at fullback for Wash-Jeff and who took such lacings in the Pitt and Waynesburg games that he had to be retired, temporarily, is back in shape again and will be on deck for the game here Saturday against Carnegie Tech.

In the system of offense employed by Hank Day, a fullback who can screen the ball well and at the same time handle it fast and correctly and at the same time be a toting threat is a very necessary adjunct. King's work against Pitt was remarkable, and was chiefly responsible for the Wash-Jeff success in gaining ground. And now with big Bob back in there again, the Presidents are going to be tougher than ever for Tech to take.

The Techs are going to be in good physical trim for Saturday's fray, despite their tough game last week with Notre Dame. Bunny Burzio is being rested this week and figures to be able to play, and even Libbus Lewis, ol' "Two Play Lib" himself, who wrenched his leg as he scored the big touchdown against the Plaid, may be able to get into the fray if necessary.

TECH ABOUT READY

The Tartans will wind up their hard work for the W. & J. game with this afternoon's drill, which won't be any too rigorous at that. Tomorrow they'll merely taper off by dashing through an offensive drill.

It seems to be Bob Hogan's fate to be the central figure in Pitt lineup shifts prior to the Notre Dame game.

Last year, the week before the tussle here, big Bob was demoted to the second eleven and Miller Munjas moved into the starting job at quarterback. This year, Bob again is out of the backfield, but he isn't going as far as the bench. He's only moving to center, where his 200 pounds of bulk will strengthen the Pitt line.

A year ago, Bobby came pretty close (if not actually attaining the honor) to being the hero of the game with Notre Dame. Mike Sebastian and Ted Dailey scored the touchdowns, to be sure, but Bob's punting and forward pass defense certainly did not do the Irish any great good. Perhaps Bob's work at center this Saturday will so co-ordinate the Pitt play that they'll repeat last year's win over the Ramblers.

FINE DEFENSIVE STAR

Hogan is a much better defensive player than he's generally given credit for. He backs up the line well, is keen at diagnosing plays and when he cracks a ball toter a'coming through the line, said ball carrier knows he's been cracked. Let Meadville Robert pop 'em a couple times and they start getting up slower and slower and are not so anxious to go for a while.

With Miller Munjas heavier this year, and playing the ball of which he's capable, Pitt will be able to spare Hogan from the backfield, and if he's at all steady in the line, the Panthers should profit by the shift.

Following this afternoon's drill Coach Sutherland will pick the squad that will make the trip to South Bend, and late tonight the party will hop on for the Indiana

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE ARMLESS PILOT—Josephine Callahan lost both of her arms through an amputation at the elbow in her childhood, but this is no handicap to the plucky girl. Through the use of bars strapped to the upper arm she is able to pilot her own plane, ride her horses and drive an automobile. She piloted her plane on a flight to the Palo Alto Horse Show, where three of her blooded horses were entered. On one of them she won a high-jumping event. THE INEXHAUSTIBLE SUN—The sun, like all the other fixed stars, is a tremendous power station, generating energy in its interior. This energy is unceasingly poured out into space at the rate of 50 horsepower to every square inch of the sun's surface. Radiation has weight. It is estimated that the total radiation which pours out from the sun every second weighs more than 4,000,000 tons. Thus the sun is losing weight at the rate of about 250,000,000 tons every minute, or about 1,000,000,000 tons every four minutes. YE OLDE, OLDE, VERY OLDE MAN—Thomas Parr was born in Winnington, a small hamlet in the parish of Alberbury, in 1483. In 1563, when he was 80 years old, he married his first wife, Jane Taylor, by whom he had two children. In 1588, at the age of 105, he became the father of a child born out of wedlock, for which he was compelled to do penance in a white sheet in church. After the death of his wife, he married a second time, in 1605, at the mature age of 122. The Earl of Arundel presented him to King Charles I in the spring of 1635. He died as a result of his trip to London shortly after in his one hundred and fifty-third year and was buried in the south transept of Westminster Abbey. The autopsy was performed by the great physician, William Harvey. His son, grandson and great-grandson attained the ages of 113, 109 and 101, respectively.

HUNK EXPECTS PANTHERS TO ROUT IRISH

ANDERSON'S CHOICES

Ohio State over Northwestern.
Purdue over Wisconsin.
Michigan over Chicago.
Minnesota over Iowa.
Nebraska over Oklahoma.
Detroit over Marquette.

By HEARTLEY (HUNK) ANDERSON
Notre Dame Football Coach.

Hunk Anderson

And next Saturday we play our other Pittsburgh rival, the University of Pittsburgh, on our home field in South Bend. Having scored only two touchdowns in our three games so far, both against Indiana, there is no reason to believe that we shall be able to penetrate the powerful Pitt line, against which only Minnesota has scored. Navy made a touchdown against Pitt's third team in losing, 34 to 6, and that's the only way we can score. Pitt, with two complete sets of fine backs, should win as it pleases.

Illinois and Indiana are resting after their tough games, and most of the other teams are playing fairly easy contests.

PURDUE FAVORED

Purdue should not have much trouble with Wisconsin, unless Doc Spears can fan into flame the spark that is supposed to be there. Noble Kizer is bringing his team along slowly, but surely, and it should run over Wisconsin easily.

Ohio State still has a fine team, despite Michigan's victory, and the Buckeyes should win from Northwestern. Michigan will coast to victory over Chicago. Iowa is bound to crack sometime, and I think it will be Saturday when Ossie Solem's fine team plays at Minneapolis.

I saw Detroit play Duquesne last week in Pittsburgh in a night game, and I think that Coach Gus Dorais' men have the stuff to win from Marquette, although they lost to Duquesne 14-0 on a long run and an intercepted pass.

Michigan State should win from Syracuse, but only after a terrific battle. Kansas was at its peak for our opening game October 7, but it is on the down grade now. I think Kansas will lost to Kansas State.

HECTIC FOOTBALL DAY

Last Saturday was about as hectic a day as the great game of football ever has seen. By comparing season scores and figuring in Saturday's games you can make just about any team in the country look to be the best or the worst on paper.

On the basis of Purdue's game with Minnesota, a 7-to-7 tie, Indiana's scoreless tie with Minnesota and Notre Dame's 12-to-2 victory over Indiana, Notre Dame is just 10 points better than Purdue. SCHOOL GRID RIVALS PRIMED FOR BIG GAMES

SOUTH TO FACE OLD JINX IN PEABODY

By JULIUS LEVIN

South High School, bidding for its first City League football championship, will be striving to shake an old jinx when it meets Peabody High School in a Section I fray at Langley Field tomorrow afternoon.

With three successive victories under their belts, the Orioles not only will be striving to make it four in a row, but will attempt to score their first triumph in three years over the East Enders.

Peabody always has been a tough opponent for the South Siders. Two years ago the Red and Gray machine scored a 13-7 victory over the present leaders in Section I, while last year's struggle ended in a 6-6 stalemate.

RESPECT PEABODY

While Peabody has not been showing the form that usually characterized the play of the East Enders, Coach Grover C. Washabaugh and his Orioles have the highest regard for the Peabody style of play.

Peabody, tied by Allderdice and Carrick, victor over Fifth Avenue and beaten by Canton McKinley, will enter the game the underdog, but this fact will not be allowed to affect Souths' preparations for the contest.

The Peabody backfield includes one of the speediest ball-carriers in the City League in Abner Roberts, Negro halfback. This boy is greased lightning on his feet, and once he breaks through into the clear he is a tough man to stop. South hopes to check him tomorrow.

CARRICK AT PERRY

Another contest that should provide the local scholastic fans with abundance of thrills is that between Carrick and Perry at Perry tomorrow afternoon. Carrick at present is showing the way in Section II, with South Hills and Perry right at its heels. Perry, striving for its second successive grid title, must beat Carrick to stay in the running. A victory for Carrick will assure a new champion in both sections, as Westinghouse already has been eliminated from the Section I chase.

Carrick and Perry always have been heated rivals in all branches of sport. Two years ago Carrick scored a 26-0 victory over Perry in their football game. It was during this campaign that Perry failed to score a point. Last season Perry turned the tables with an 18-6 decision.

ALLEGHENY AT OLIVER

Besides the two headliners, a pair of attractive games is offered the followers of the City League. In Section I, Allderdice is the attraction at Fifth Avenue at Schenley High Field, while Oliver and Allegheny tangle at Oliver.

Langley, Westinghouse and South Hills play non-league opponents. Langley appears at Craton, while Westinghouse and South Hills stage an inter-league duel at Westinghouse.

Centers—George Shotwell, Nick Kiskes, Lee Wilkins.

Quarterbacks—Miller Munday, Ross Hogan, Walter Balasia.

Halfbacks—Howard Odell, Tech Wateale, Hub Randolph, Leon Sheridan, Mike Nicksick and Mike Sebastian.

Fullbacks—Izzy Weinstock, Heinie Wallenbaugh, Lee Becker.

Goal Lines

Members of the young football referee's organization and coach James Lardner of the Duke... are awaiting a ruling from Commissioner Bert Bell on Walter Hacker on a play that occurred in the Detroit-Duquesne game here last Friday night.

Quarterback Joe Cutrona, back for a punt, saw that there were going to be a flock of Detroit tacklers on him before one of Halfback Sutt's high spirals reached his arms, so he stepped aside, let the ball hit the ground and as it did so, raised his arms as if he were signaling for a fair catch. The Detroit players stopped. Cutrona grabbed up the ball and ran it back a few yards.

Umpire Red Friesell and Referee Jex Very went into a huddle and Referee Very then penalized the Tigers five yards for forming their under the rules Section 10, Article 5 (c), a portion of which the boys in signaling for a fair catch under the conditions.

SPORTS CONFAB ON TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

Officials of the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association, sponsors of local independent sandlot baseball and football teams, managers of organized independent teams and players will attend a meeting at the Hotel Henry tonight for the purpose of preparing some action and organizing for the forthcoming local option vote on Sunday sports.

Mayor John Herron has appointed William S. Haddock, athletic director of the county parks, Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates football team, and Mike Gallagher, sports official, as a committee to take charge of tonight's meeting.

Realizing soccer football has been held back in Western Pennsylvania owing to the inability to bring teams from New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis for national eliminations on Sundays, it is believed the soccer sport will be strongly represented.

At least 40 leagues are playing sandlot football in the district and much huge clubs playing sandlot football that are vitally interested in the vote.

The committee named by the Mayor has in turn named a large sub-committee composed of newspapermen and prominent sportsmen in the district.

Goal Kicks

Many changes are noted on the Union Switch and Signal team this season. Only two players, Clough and Armil are left from the great team of two years ago. Coach Caley, one of the best fullbacks ever developed in the district, still is a star performer, while Armil is a fine utility performer playing any position on the team.

Paul Alcorn, the new secretary of the West Penn Football Association, is doing a swell job. Being secretary of the local association is one of the toughest jobs in soccer, and Alcorn appears to compare favorably with any previous holder of the job.

There seems to be plenty of agitation being ... regarding the appointment of ... to handle the Illinois-Penn State game, November 11 at Penn State. This is the most important intersectional contest ... for the year, bringing the champion of the West against the East.

Dan Zampini, of Morgan, again is working hard to make a success of the Keystone League. Ever since the formation of the league by this writer in 1922, the Keystone has been the outstanding soccer circuit of the district, and Zampini, as vice president, is one of its greatest boosters.

Dean Reported Signed for 1934

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—A local newspaper says Dizzy Dean, eccentric strikeout king of the National League, has signed with the Cardinals for next year.

STOCKS MULL AS 'STREET' EYES GOLD

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Stocks and staples were in a mulling mood during the major part of today's trading as somewhat futile efforts were made by market analysts to read between the lines of the government's new gold program.

The RFC fixed the new price for the yellow metal at $31.54 an ounce, up 18 cents from yesterday and 48 cents above the London rate. Equities, grains, cotton and most other commodities were little enthused, however, although they were not too reactionary. The dollar was virtually at a standstill in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were irregular.

Shares of Homestake Mining rallied 13 points and those of United States Industrial Alcohol recovered 1. Case sagged 2 and others, off fractionally to around a point, included United States Steel, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, American Smelting, United States Smelting, Union Pacific, National Distillers, Consolidated Gas and Chrysler.

Market observers, while not in agreement as to the effects of the new gold policy, generally expressed the opinion that prior to the President's edict there had been a fairly thorough cleaning up of loosely held stock. A study of various composites, it was said, disclosed that the industrials had retraced about 40 per cent and the rails more than 60 per cent of their March-July rise.

Banking circles were impressed with the relatively small advance in the gold price, some viewing the moderate increase as an indication of the conservative policy of the RFC. At the same time, it was pointed out, it is apparent that, whatever ammunition may exist in the gold-manipulation, price-elevating lever, the government does not intend to exhaust the supply all at once.

Just what Great Britain may be inclined to do about America's gold price-fixing scheme was puzzling to some financial quarters. A few foreign exchange experts believed London might attempt to checkmate the American move, in the event that it goes too far, through the use of the Bank of England's huge equalization fund. Without co-operation between the United States and England on gold prices, they feared the dollar-pound rates would continue to fluctuate widely.

The government's foreign trade figures for September, showing exports of merchandise amounting to $160,000,000 compared with $132,037,000 in the same 1932 month, were cheering to industrialists here. Merchandise imports in the same month, however, were not so encouraging, the total of $147,000,000 contrasting with $98,411,000 in September last year. Merchandise exports for nine months amounted to $1,104,986,000 against $1,187,478,000 in the 1932 period, while imports were $1,037,112,000 as compared with $1,015,720,000 last year.

WHEAT VALUES TAKE DROP

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Despite new higher prices at Washington for gold, wheat values underwent material setbacks early today.

Corn showed transient upturns responsive to government announcement of a corn loan plan. Lack of aggressive buying, together with weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, tended to pull prices lower here.

Opening ⅝-1⅛ cents down, Chicago wheat later kept within the initial limits. Corn started ⅛ off to ⅝ up, and subsequently receded all around.

The government corn loan plan, which contemplates 50 cents for No. 2 grades, Chicago basis, had some stimulating effect on December corn contracts, the only ones that were quoted below the loan basis. Easterners bought some wheat during dips in values, but backed away on upturns.

Provisions reflected upturns of hog values.

BANKER STRIKE ON SECURITY ACT SEEN

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Official Washington is inclined to believe that there is a strike of Wall street bankers against the terms of the federal security act.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a matter of fact, the spirit of antipathy among the investment bankers has been fostered to a large extent by lawyers. Obviously, the reform measure lays restrictions on the "rugged individualism" which wrote weird and dangerous indentures and which deliberately exploited the credulity of investors.

An intelligent partner in an important house of issue told me:

"The chief barrier to new financing in the security act lies in the liabilities placed upon directors of security issuing corporations. Working for a $20 fee, the directors do not feel it worth while to assume the risks. As bankers, we receive a sufficiently large remuneration to justify us in assuming some risks. We would have no hesitation in bringing out a first class issue if it were offered to us. It is true that the law puts the burden of proof on the bankers, but I think that courts will deal fairly with bankers who acted in good faith and exercised due diligence."

TO AIR QUESTION

This mooted question will be aired from the banking viewpoint at the convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America, which opens at Hot Springs, Va., on Saturday.

New financing all but stopped in the first two months that the new securities act was in effect, ... t Baldwin B. Bane, chief of Federal Trade Commission's ties division, ascribes the ... of new issues to other ... in the Nation's Busi... nts out.

"... en in the issues exempted from the registration requirements of the act, the lack of financing is apparent. The hesitancy of short-term financing has become a matter of national concern. Municipal long-term issues have practically disappeared. Railroad financing, expressly exempted from registration under the act because of its supervision by the Interstate Commerce Commission, is stagnant and, for refinancing, the railroads turn to the government and not to the public."

265 REGISTRATIONS

By the end of the second two months of experience with the new security act, there had been 265 registrations. The majority of these were for issues of investment trusts. Brewery and gold mining issues made up the second largest group.

Apart from legislative handicaps, the dearth of new issues reflects the subnormal state of supply and demand for capital.

With the national income greatly reduced, the investable surplus of individuals has temporarily dried up.

Likewise, with the gross volume of business still subnormal, the demand for new capital for permanent improvements is still low.

INFLATION-PROOF BONDS

Numerous "sound money" advocates think that monetary uncertainty is holding back new long term commitments. In view of the President's announcement that the time has not yet come permanently to fix the value of the dollar, astute security fashioners could create inflation-proof bonds in the form of convertible bonds or bonds with stock purchase warrants.

In connection with negotiations at Washington on the subject of the British war debt, an influential banker has suggested that Britain agree to repay the principal without interest.

Apropos of the monetary debate, it seems that both extreme schools exaggerate the power of money. Popular welfare depends on productivity—on work performed.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XV.

The weeks went by in Nollie's new job.

She tried to forget that handsome Irish face, that fascinating voice that had so beguiled her. She immersed herself in her work.

But at nights, in her little hall bedroom, when it was too hot to sleep, her thoughts would turn uncontrollably and wistfully to Tony O'Brien.

Where was he now? Would they ever meet again? In letting him think that she was someone else, what a fool she had been!

Why couldn't she have stood on her own two feet as Nollie Day, instead of passing as the rich Mrs. Judson?

It had seemed fun at the time, in a way. But pride and a fear that he might turn from her, might cool to her that night, had been mixed with it.

He had discovered the camouflage next day, of course?

Or, if he didn't, he thought that she—Nollie—actually had sailed for Europe!

"But I shall meet him again some day," Nollie resolutely told herself.

She'd see to it—and Nollie was developing will-power now—that she'd go up the ladder with the best of them.

And why not? New York was a city of opportunity. So Nollie kept her eyes and ears and mind wide open.

Synopsis

Nollie Day, young and pretty, goes to New York for a career. After searching in vain for a position, she faints on the street. She regains consciousness in a suspicious looking house owned by a woman called "Daffy." Nollie flees in terror when one of Daffy's "friends" make advances. Later, she obtains a position as public stenographer in a high-class hotel where she meets Mrs. Virginia Judson, a wealthy widow. Nollie substitutes for Mrs. Judson at a theater party. Mr. Hiram, with whom Mrs. Judson had the appointment, sends young and handsome Tony O'Brien in his stead. Nollie tries to explain she is not Mrs. Judson, but Tony does not hear her. After a happy evening together, Tony tells Nollie he will telephone her next day. Later Nollie sees Tony in the hotel, but before she can reach him, he disappears. She takes a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling, of the Galbraith Co.

Now Go On

STUDIES AT NIGHT

What of it if she were lonely very often?

Loneliness was a character developer. She knew that. She would utilize her solitary hours. Quit idle dreaming.

"D'you know you're not a bit an ordinary girl?" Jack Brilling, her immediate boss, said to her one day in the office.

"How so?" Nollie shyly colored.

"It seems as though work were everything to you."

"Why shouldn't it be so?"

smiled at her. "Well, ather unusual for any- ng and pretty as you

"Haven't you any people in New York? Relatives?"

"No."

"And friends?"

"Not many. Sometimes I go out with a girl in my—my rooming house. But I stay in, nights, a good deal, and—and study."

"Study?" He raised his brows. He regarded her not unkindly, but curiously.

"Yes. I want to go ahead. I—I left school at 14, and there's such a lot I missed, you see. I have to catch up on it."

Jack Brilling was touched.

A pretty child, this Miss Day! Different from any other secretaries he'd ever had. And a great contrast to the girls in his own world.

OLD-FASHIONED

Most of them had money and leisure to burn. They killed time extravagantly. They gambled and drank and flirted.

Serious she was. What was the word—"old-fashioned"?

With the light streaming down on her from the high office windows, except for a little powder she was entirely devoid of makeup.

And she was pretty, too. There was something flowerlike about her.

She looked cool and sweet just now. And at the same time, capable.

He had an urge to move over to her desk and ask more questions about her.

But that wouldn't do. Best leave this pretty child alone. What earthly right had he to be interested in her?

If she worked hard and saved, she'd be able to afford some of the things the other girls enjoyed. She paused before a window that was gay with flowerlike summer dresses.

In soft chiffons. Silk. With droopy hats to match. There was one little dress in a delicate leaf-green that would exactly suit her . . .

And in the very next window there were shoes to match that dress, in shantung silk, high-heeled, with little buckled straps across the instep.

LOOKS FOR TONY

No wonder city girls could look so pretty, when lovely things of moderate price beckoned them everywhere!

She tore herself away from window-shopping, and, in quest of another educative book, went into the public library.

There were lots of men and women there . . . and one young man . . . oh! tall he was, and dark! . . . the very sight of him made her heart miss a beat!

Tony! It was he! Hatless! That shining head so beautifully sculptured!

But no! She was mistaken once again—for when the young man turned full face, she saw she'd been in error.

For the hundredth time in those few weeks this very thing had happened to her. Subconsciously she'd been always looking for the young man with the Irish voice and eyes—the handsome Tony O'Brien.

* * *

"Miss Day, I'm awfully sorry, but it looks as though you'd have to stay late again this evening!"

Her chief, Mr. Brilling, spoke apologetically.

But here was her job, and she would do it properly.

Mr. Brilling worked late with her. Reports had to be made out. It was after eight o'clock when they had finished.

"Thank you so much, Miss Day," said Jack Brilling. "You've been splendid."

"Not at all. The work had to be done." Nollie collected her papers, tidied her desk and put on her hat.

He walked with her to the elevator. He said, looking solicitously at her as they waited for the car to come up: "You look all in. I'm going to take you to that chop-house on the corner for a snack."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Haphazard buying of clothes is something that just mustn't be done. Buy the frock first, then hat and coat, then accessories. You'll look smart and chic, the check book will have more vitality, and there won't be any orphan hats and dresses in the wardrobe that somehow don't seem to belong to the sartorial family. If some kind relative wants to give you a present, ask for a full length mirror. Every woman should possess one. It is the only means of sizing up the ensemble, looking yourself over from topmost hair to the heels of pretty shoes.

Brittle finger nails are caused by harsh soaps, though diet deficiency is sometimes the source of this condition. Use a bland soap for dish washing. When doing heavy work about the house, like digging dust from under radiators and cleaning window sills, protect hands and talons with gloves; if you don't like rubber gloves, use old cotton ones. Grime is bad for the nails; it removes that natural shimmer that is their chief element of beauty. Without fail, touch the finger ends with oil at night. There's always some cream left after the complexion oiling. Give it to them.

SINKING OF THE CUMBERLAND (March 8, 1862)

In the Civil War the Unionists blockaded the southern ports effectively. The Confederates raised the hull of the Merrimac—sunk in 1861 at the Norfolk ship yards—built a roof of armored timber 10 feet high over its deck studded with cannons and rechristened it the Virginia. They succeeded in destroying the Cumberland and the Congress, two of the finest Union ships with the monster which was defeated next day by the Monitor, that had been ridiculed by the Confederates as "the raft with the cheesebox" (revolving gun-turret) an invention of Ericsson and the forerunner of modern armored warships.

THE INDUSTRIAL POSITION OF COMMON SALT

Common salt or table salt (NaCl) is necessary for the nutrition of living things. It is abundant in nature (oceans, solid deposits) and is contained in almost every food. Above: Chart shows the most important processes in which salt is used and the chemical products made from it as raw material. (Chemistry.)

THE CORONATION OF NAPOLEON I AS EMPEROR

Napoleon, by his coup d'etat, became First Consul of France (1799) with supreme powers. He defeated Austria at Marengo (Italy) 1800; Russia had withdrawn from the Alliance and with the third party of the coalition, Great Britain, Napoleon concluded the peace treaty of Amiens (1802). Then he turned toward internal reforms. He organized the local government by dividing France into departments, revised the law (Napoleon's Code) probably his greatest achievement. In 1804, he was elected emperor, crowning himself as Napoleon I and his wife, Josephine as Empress in presence of the Pope. (World History.)

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

This beautiful Shakespearean comedy has as plot the interwoven adventures of three pairs of lovers. Hermia loves Lysander, her father determined on her marriage to Demetrius, who is loved by Helena. Oberon, king of fairies, has trouble with Queen Titania and sends Puck, a mischievous elf, to apply love charm to Demetrius in behalf of Helena, and to Titania in behalf of himself, Oberon.

Puck bungles the job, making Lysander and Demetrius fall in love with Helena and Titania with a weaver, transformed by Puck into a jackass-headed monster. The artist pictures a love scene between Titania and the monster. After comic situations and a farcical play within the play, performed by amateurs, Puck's mischiefs are straightened out and everybody is left happy with the right mate. (English Literature.)

SHORT LEAVED YEW (Taxus Brevifolia)

Conifers (34 genera, 297 species) comprise the family Pinaceae (Pict. Ed. of Sept. 26 to Oct. 21, Section A) with 26 genera and 226 species and the yew family (Taxaceae) with 8 genera and 71 species. One is the short leaved yew with purple, scaly bark, sharp pointed, two ranked leaves, ovate fruit, containing the seed in a woody shell. Range: Queen Charlotte Island to California, also cultivated in gardens. Its wood is red, hard, strong, used for fence-posts and by the Indians for utensils. (Gen. Science.)

GRAFTING IMPROVES PLANTS

In twig (left) grafting, the scion is a twig, in bud-grafting a bud (left). Stock is split or bark slit open and scion inserted, bound or taped in place, exposed surfaces covered with wax to exclude air. Buds should include a bit of wood. Essential: Cambium (rapid growing tissue between bark and wood, see right) of scion should be in contact with cambium of stock for "setting" (successful grafting). Grafting hastens fruit bearing, improves flowers, fruits. (Gen. Science.)

How About Those Animal Yarns?

Been missing something from the news items recently. Seems that this is the time of the year when the spider gets that snake.

Something wrong with our animal stories lately. The boys haven't been thinking them up. Can hardly wait for January when that Boston fellow will climb over the zoo fence and choke an ostrich to oblivion. He's done it twice now and has been saved by his heavy overcoat. The ostrich gets his feet tangled in the buttonholes.

Grove City came to life lately with a rat killing seven rattlers. That ain't bad. But doesn't sound right to anybody who has ever seen a rat decide to carry the mail and get away from there. However, Grove City is a thoroughly reliable town and the story goes with two more reliable signatures.

The cat that swims the Missouri River every October must have overlooked the date. It made the front pages three times. Probably has retired and bought a farm somewhere.

Even New York City bobs up with its nature stories. A fellow who works on the eightieth floor of the Empire State reported that his waste basket was full of Kansas grasshoppers.

Either the Kansas grasshopper is a game bird or the Empire State has a great elevator system. Anybody who could think up that one should be entitled to a 10 per cent discount from the bartenders.

The first snowfall brings in the moose and the wolf yarns. The moose will learn how to shake salt cellars and the wolves will trap a farmer in a revolving door and grab the brass ring every time he whirls around.

Nobody has taken the place of the Winsted (Conn.) liar. He could describe a police dog hatching an owl's egg so beautifully that you would go out and try it yourself. He would have hens mothering chickens and canaries eating hamburger steak.

There was once a pretty good liar down in Milan, Tenn., whose bird dogs pointed a crocodile. He whittled the croc down with his bowie knife and opened him up. He claims there was a mallard inside. That makes the bird dogs right and him wrong.

Funny thing about these animal fibbers is there ain't no prize for it. They just prevaricate for the fun of it. And they don't do any special harm. If people only lied about snakes, pumas and eggs they would be so bad on election speeches that the right man might get elected.

The President Again Declares for 'A Sound, but Adequate Currency'

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in his latest admirable radio address, has dispelled the Wall Street slander that he had flopped over to the right in his monetary views.

Irrespective of speculative inferences following the Fourth Liberty Loan conversion plan, the Chief Executive in a formal statement reaffirms his intention further to cheapen the dollar.

The monetary objectives are precisely what they were when Mr. Roosevelt sent his memorable message to the London Economic Conference on July 5.

In taking the people into his confidence, the President makes it perfectly clear that he has not been taken into camp by the deflationists—even though they euphemistically describe themselves as the "sound money" group.

By the same token, the President answers the revaluationists who demand stabilization of the dollar now.

THE PRESIDENT, in dealing with this subtle economic point, said:

"Some people are putting the cart before the horse. They want a permanent revaluation of the dollar first. It is the government's policy to restore the price level first. I would not know, and no one else could tell, just what the permanent valuation of the dollar will be. To guess at a permanent gold valuation now would certainly require later changes caused by later facts.

"When we have restored the price level, we shall seek to establish and maintain a dollar which will not change its purchasing and debt-paying power during the succeeding generation. I said that in my message to the American delegation in London last July. And I say it now once more."

YET, WITHOUT reasonable controls, the dollar, untied from gold, is subject to vast fluctuations in accordance with the changing whims of international speculators.

This was recently strikingly revealed when the dollar rose sharply after Hitler announced withdrawal of Germany from the Disarmament Conference and the League of Nations.

The erratic sharp increase of the dollar evidently reflected a return flow of repatriated capital as owners became fearful of European conditions.

To meet these accidental and unpredictable disturbances, the President takes the first step toward setting up a series of controls.

He announces that the government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will buy and sell gold in the open market.

* * *

IF THIS POWER is used aggressively, the government will have an effective instrument for limiting the fluctuations in the value of the dollar.

It will substitute management for mere chance.

To this extent, prevailing uncertainty concerning the value of the dollar should be relieved.

To complete the controls, the President should also ask for the right for some governmental agency to set up a foreign exchange equalization fund, with the power to buy and sell exchange on all parts of the world.

With the gold purchase fund, the exchange equalization fund would add another string to the President's bow.

In alluding to the gold purchase arrangement, the President explained:

"My aim in taking this step is to establish and maintain continuous control."

IN RESTATING the final objectives of the administration's reflationary policy, the President declared:

"Finally, I repeat what I have said on many occasions, that ever since last March the definite policy of the government has been to restore commodity price levels.

"The object has been the attainment of such a level as will enable agriculture and industry once more to give work to the unemployed.

"It has been to make possible the payment of public and private debts more nearly at the price level at which they were incurred.

"It has been gradually to restore a balance in the price structure so that farmers may exchange their products for the products of industry on a fairer basis.

"It has been and is also the purpose to prevent prices from rising beyond the point necessary to attain these ends. The permanent welfare and security of every class of our people ultimately depends on our attainment of these purposes."

* * *

THE IMMEDIATE significance of the President's affirmation is that there has been no deviation from the "New Deal" monetary policy.

The program entails no reckless and uncontrolled inflation, but a sensible reflationary impulse to get prices to an equilibrium on a higher level—and then to go no further.

It is clearly a revolt against conventional "sound money," which has entailed financial buccaneering, countrywide epidemics of bank failures, and dishonest shifts in the contracts between debtors and creditors.

As on March 4, the President is for "a sound, but adequate, currency."

Private Building Needed

Construction of Public Works Is Not Sufficient to End Unemployment.

To stimulate re-employment the National Industrial Recovery Act authorizes the expenditure of $3,300,000,000 on public works within a period of two years.

This act is commendable. It should be further recognized that a revival of PRIVATE building construction will go far to accomplish the administration's objective of putting men to work.

To spend three billion three hundred million dollars in two years implies the distribution of one billion six hundred and fifty million dollars in one year. Government work moves slowly. The first year of the public works program is already half gone, but little of the appropriation has been put into circulation.

The public works appropriation includes expenditures for the Navy, highways, forest parks, homesteads, power developments and other engineering operations, and housing. For housing and public buildings there will be available about one billion dollars. Spread over two years this means the spending of five hundred million dollars a year. This in itself is a big contribution toward recovery. But if the stimulus of PRIVATE building construction were coupled with it, ten times this sum would be spent.

A large amount of planned construction is today lying idle in architects' offices. A conservative estimate is that more than two billion dollars' wo... of planned construction of all kinds is being delayed for lack of financing.

During the past three years a large shortage in the housing field has developed. Many buildings have become obsolete and must be modernized or demolished and rebuilt. And it is estimated that some $500,000,000 worth of property is destroyed by fire every year.

The federal government can, if it will, find the ways to remove the obstacles to a revival of building construction. Resumption of building is essential because the building industry employs more workers and consumes a greater variety of materials, produced throughout the United States, than any other single industry.

War on Hashish

At Last a Determined Effort Is to Be Made to Stamp Out the Use of a Dangerous Drug.

Three persons accused of selling cigarets of "marijuana," in violation of a law passed at the last session of the Legislature, have been held for court.

This is said to be the beginning of a determined effort to stamp out the use of "marijuana." The campaign should be carried on relentlessly.

"Marijuana" is a form of hashish, and hashish is a drug that intoxicates its users and drives them to criminal and insane actions.

The word "assassin" is derived from an Arabic word meaning "hashish-eaters." The original assassins were an Oriental sect, formidable in the time of the Crusades, who, under the influence of hashish, committed murders.

Told that "marijuana" was extensively used in the Pittsburgh district and was even grown in the backyards of some of the foreign families living in McKeesport and Homestead, the Sun-Telegraph made an investigation a year or two ago. Its investigators had no difficulty in buying "marijuana" cigarets.

Then state and federal narcotic agents with whom the matter was taken up found there was no law with which to proceed against those trafficking in the drug.

The Legislature remedied the deficiency a few months ago. Now let the law be enforced energetically.

'Hands Across the Sea'

A well dressed, well fed person stands
Across the sea, yet we observe
He isn't one with idle hands.

The other, held behind his back,
Is very busy holding there
A fully filled and weighty sack.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

How Many Personal Rights Have You in 1933?

Two mad letters on my desk. One's from a mother who wants to know why the School Nurse should be showing her how to raise Junior. The other's from a man who wants to know why "those fellows back in Washington" should be telling him how to run his little store.

"Whose affair is it what I feed Junior and when I put him to bed?" cries Mrs. Brown.

"Whose business is it how many hours I keep open, whom I hire or what I pay them?" demands Mr. Jones.

Is or isn't this a free country? Have or haven't private citizens any personal rights any more?

You've heard those questions. Probably you're asking them. What's your answer? How many "personal" rights have YOU, in 1933? HOW MANY SHOULD YOU HAVE?

Your father and mother had plenty of personal rights. So long as they paid their taxes and obeyed the regular laws, they could do pretty much as they pleased. "Experts" meddling in their family affairs, inspecting their business procedure? The idea was unthinkable. Things like that might happen in tyrannical places like Russia and China, but never, never in America!

Yet today just such things are happening in America. Each day more and more of such things are happening. And when we look back we realize that they have been happening with increasing force and frequency for the last 10 years. Yet no one seems able to do a thing about it.

But why? Why should "tyranny" like this have come to "the land of the free"?

The answer is simple—but hard to take. This meddlesome supervision isn't tyranny. It is the inevitable consequence of a more crowded and complicated life. You can do about as you please if you're living by yourself on a frontier. But as soon as you begin to live with other people—as soon as you begin to depend on them and they on you—that moment your "individual rights" diminish and you are forced to live for the common good.

Why can't Mrs. Brown and Mr. Jones run their private affairs to suit themselves?

BECAUSE THEIR AFFAIRS ARE NO LONGER PRIVATE AFFAIRS. WITH THE GROWTH OF THIS COUNTRY THEY HAVE BECOME PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

Junior isn't just a part of the Brown family. He is a part of America. He is one unit in a tremendous machine. If he works harmoniously, all will be well with the machine. But if he runs hog-wild, he raises Cain with all the other units.

Why do School Nurses, Truant Officers, Health Officials come snooping around, interfering with Mrs. Brown's "freedom?" That's why. Because unless someone cramps Mrs. Brown's style a little, she'll cramp everyone else's style a lot.

Nor is Mr. Jones' store just a part of the Jones career. It is part of American Industry and it can have no more "private rights" than the other parts have.

And this is exactly as true of super-mothers as it is of silly ones; of super-businessmen as of the little fellows in one-hoss towns. WHETHER YOU'RE GOOD OR WHETHER YOU'RE BAD, YOU MUST CONFORM. YOU CAN'T BE A LAW TO YOURSELF IN 1933.

Sounds simple enough, doesn't it? Yet these simple facts are the bitterest medicine we "free" Americans have ever had to take. For we've been taught that "rugged individualism" is the great thing in an American. Each man for himself!

Yet the plain truth is that the "old-fashioned, rugged individualist," who insists on being himself and following his own plan, when the common good depends on co-operation, IS AS MUCH A PUBLIC ENEMY AS ANY OUTLAW.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—For 21 years ruddy-cheeked, white-aproned Frank of the Ritz has been bowing to Americans in his double-roomed drinkery in rue Cambon. So his recent visit to New York became a returning welcome to the bar-man who has welcomed more visitors than any other person in France.

In Paris, Frank is an institution, along with the Arc de Triomphe. His autograph book of celebrities is the most complete in the world, so valuable it's kept constantly in a locked safe. As Frank Meier he is a millionaire—in francs, of course—with a seventeenth century chateau at Neuilly on a large terraced estate.

But as Frank of the Ritz he dons white coat every morning and directs the assuaging of the American thirst. His ladies' bar, the "sweat room," across the corridor from the men's bar, is a compact little room with a single window, that overflows from 5 to 8 p. m. The men's bar is the only one in Paris denied to women.

At 9 p. m. promptly, the bars close. Not even Wales will be served after that. One may become vin triste in Frank's sanctuary once—but once only. After that he finds waiters studiously avoiding. Great names remain on Frank's blacklist. He will return to open the New York Ritz's bar—when!

H. H. Rogers' hobby is cooking. He's never so happy as in a kitchen fashioning onion soup or some savory dish. A careful student of cuisine, some of his dishes are famed among gourmets. He likes to gather a group of intimates on his yacht and put them to work in his kitchen to help prepare a meal. He acts as the overlord and each dinner guest is given something to do, from peeling potatoes to basting a turkey. The dinner is always a triumph, too.

A mild-mannered and beautiful wife of a certain writer has to fight off an overwhelming urge to throw things at parties. The spirit is merely larkish and mostly she stifles such unseemly caprices. But now and then she gives way. Recently she asked a hostess not to put a butter ball in front of her. The request was ignored and in the midst of a decorous discussion the globule went flying across the table to kerplunk on a fat man's bald head. "I told you!" cried the guilty lady, who, red with confusion, rushed out of the room.

All of us, I believe, suffer from similar freaks of nonsense. Mine is innocently to trip such long-legged fellows as Bob Sherwood or H. T. Webster rushing down theater aisles. Often I have to read programs intently to squelch the seizure. Only once have I succumbed. Then the effort was only partly successful. The victim, Leo Marsh, if you must know, merely tripped into a few quick steps instead of measuring his length. Some day, however, I will get my man. And likely spend the next day laughing off a moused eye.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Lovers—And Others

The man who thinks that a permanent wave and a facial are sheer luxuries deserves to be married to the woman who does not regard beer, golf clubs and seats at the football games as necessities.

Many a man goes to his grave still wondering whether he "won" the woman he married, or merely gave IN to her, through sheer masculine weakness.

The trouble with most love-affairs and marriage, like the trouble with most whisky and wines, is that they are too "green," and never get a chance to mellow in these rushing days.

The "Gay Deceiver" might come back into favor again, along with corsets and puffed sleeves, except that it takes up too much of a busy modern girl's time and energy to help him deceive himself.

You are not really "in love" so long as you can even IMAGINE that another man's kisses might be thrilling "just for a change."

A "perfect lady" is one who uses a bridge lamp or an ash-tray instead of a frying pan or a rolling-pin to force home the logic of an argument with her husband.

A woman will voluntarily confess secrets to her masseuse or her hairdresser that she wouldn't tell in her prayers—much less admit to her lawyer.

It has been discovered that the average man's brain is heavier than the average woman's—which is probably why it moves so slowly toward the altar that a girl gets all fagged out waiting for it to catch up.

The "healing" power of psychoanalysis is simply that it gives a woman a chance to sit and talk about herself, for HOURS to a man who hasn't got his nose buried in the newspaper, and doesn't look as though he were waiting for a truck to go by.
